BULLETS FLY IN MIDNIGHT DUEL

...cores Die in Blazing Hell

...ENCH TUNNEL IS ...AGING INFERNO AS ...WO TRAINS CRASH

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

...EL, Oct. 5.—A rear-end collision of two suburban trains ...-mile tunnel leading to the St. Lazare railroad station ...d to terrifying scenes and the death of thirty-three per... The wrecked cars burst into flames and the disaster was ...e more terrible by the explosion of a gas reservoir.

Sixteen bodies have been recovered. Of twenty persons seriously injured and brought to a hospital, sixteen have died, while sixty slightly injured have been taken from the tunnel. This, however, gives no idea of the extent of the disaster, because the firemen and others engaged in the work of rescue have been unable to get any distance within the tunnel, owing to the gas fumes.

FLAMES STOP CRIES.

The fire spread with great rapidity and for a time cries of distress and the moans of the dying were heard on all sides, but these finally were silenced, though the crackling of the blazing wooden coaches could still be heard.

The firemen were not prepared for the barrage of poisonous fumes which assailed them as they reached the scene.

Finally they succeeded in playing four streams on the last coaches at the St. Lazare end of the tunnel, but these were empty and not burning, while seventeen coaches in the center of the tunnel were burning fiercely.

At no time could the firemen get closer than five hundred feet from the inferno. Now and then a passenger with blackened face would come straggling out, begging the helpless firemen, police and soldiers to enter the tunnel and save the dying.

VISION OF HELL.

The Minister of Public Works, M. Le Troquer, who helped direct the rescue work, described it as "a vision of hell." He announced the dead would be buried and the injured receive medical treatment at the expense of the state.

About 100,000 commuters surrounded the yards, but were refused admittance. Confusion resulted, and many commuters retired to the barracks, placed at their disposal by the government.

An American Red Cross unit was among the first in th erelief work.

The accident is said to have been due to the breaking of an airbrake pipe on the first train, and it is thought the train following came into collision through faulty working of the signals.

MORE DRY VIOLATIONS.

Predicts Increase in Strictures of Federal Prohibition Law; Asks Eighteen New Judges.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

...NGTON, Oct. 5.—Chief Justice Taft believes that violations ...ibition law will greatly increase. He expressed this view to... in his office in the Supreme Court robes and appeared as a wit... before the Senate Judiciary Committee to plead for prompt enact... to create eighteen additional Federal judgeships to relieve ... congestion of Federal court dockets.

"Do you think prohibition cases will increase," Senator Reed of Missouri asked the Chief Justice.

"I do not hesitate to say that I believe violations of the prohibition law will greatly increase before they begin to get fewer," the Chief Justice replied.

ADDED TO CONGESTION.

The Volstead Act, according to Chief Justice Taft, has added considerably to the congestion in the Federal courts, but not as much as is generally supposed. He estimated that the prohibition violations had increased the business of the courts about 8 per cent.

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, also before the committee to urge the additional judgeship bill, differed from the Chief Justice regarding the prospective increase in the prohibition cases.

"Prohibition cases have reached their peak now," Daugherty said. "At the outset it was believed that the dry law could not be enforced. I have seen that theory disappear."

BELIEVES PEAK REACHED.

Senator Sterling of South Dakota, leader of the radical dry forces in the Senate, asked the Attorney-General if he did not believe prohibition cases might increase for a time until the methods of enforcement improved.

"No," replied Daugherty, "the peak has been reached and violations will decrease as the people want to see the law enforced."

Daugherty added that State authorities have shown an inclination to leave prohibition enforcement to the Federal government.

ARMY LOSES GEN. WOOD.

Military Career is Reviewed.

"Did More to Remedy Nation's Unpreparedness Than Any Other," Says Weeks.

Began Life of Soldier in 1885 Against Indians and Gained Honors.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Maj.-Gen. Wood was declared to have done more to remedy America's unpreparedness prior to the nation's entrance into the World War than any other individual, in a letter written today by Secretary of War Weeks to the general, whose retirement from the active list of the Army became effective, permitting him to assume the Governorship of the Philippine Islands.

Briefly reviewing the officer's military career, Mr. Weeks said the wise foresight displayed by Gen. Wood in organizing the citizens military training camps before the United States entered the war had furnished thousands of young officers for that struggle.

COUNTRY APPRECIATIVE.

"I do not consider," the Secretary wrote, "that it is too much to say that your efforts contributed more to remedy our unpreparedness for war than those of any other individual, and for this your country will give you credit long after the circumstances which decided you the privilege of commanding in battle the troops you trained are forgotten.

"Your retirement is well deserved after this long term of eminent usefulness. Your career belongs to the Army as an inspiration to high aims and energetic accomplishment.

"In behalf of the military service, I wish you all success and happiness."

IN ARMY THIRTY-SIX YEARS.

Gen. Wood's voluntary resignation from active Army service terminated more than thirty-six years of distinguished military life. His retirement was caused by insistence of administration officials that he accept the Philippine post, and the refusal of Congress to permit him to do so while continuing his active Army status.

In announcing the general's retirement, Secretary Weeks said he would select a Vice-Governor for the islands and expected immediately to commission Gen. Wood to duty as Governor-General.

Gen. Wood began his Army career as a surgeon in June, 1885, immediately entering the service with troops in the Apache campaign in Arizona and in Mexico. As commander of an infantry detachment in that campaign he was commended for gallant and hazardous service, courage and energy, and later was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest compliment the nation has to give, for distinguished conduct in the Apache fighting.

RE-ENTERS THE RANKS.

When the Indians were pacified and their leader, Geronimo, taken, the surgeon dropped his fighting weapons temporarily and again returned to the practice of medicine and surgery at Army headquarters in Arizona. When the Spanish-American War was declared in 1898 he re-entered command at ranks, organized and commanded the first United States volunteer cavalry (Rough Riders) and later he was transferred to command the second brigade, cavalry division, in the Cuban campaign, in which capacity he entered the fight at Las Guasimas and San Juan.

When the Spanish forces surrendered the general was appointed Military Governor of Santiago, commander of the department of Santiago and Civil Governor of that Province and Military Governor of the island of Cuba. He turned the government of the island over to Thomas Palma, first President of the republic of Cuba, in 1902, and returned to the United States.

About a year later he was ordered to proceed to the Philippines as commander of the Department of Mindanao. He also acted as Civil Governor of the Moro Province and in other administrative work until 1908. The experiences and understanding of the natives thus gained and later as a member of the special commission sent by the President to investigate conditions in the Philippines, undoubtedly were responsible for his selection for the new post.

PENDING TAX BILL O.K.'D.

Sales Proposal Now Lost.

Midnight Meeting at Capital of Senators Agrees to Defeat Substitute.

Rates of Low Incomes Will be Lowered and Those on Large Ones Raised.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Last night, just before midnight, the agricultural bloc of Senators took action at the home of Senator Capper which practically insures the passage of the pending tax bill and the defeat of the substitute sales tax bill proposed by Senator Smoot. The conference was attended by most of the Senators from the Middle and Far West, and by Senator Lodge, Republican leader of the Senate.

The conference voted to have its representatives confer with the Finance Committee today and secure the committee's assent to the changes proposed. If this is done, as seems certain now that it would be, the bill probably can pass within a few days and with practically every Republican vote in its favor.

SALES TAX LOSES.

Senator McNary of Oregon explained that the proposed sales tax would work a great hardship on the agricultural producers, and all support for this measure then was withdrawn by the Senators attending the conference. The amendment of Senator McNary, abolishing all transportation taxes on express, freight and passenger traffic on and after Jan. 1, 1922, was unanimously indorsed. It was voted by the conference to demand the restoration of tax on capital stock of corporations to partly offset the loss due to the repeal of the excess-profits tax.

The taxes on incomes of $25,000 or less are to be reduced in percentages, and the taxes on incomes of $200,000 or more are to be increased from 32 per cent to 50 per cent on a graduated scale. Some minor changes also are recommended, which are of slight importance, but with the acquiescence of the Finance Committee in these changes a solid Republican vote is assured, and the bill will be soon passed by the Senate and sent to conference.

HARDING OF OPEN MIND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The tangle in Congress over tax revision legislation was given the attention of the administration today at conferences between President Harding and Senate and House leaders. What position the President may take regarding substitution of a sales tax for the miscellaneous excises in the pending bill was not disclosed, those who saw Mr. Harding declaring he was keeping an open mind.

Meantime groups in the Senate went forward with conferences on the whole subject, and opponents of the pending measure continued their assaults on it. The Democrats on the Finance Committee put in their minority report which declared the bill "neither fulfills the promise of the Republican party for a simplification of tax law and procedure, nor satisfies the demand of the Democratic party for a complete survey of existing taxes and their modification and simplification."

LA FOLLETTE KICKS.

Senator La Follette, a Republican member of the Finance Committee, also filed a minority view, declaring he was in general accord with the Democratic report in so far as it

HOSTILITIES ON LARGE SCALE LIKELY SOON IN THE BALKANS IS VIEW OF AMAZED AMERICAN

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Hostilities on a large scale appear to be possible in the Balkans, according to Charles Hitchcock Sherill of New York, former United States Minister to Argentina, who has returned to Paris from a trip which took him to Bucharest, Belgrade and Budapest.

"I am amazed," said Mr. Sherill today, "to find in Rumania what may be called a 'levee en masse.'"

He declared Rumania was explaining her action by saying it had become necessary to declare martial law in Bessarabia and Transylvania, the former territory having been received by Rumania from Russia and the latter from Hungary by virtue of treaties following the World War. He said Serbia's action was explained by affirming that military action was required in Bosnia and Herzogovina.

Long Beach Lad Badly Wounded During Hold-up

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MODESTO, Oct. 5.—A. J. Mohr, 78, tonight shot Joseph Cooper, 23, of Long Beach, in an attempt to hold up Mohr's store. According to the story Mohr told the police, Cooper, with his brother William and Gordon S. Beebe, entered the store and, presenting a pistol, ordered the grocer to throw up his hands. Instead of complying, Mohr drew a revolver from his pocket and fired, the bullet striking Cooper in the back as he tried to escape, Mohr said.

Joseph Cooper was hurried to a hospital and the other two were lodged in the city prison. The Coopers said their father lived at 1033 Alameda avenue, Long Beach.

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—Miss Dolores Johnson, sister of James E. Mahoney, who was found guilty, last Saturday of first-degree murder for the slaying of his wife, Kate M. MRS. ROOSEVELT WITNESS.

Widow of Former President Appears to Testify Against Woman Charged With Forging Colonel's Name.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, widow of Theodore Roosevelt, was a witness today in Part IV of General Sessions at the trial of Mrs. Emma Richardson Burkett of Hillsdale, Ind., on a charge of forgery. Mrs. Burkett is charged with having placed Col. Roosevelt's name on a note for $60,000, made out to herself.

Mrs. Roosevelt was accompanied by her cousin, George Emlen Roosevelt. He managed Roosevelt's business affairs and is an executor of his estate.

Mrs. Burkett was indicted in July and extradited from Indiana. Her story of the note relates that Col. Roosevelt signed it at the time of the Republican convention at Chicago in June, 1912, when the Bull Moose insurrection was about to start.

Last year she presented her claim to the Roosevelt executors and they denied it. When she presented the note to a bank an investigation followed.

Mrs. Roosevelt was shown the note, which is indorsed by "Col. Theodore Roosevelt." She pronounced it to be clearly a forgery, adding that throughout his life, Roosevelt never used any signature but "Theodore Roosevelt."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she was with the ex-President during the Chicago convention of 1912 and never heard him speak of Mrs. Burkett or any loan she might have advanced him. She further testified that "a friend" of her husband told him, in her presence, that he need not worry about money with which to carry on his campaign in case a break with the Republican organization came; that money would be supplied from the friend's pocket.

George Emlen Roosevelt said he was the ex-President's business manager; that Roosevelt was too busy with the affairs of his public life to attend to business matters, and that these were watched for him by the witness.

Roosevelt said that he never knew of any such transaction as Mrs. Burkett had described. He added that he was with the colonel through the Chicago convention and at all times and never saw him meet Mrs. Burkett.

Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew of the colonel, said that he was also with Roosevelt constantly at Chicago and never saw Mrs. Burkett.

Hugo Stinnes Facing Trial as Profiteer.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Accused of cheating the German War Department out of millions of marks by not paying war prisoners their full wages, Hugo Stinnes & Co. faced criminal trial at Essen today. This case is the first official attention to numerous charges, many of them made openly by Socialists in the Reichstag, that Hugo Stinnes was Germany's greatest war profiteer, that he sold war materials to both sides through his affiliations in neutral countries and that in his official capacity during the war he systematically ordered the destruction of certain Belgian and French industries for no other reasons than to prevent the reconstruction of these rival industries after the war.

It is believed that enormous legal consequences will result from the Essen trial.

DARING BANDIT SHOOTS AT OFFICERS; WOUNDED, ROBBER MAKES ESCAPE

In an extraordinary duel in the dark late last night an unidentified burglar escaped, wounded, through a hail of lead from the revolvers of two policemen.

The burglar, a porch climber who has lately raided several fashionable homes in the University district, entered the home of Walter J. Duzan, 1615 South Wilton Place, by the front-porch pillars while the members of the family were still in the rooms on the first floor. While he was gathering up a rich collection of loot he dropped one object on the floor. The noise was heard by Mr. Duzan. Suspecting the burglar's presence, he quietly called the University Police Station by telephone.

BURGLAR TRIES BLUFF.

Officers M. D. Moran and F. C. Knotts rushed to the place in a fast car. As they descended a man stepped down from the front porch and calmly approached the sidewalk. It was the burglar, who had overheard the telephone conversation and had slid down the porch pillars as he went up.

Not suspecting his identity, Officer Moran said to him: "Is this the place?" The stranger replied in the affirmative. But he forgot that he was holding a .45-caliber automatic in one hand. The policeman saw it, suspected the truth and jumped for him. The burglar shoved the gun in Moran's stomach.

"Put 'em up, you ——— ———!" he growled.

OFFICER GRAPPLES THUG.

Patrolman Moran did not put 'em up. Instead, he jumped sideways and grappled with the porch climber. The latter tore loose and ran. Moran pulled his own gun and opened fire. The burglar reached the corner of a near-by building and turned on the officers. He had two guns and the three of them shot it out till their revolvers were empty. One of Knott's bullets evidently found its mark, judging from the trail of gore from the burglar. While the officers were reloading, the man climbed a fence and got away. Thorough search of the neighborhood by the University police failed to locate him. One of his guns, the .45, he lost in the affray. It was one he had taken from the Duzan residence.

The man is described as being about 30 years old, weighs 175 pounds, 5 feet 7 inches tall, fair-skinned, smooth-shaven, wore a dark gray cap and suit and black shoes. He has a record of many daring jobs in the same vicinity.

FRANCE MAY TENDER AID TO AMERICA IN PACIFIC.

London Times Alarmed by Proposal; Japs Will Ask for World Open Door and Removal of Race Barriers.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The London Times in an editorial today discusses a dispatch from its special correspondent in Paris which asserts some of the French publicists have proposed that France should, in the Washington conference, tender her support to the United States over the Pacific problems in return for American support for France over problems in Europe.

It designates the proposal as "perhaps an even more pernicious tendency" than that which it says is shown in some quarters in France. Heretofore, to treat the conference as a far-away matter, of little consequence to Frenchmen.

Relative to the proposal of bargaining with the United States, the Times declares:

"It is unnecessary to insist upon the short-sightedness and ignorance which such a project reveals.

"Happily, our special correspondent is able to report that the responsible public men of France understand the fatuity of this childish conception."

JAPS WANT OPEN DOOR.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Oct. 3 (Delayed.)—Premier Hara is quoted by the Toreuchoho today as saying that the Japanese delegates at the Washington conference on Far Eastern questions and limitation of armaments plan to attain perfect agreement among the powers, based on the fundamental principle of respect for a world open door, the removal of barriers between the different races and assurance of the existence of mankind.

"Japan's answer to the American agenda proposals will, of course, embody the above principles," the Premier declared.

The conference at the Dairen between the representatives of Japan and the Far Eastern republic of Siberia, he said, was progressing. The questions discussed, he added, mainly concerned commercial and industrial freedom in Siberia, guarantees for life and property, the right to lease land, and customs.

Japan's policy concerning the evacuation of Siberia remains unchanged, he declared, and the withdrawal will be carried out at the proper time, which the government itself will decide.

TELL OF FINDING BODY.

Reporter and Police Chief First Two Witnesses in Trial of Hightower, Accused of Priest's Murder.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 5.—George Lynn, a San Francisco newspaper man, today told the jury that is trying William A. Hightower on the charge of murdering Father Patrick E. Heslin of Colma how the remains of the priest were discovered. He said Hightower, in the darkness and fog of the night of August 10, led a party of newspaper men and police to a spot in the sandy cliffs of Salada Beach, where they found the priest's body.

Lynn said he previously questioned Hightower, who said a woman had told him that a foreigner had visited her and exhibited a revolver. On expressing fear of it the man had said: "You had better be afraid of this gun, it's killed a man."

The girl plied the man with liquor and he added, according to the story Lynn said Hightower told him:

"I have something very valuable buried, and I have a man watching it; a man cooking hot cakes."

MIGHT BE LIQUOR.

Lynn testified that Hightower said he thought the object buried possibly was Father Heslin, but that it might be "booze."

Lynn testified Hightower told him he had not informed the police because his girl informant was in the "bootlegging" business, and his purpose was to obtain the reward offered for the recovery of the priest, alive or dead. This reward amounted to about $3000.

In all his movements, Lynn testified, Hightower showed familiarity with the unmarked cliffs where the body was found. He said Hightower told him the girl who related the foreigner's story was Dolly Mason, whom he had brought from Salt Lake City to Sacramento and San Francisco.

The testimony of Chief of Police O'Brien was largely corroborative of Lynn's. He told of taking the sacrament and other articles from the priest's body.

The Rev. James Cantwell, secretary of the diocese of San Francisco, identified a letter which he said he had received August 3, demanding a ransom of $4500 for recovery of Father Heslin.

Before the court convened today R. J. Letts, one of the jurors accepted yesterday, told Judge George H. Buck that he had talked freely concerning the case prior to becoming a juror. After an hour's conference between the judge and counsel for both sides, it was decided to release Letts from duty.

POLITICAL POT BOILING AGAIN.

Arizona Leaders Lining Up for Next Fight.

Senator and Governor Are to be Selected Soon.

Campbell May Enter Battle for Capital Post.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 5.—Already the politicians are deep in consideration of possibilities for the next general election, especially with regard to the Senatorship and the Governor's chair.

Henry Ashurst will have the Democratic nomination to succeed himself as Senator, without contest. The Democrats tell that Ashurst has outgrown any socialistic ideas he might have had, and claims that he has become one of the leaders of the Senate minority. Ashurst is an orator of exceptional sort and is expected to strengthen himself materially on the stump between now and election time.

Against him there now appears all probability of the nomination of Thomas E. Campbell, though this is all assumption, as Gov. Campbell has not declared himself on the subject. All he has said is to the effect that this is his last term as Governor. It is known he has had attractive offers in a business way, but the Senatorship, too, has attractions.

NEVER BEEN BEATEN.

The Governor never has been beaten at the polls for State office and is considered stronger than ever. He is a very able campaigner, with no oratorical tricks, but possessed of a ringing delivery that never fails to reach the edge of any Arizona audience and to hold it. At the same time he knows by their first names probably more men than any other candidate who ever ran in Arizona. Oddly, he has no machine, even within the State official family. He has no enemies within his party and, as his last vote showed, has many Democratic friends.

Most of the names offered in succession to the Governorship come from the central part of the State, though James S. Douglas of Douglas still is mentioned, despite denial from near friends. Judge R. C. Stanford, who contested the Democratic Senatorial nomination with Mark Smith in the last primary, is said to be in receptive mood. Also mentioned is W. H. Ward, attorney for the Cattlemen's Association, John R. Norton and L. L. Harmon, prominent cattlemen, and W. H. Plunkett, Mayor of Phoenix.

All, save Douglas, are residents of Phoenix. Possibly there has been consideration of the fact that Maricopa county, which includes Phoenix, and normally a Democratic, of late years has been giving a majority to the Republicans at the head of the tickets, including governors and legislators.

REPUBLICAN LINE-UP.

On the Republican side the suggestions for Governor include President H. B. Wilkinson of the State Senate, from Maricopa county, Rudolph Kuehler, who has shown capability in the office of Land Commissioner, and Thomas B. Maddock, State Engineer. Kuehler, last election, was unsuccessful in a race for Tax Commissioner, and Maddock, in an effort for the Republican Senatorial nomination. It happens that the three Republican mentioned also have Phoenix as their home.

There is speculation concerning the effect on Arizona politics that will come through the return of former Gov. G. W. P. Hunt, who, for more than a year, has been American Minister to Siam. Hunt has written that he is eager to get back to Arizona and to mix in politics. Since his absence his progressive or radical wing of the Democratic party has been submerged, with the old guard in the saddle.

It is said that this has come through the departure of thousands of miners and other workmen, unemployed by reason of the closing of the mines. But the mines are expected to reopen within a few months, possibly restoring the old condition within the party, wherein the progressives were considered as slightly more numerous than the conservatives. There is no assumption, however, that Mr. Hunt is coming back with any intention of running for office.

MANILA (P. I.) Oct. 5.—Inauguration of work by the Rockefeller Foundation to eradicate tuberculosis in the Philippine Islands and possibly to take up the fight against leprosy as well, may follow the short visit here of John D. NEW YORK BANK HAS NEW HEAD.

W. O. Potter Succeeds C. H. Sabin as President of Guaranty Trust Company.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—At a meeting of the directors of the Guaranty Trust Company, W. O. Potter was elected president to succeed Charles H. Sabin. Sabin was unanimously elected chairman of the board. Two new directors were elected. They are: E. R. Stettinus and George Whitney, both of J. P. Morgan & Co.,

The announcement is an echo of rumblings that have been heard in the financial district for several months and probably marks the final stage in the clearing up of a situation that has hung over the security markets for some time, causing some uneasiness at times.

The shifting of places by Sabin and the advent of two representatives of the house of Morgan on the board of the Guaranty Trust are of equal significance. Ever since the good offices of a banking pool were invoked to straighten out the affairs of the Mercantile Bank of the Americas, an offspring of the Guaranta, a member of the Morgan firm, Thomas W. Lamont, has had a hand in the management of the Guaranty, serving on the most important committee in the organization, but the connection was never publicly announced.

The Morgan interest now becomes a matter of record.

The Mercantile Bank was organized to promote foreign trade, and large sums of money were loaned on commodities, principally in South American countries. With the slump in prices of the last two years and the unsettlement in the foreign exchange markets of the world, the security behind the obligations held by the bank became impaired in value.

It was found necessary to double the capital of the bank, making it $20,000,000, and to obtain the assistance of a banking pool, which advanced credits to the amount of $45,000,000.

Sabin was made the object of much criticism in connection with the management of the Mercantile Bank, of the stock of which the Guaranty Trust Company held 40 per cent, and today's action by the Guaranty board caused no surprise in the financial district.

Guaranty Trust stock has recently been selling around $170 or $180, which compares with $350 two years ago. Recently the company reduced its dividend rate and made public a statement showing a substantial shrinkage in its surplus account through the setting aside of a reserve.

Later he was assigned to Camp Funston, Kan., to organize the Eighty-ninth Division. With other divisional officers he went on a preparatory inspection trip to France while the American Army was in the making, and was injured there by the bursting of a French gun.

On his return to the United States, Gen. Wood completed the training of the Eighty-ninth for battle, but got no chance to serve with it abroad, as he was relieved on the eve of embarkation, precipitating a controversy that raged in the press for months, even during Gen. Wood's campaign for the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

Buckalew, secretary of the Near East Relief.

At the afternoon session Daniel C. Murphy, president of the federation, called upon Harry A. Ryan, labor organizer, to address the delegates. Ryan spoke long and heatedly, arousing Kasper Bauer, San Jose Butchers' 506, who took exception to his remarks. Disorder seemed near, but the disturbance was quickly quieted by the president.

CONGRESS MAY ADJOURN SOON.

at the time when the conference is trying to get settled down to work.

The old heads among the Republican leaders know that the country wants the arms meeting to be successful and they know that if delegations come here to march up Capitol Hill with a demand for this or a demand for that, the effect will be irritating to some of the conferees who are acting in behalf of foreign governments.

They know that the surest way to help make the meeting a failure will be to anger the statesmen who have come here from long distances to try to make it a success.

Congress, under the Constitution, must meet early in December in its first regular session, but by that time it is for the conference will be well under way and the conferees will have been given time to know that the bulk of the American people are with them if they show a disposition to strive sincerely to reach the desired end. At that time delegations storming Capitol Hill cannot hope for support from the country and cannot hope to produce the resentment necessary among the conferees to put them at outs with the whole armament limitations procedure.

LIMITATION OF NAVIES.

It has been supposed heretofore that the question of the reduction of the navies of the world would concern itself almost wholly with the attitudes of Great Britain, Japan and the United States. It may be that Italy will have something rather strong to say, or at any rate to press quietly concerning action on the limitation of navies.

France has never shown any anxiety concerning the navy situation. France believes today that Great Britain and the United States have a friendship for her which will protect her coasts and she feels that she has enough ships of her own to do police duty in her various noncontiguous positions. France is concerned almost wholly in armament limitations matters with her army.

Italy seemingly wants to keep a navy as big as that of France. There is no particular friction between the two countries, but each has North African possessions, and, moreover, Italy is somewhat concerned over possible future activities of Czecho-Slovakia. She feels, apparently, that France is not entirely in accord with her policy as it concerns one or two of the countries which recently have come into existence as independents.

It cannot be assumed that the Japanese are in a better mood toward the disarmament conference as a result of recent dispatches of American authorship which have come from the Orient and which have been given wide publicity through the press.

The Japanese have gone ahead at navy building and, it is said, that they are constructing huge defensive works at one of their few island possessions which never before has been defended.

PRESIDENT MUM ON TAX REVISION

criticised the "proposals of the majority to reduce the superiaxes upon large individual incomes, to repeal the excess profits tax and the capital stock tax, to retain the transportation taxes and to greatly aggravate the existing disparity between corporation and individual and partnership taxes."

He added, however, that he felt the minority recommendations would "do little more than palliate some of the monstrous inequities of this bill, without curing any of its fundamental evils."

"There is nothing to be gained by the forced and inconsiderate enactment of the present bill," said the minority report. "The bill affords no relief to the country. There will be no reduction effective this calendar year—nine months after the advent to full power of the party which promised immediate relief from oppressive war taxes. Practically every change in the rates or repeal of present taxes is postponed until January 1, 1922, and the reductions made after January 1, 1922, are to be accomplished through promised cuts in expenditures that may not materialize, with contingent borrowings in this event, as well as certain borrowings to pay the $170,000,000 estimated to meet savings stamps and Pitman Act, redemptions and expenditures.

AID FOR WEALTHY.

"The purpose of the Republican majority seems to have been centered upon the exemption of millionaires from the higher surtaxes and the exemption of corporate interests and monopolies from the payment of proper taxes upon inordinate profits. In pursuit of this purpose the committee has divided the income tax payers of the country into two classes; those who have incomes greater than $66,000 a year; and those who have incomes less than $66,000 a year.

"There are 11,077 millionaires in the first class and 5,321,683 people in the second class. The committee in its solicitude for wealth has accorded these 11,077 millionaires very substantial relief by the repeal of the higher brackets of the surtaxes, while the 5,321,683 ordinary taxpayers have been given no substantial relief."

Major, Sued By Wife, Says Income Not in Excess of $100.22.

Maj. John Wallace Fox Diss, insurance broker and land agent, appeared before Judge Summerfield yesterday in the suit of Mrs. Diss, who asks for separate maintenance and says that her husband has an income of $500 per month. He stated, however, that he has no property and that his income for the last eight months has not averaged in excess of $100.22 per month. He contended that his wife is far better off financially than he, inasmuch as she owns a one-third interest in a large ranch near Redlands, where she is now residing. Maj. and Mrs. Diss were married in June, 1899, and separated five years ago.

OFFICERS ARE SUED.

Navy Man Demands Heavy Damages For Arrest, Injury to Name.

A bluejacket, Henry Edward Stern, who has served five years in the Navy, and who says overseas duty, filed suit yesterday in the Superior Court for $10,000 against Thomas Ziegler and H. J. Wallace, officers of the law, who, he charges, falsely arrested him and held him in jail under suspicion of having stolen binoculars found in his possession.

Stern contends that he was placed under arrest by the officers, notwithstanding the fact, that he showed his leave of absence and other evidences of identification and offered to pay for a message of inquiry to the U.S.S. Salem, where an answer would have clearly indicated that he was of good character and not subject to arrest. He says he bought the binoculars in France, and that the publicity in connection with his arrest has damaged his reputation and lost him friendships that he valued.

Court Holds There Is No Violation of Law Unless It Is Actually Sold.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The Appellate Court handed down a decision today which brings joy to the cabaret hounds and the proprietors of drink parlors. The court ruled that the presence of bottles of liquor behind the bar means nothing unless the man in the white coat is caught selling it in violation of the law.

On Tuesday the court handed down a decision which, in effect, knocks out the 1 o'clock closing law as applied to restaurants in Chicago.

OPEN ALL NIGHT.

The ruling permits cafes to serve food and provide dancing at all hours of the day or night. It also holds that the city has no power to collect a license fee for such eating places. A large group of cafe owners are planning to take full advantage of the ruling.

The ruling dealing with the presence of whisky behind a bar reverses an action by Judge Gemmill in the Municipal Court in sentencing a saloon proprietor to sixty days' imprisonment for the possession of liquor. A single bottle of whisky was found behind the bar during a police investigation.

PREMIER AND DOCTOR FIGHT.

Britain's War Health Minister Hit on All Sides.

Enemies Declare He Failed in Housing Problem.

Millions Spent Extravagantly, Also is Charged.

BY DAVIS EDWARDS.
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Dr. Addison is out. He is even fighting with Lloyd George, politely, as British politicians always fight, but reverberantly in the columns of the British press and the staid halls of Parliament. Next week they may be pals again. It is thus in British politics.

Why? Because, it is said, when he had charge of housing, a desperately urgent matter, Dr. Addison spent millions with what seem to have been very slight results. This, occurring at a time of high rents, has angered the whole citizenry.

The London population grew steadily during the war and has grown since; housing shortage has been even greater than that would indicate because not only have few new houses been built, but government has occupied immense floor space.

GOT NOWHERE.

Dr. Addison had a great opportunity. Everybody was behind him—Parliament, outside politicians, government and all the people. All admit this. He had funds enough to remake mighty areas, increasing their capacity for holding human beings and making that capacity more comfortable than ever it had been for those so held. His enemies declare that he did none of these things. He was satisfied, they say, with having plans drawn, spending money and getting nowhere.

When he was Minister of Health Dr. Addison proclaimed that health could not be expected in a city crowded as London had come to be because of the increase of population due to the demand for workers in all lines within the boundaries of the metropolis and the absence at the front or in munition factories of the artisans who in pre-war days had built houses or got out the material with which to build them.

Then, when he was given the great housing job, he absolutely failed (they say) after spending sums so vast that they stagger the imagination.

What Dr. Addison actually accomplished seems to have been done without the slightest thought of what the cost would be to the taxpayer—according to his opponents. Among his other great achievements was the gift of a subsidy of about $750 to every builder furnishing accommodations for a single family. But he did not provide for cheap material, he did not find a way to get good labor at a reasonable price—again according to his present opponents.

PREMIER'S HANDY MAN.

When he departed from the Ministry of Health and he became the Lloyd George Minister Without Portfolio, it is said he made the job one which made him a mere handy man for the Premier, who gave him such odd work as needed to be done but happened to be scorned by other ministers. He was, it is stated, a Cabinet roustabout, and for this work he drew the very handsome salary of £5000 per annum. Five thousand pounds, one must remember, would be if exchange were normal, the equivalent of $25,000—a fine salary, one must admit for one without a specified position—a ministerial maid-of-all work.

As Undersecretary of the Ministry of Munitions, Dr. Addison's record is admitted to have been superb; until he unfortunately became interested in public health he was a very popular figure. Lloyd George himself gave him credit for having introduced into the Ministry of Munitions a system of "costings" which reduced the expense of munitions by hundreds of millions of pounds sterling.

On shells alone the saving was £90,000,000, or about $450,000,000.

CAUSE OF ROW.

Dr. Addison's row with the Prime Minister was due to the Premier's refusal to vote further funds for housing schemes which never housed the suffering public. He charged Lloyd George with being unbusinesslike, saying that while the Premier wished to spend vast sums upon Assyrians and other distant human miseries, he was unwilling to spend money on accommodations in their very capital on Englishmen who had served gallantly in one way or another through the war. To this Lloyd George's reply was that millions already had been spent but few houses built.

Americans will find a certain interest in learning that when the Prime Minister of England has discussed this question he frequently has called attention to the fact that no country in the world, not even the United States, has been able to do much of anything with the housing problem.

POLITICAL JEW.

Sir Alfred Mond, who succeeded Dr. Addison as Minister of Health, is one of the best-known political Jews in England, where, since Disraeli's day, Jews always have had a most important share in politics, occupying places of great responsibility with full public confidence. Sir Alfred's contention is that owing to the trade depression incomes have so dropped that scarcely anyone among the working classes, those most affected by the housing shortage, can afford to take the new government houses, even at such low rates as will entail loss upon the nation.

So Dr. Addison and Lloyd George fight while Englishmen must herd or go entirely roofless.

BRUMFIELD BEING TRIED FOR MURDER

Oregon Dentist Accused of Killing Man in Plot to Get Insurance Money.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ROSEBURG (Or.) Oct. 5.—Sitting of veniremen to obtain a jury to try Dr. R. M. Brumfield, Roseburg dentist, for first-degree murder for the alleged slaying of Dennis Russell, progressed rapidly today and seven tentative jurors were obtained when court adjourned.

Selection of a jury began after Judge G. G. Bingham overruled a defense motion for a postponement of the trial until October 24.

Questions asked the talesmen by the prosecuting attorney indicated that the State will accept as jurors only men willing to exact the death penalty on circumstantial evidence.

On the side of the defense corresponding questions showed the attorneys would pass only veniremen willing to accept insanity as a defense.

Dr. Brumfield was surrounded in the courtroom by four guards.

Dr. Brumfield, a dentist, was arrested on a ranch near Calgary, Alberta, July 12, less than a month after the headless body of Dennis Russell was found under the wrecked and burned automobile of Dr. Brumfield near Roseburg. The search for Dr. Brumfield was begun with the discovery of circumstantial evidence indicating that the body found was that of Russell and not Brumfield, although clothing belonging to the dentist was found in the wreckage and Brumfield's signet ring was on a finger of the victim.

Mrs. Brumfield identified the body as that of her husband, and friends of the dentist asserted their opinion that he had been the victim of an automobile accident. County authorities, however, issued a warrant against Brumfield, charging murder of Russell, who was a laborer, living alone in a cabin not far from Roseburg.

Two shots were heard near Russell's place the night of June 13, and witnesses told of having seen Brumfield's automobile speeding along the roads in the neighborhood, one Roseburg man saying he had seen the dentist put a limp form in the car and drive away.

The burning automobile was found not long afterward at the foot of a cliff. The body was partly burned and the head had disappeared. Officers expressed the belief the head had been blown off by dynamite. Bits of scalp were found.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury found the body to have been Russell's and county authorities sent broadcast circulars with a photograph and description of the missing dentist. When arrested, Brumfield was working as a farm hand under the name of Norman Whitney.

Investigators reported Dr. Brumfield was indebted in the sum of about $24,000. They also reported he carried insurance aggregating $27,000, of which $16,000 was life insurance, $10,000 accident, and $1000 automobile.

When arrested Brumfield admitted his identity, according to reports from Calgary, but later insisted he was Russell. While en route from Canada to Roseburg, he said he had been suffering from lapse of memory and could remember nothing that had happened since a few days before the tragedy.

THIRD MAN CONVICTED OF KILLING MERCHANT.

OWEN ROWE GUILTY IN KOPLOS MURDER CASE; IMPRISONMENT ASKED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MARYSVILLE, Oct. 5.—Owen Rowe was found guilty tonight of murder in the first degree for the killing of John D. Koplos, Marysville merchant, last June 30. A Superior Court jury returned the verdict with a recommendation of life imprisonment. Rowe is the third man to be convicted in this case. Jack McGill was convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to life, and Walter Loveless was found guilty of murder in the second degree and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

Koplos was shot and killed in front of his home here, it is alleged, by bandits who attempted to rob him of diamonds valued at $12,000. Rowe, it was said in court today, was convicted of second degree burglary at Los Angeles on Nov. 3, 1917, and sentenced to San Quentin penitentiary. Jack McGill declared Rowe took part in the attempted hold-up.

Spanish Saved by Bravery of Gen. Calvalcanti

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MELILLA, Sept. 30.—A timely act of personal courage by Gen. Calvalcanti today saved a convoy on the way to Tizza from what appeared to be certain disaster.

Strong columns of troops were protecting the convoy carrying supplies, and were showing signs of imminent disruption under the intense fire of the Moroccans from trenches. The firing was inflicting heavy losses on the Spanish native troops, who were rushing from one position to another to escape the hail of bullets.

The columns supporting them were massed and the men were suffering considerable losses because the officers hesitated to disturb the alignment of the ranks. Suddenly Gen. Calvalcanti appeared on horseback amid the fire and shouted toward a group of engineers in the front line:

"Come along boys, for the honor of Spain."

The general dashed forward, followed by his staff and the unit of engineers, and succeeded in arriving at Tizza. Other troops then took courage and disregarding the fire of the Moroccans, drove them off and saved the garrison.

LITTLE CHANGE IN OIL STRIKE FIELDS.

WOMEN GO INTO KERN RIVER DISTRICT; TRY TO GET WORKERS TO QUIT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 5. — The strike situation in the oil fields of the San Joaquin, where the union men went out more than three weeks ago practically halting production, was unchanged today. A new element was brought into the strike when several automobile loads of women went into the Kern River field, almost adjoining Bakersfield, to talk with the men employed there who had declined to join the union or go out on strike. The women interviewed a number of these men, with what success was not announced.

Reports from the various union headquarters over the oil district said there was little change in the situation, which seemed to have become an endurance test.

Strike leaders said today there would probably be little change in the situation until a response was received to their telegram to the Department of Labor, sent Sunday night, and urging the department to arrange government mediation of the existing disputes.

WAR VETERANS ARE EXPLOITED.

Soldiers' Bureau Head Scores Mushroom Schools.

Farming Out of Wounded Men to be Stopped.

Southland is Praised as Rehabilitation Center.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Thirty thousand crippled soldiers of the World War are being exploited in "mushroom" vocational training institutions and farmed out by the government to sweatshops in virtual slavery.

This was the sensational charge made today in an interview by Col. Charles R. Forbes, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, in commenting upon a report he transmitted to President Harding disclosing deplorable conditions in the vocational training system in Chicago.

Col. Forbes issued orders discontinuing a number of private Chicago schools as vocational training institutions because the former soldiers were not receiving proper instruction.

The director also found that the vocationally trained former soldiers were being exploited by Chicago employers in some instances.

As a result of his observations Col. Forbes urges the establishment of at leats four national schools to train ex-service men in all phases of their chosen vocations in order to eliminate the evils attendant upon the farming out of veterans to contract commercial and industrial institutions.

"We have been farming men out to cheap tailoring establishments, exploiting heroes of the war for the benefit of mushroom institutions created for the purpose of getting Federal trainees and government money," said Col. Forbes. "Furthermore, the government has furnished these privately managed training shops with their machinery and equipment.

"I propose to close every mush room institution. There are forty or fifty different types of these. figure there are 80,000 veterans of the total 100,000 now receiving vocational training in places of this character.

"Isn't it rotten on the face of it? It is nothing short of slavery to put men in certain types of these institutions. We want to establish schools so the men will be honestly and properly rehabilitated instead of destroying their morale. We are going to better study the physical, mental and moral side of each man given into our care."

In his report Col. Forbes declared Southern California is more and more the mecca for disabled soldiers and that they are happier and more contented there. Not all of the conditions in California are satisfactory, however, and several changes are recommended by Col. Forebs.

Briefly summarized his observations as to conditions in California are as follows:

"There is an actual need in the San Francisco district for hospital facilities for treatment of two types of cases, namely, tuberculosis and mental and nervous disorders. A very unfortunate condition exists relative to those suffering from mental disorders.

"I have also had occasion to review the entire situation existing at the Palo Alto hospital. This institution is composed of temporary, war-constructed buildings. It is not of a type suited for the beneficiaries of the Veterans' Bureau. One of two things should be done at Palo Alto; either the institution, as soon as other facilities can be made, should be immediately abandoned, or the institution should be renovated or remodeled so as to conform to requisite standards for a first-class institution.

"I have also recommended that the town of Clyde, Cal., formerly a Shipping Board poject, which is now not used, and which has 123 modern bungalows, and a 167-room modern hotel, be made available as a training center. This probably can be converted into a training center with very small expense. I personally inspected the project, and recommend that it be turned over to the Veterans' Bureau.

"From all over the country there is a great influx of men into Southern California. Many of the patients who had been in a number of hospitals throughout the United States appear more contented in this section of the country and make progress toward recovery. But I found that a great many of our men were hospitalized in California hospitals, some of which are objectionable, in that the patients are not receiving the property treatment.

"Arrowhead Springs Hospital, formerly known as the Arrowhead Springs Hotel, is under lease to the government at an annual rental of $62,500. It is situated in the hills about six miles from San Bernardino. (I understand that this hospital was rented to the government with a solemn promise to purchase for development purposes.) At the present time there are 128 patients receiving treatment. The springs are considered as having curative values and are highly desirable for the treatment of beneficiaries of the bureau.

"Except for certain localities, such as California, the present facilities of the government, with proper expansions, are sufficient for the present hospital needs. However, the hospitalization problem, to my mind, is going to be a continuous one, and grow larger instead of diminishing. For the reason, even though the facilities now, with certain amplifications may be adequate. I believe there is no justification on the part of the government for failure to actively push the completion of a permanent hospitalization program."

COMPILES FIGURES ON COPPER STOCKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—A survey of copper stocks, as of September 1, showed a total available supply of 405,051 short tons, including pig copper at the smelters and refined metal ready for the market, Director George C. Smith of the Geological Survey announced today. Nearly one-half of this tonnage was held in trust for the Copper Export Association "for export alone," he said.

"These figures do not include the working stocks of copper in transit and in process of refining, which are much lower than at the beginning of the year, and apparently are reduced to a minimum," he added.

ENGLAND, FRANCE TO PAY BIGGEST SHARE.

EACH ASSESSED 1,800,000 GOLD FRANCS TO KEEP LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—Great Britain and France must pay the largest proportion of the expenses of operating the League of Nations, it was found when the committee charged with determining the share each country should pay, reported to the League Assembly today. Each must pay 9.2 per cent, while China, India, Italy and Japan were placed in the second category, and were called upon to pay 6.65 per cent each.

In the third category were placed Argentina, Spain, Brazil, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia, whose individual shares were fixed at 3.58 per cent.

The scale was graduated downward to .21 per cent, which will be paid by Nicaragua, Luxemburg, Panama, Paraguay, Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras and Liberia.

Great Britain and France will pay 1,800,000 gold francs, while the nations in the second category will each pay 1,360,000.

The four nonpermanent members of the Council—China, Belgium, Brazil and Spain—were re-elected today by the Assembly on the first ballot.

General Observance of June 15 Being Agitated by Association.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Oct. 5.—Formal observance of Magna Charta Day, June 15, in the United States, Canada, Newfoundland, Australia, South Africa, Great Britain, Ireland and New Zealand is being agitated by the Magna Charta Association.

It is not intended by its promoters that a holiday should be declared on that day, but they seek general acknowledgment of the day through magazine articles, newspaper editorials and sermons from pulpits.

"We wish only to educate the English-speaking nations to the origin of all modern civil and religious liberties, and our movement is purely educational," it was explained by Dr. W. J. Johnson, St. Paul, who is on the executive committee.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES IN SOUTHARD CASE.

BELIEVES DEATH OF MEYER DUE TO OTHER CAUSE THAN TYPHOID.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TWIN FALLS (Idaho) Oct. 5.—That the Widal test for typhoid was reliable and that blood specimens taken from the body of Edward F. Meyer thirty hours prior to his death reacted positively to the test was the testimony of Dr. J. F. Coughlin, State witness today in the case of Lyda Meyer Southard, charge with the murder of her former husband.

Dr. Coughlin told a lengthy story of his connection with the case fro mthe time he was first called until Meyer's death on Sept. 7, 1920. Dr. Coughlin had previously stated that in his opinion ptomaine poisoning was responsible for Meyer's death, but in explanation of the signing of the death certificate which attributed death to typhoid, declared he was guided by the tests made by the pathologist of the Twin Falls County Hospital, which tests showed a positive reaction, indicating Meyer was suffering from typhoid.

In his own judgment, he testified, death was due to the presence of some factor other than the germs of typhoid, probably ptomaine poisoning.

The hospital record, according to testimony, showed Mrs. Meyer had free access to Meyer's room and spent considerable time there. On one occasion, she stated that she "knew her husband could not get better," according to one witness.

The drug clerk who said he sold insect exterminator to the defendant in August last year, testified the purchase was of an unusual amount and that he said to the defendant, "what in the world are you going to do with it all," to which the defendant replied that it was to go to a ranch.

Resuming his testimony after the noon recess, Dr. Coughlin said that on the afternoon of September 6, the day prior to Meyer's death, he discussed with Meyer and the defendant the advisability of dispensing with the services of the special nurse.

That evening, he said, Meyer was taken violently ill, all the old symptoms reasserted themselves, and the patient grew steadily worse, until death ensued the following day.

CLAIM LOVE LETTER WRITTEN BY SPENCER.

DEFENDANT IN MURDER CASE DENIES AUTHORSHIP OF MISSIVE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LAKEPORT, Oct. 5.—A love letter addressed to Mrs. E. D. Barber and declared by the prosecution to have been written by John A. Spencer, former clergyman, was introduced in Superior Court here late today at Spencer's trial on charges of having murdered his wife. The defendant, in an interview after court adjourned until tomorrow, denied authorship.

The letter, the prosecution attorneys said, was found in a desk in the Spencer home in Santa Rosa, and was written in December, 1920, six months before Mrs. Spencer's body was taken from Clear Lake, near here. It began: "My Dear Sweetheart," and told how the writer longed to "pass happy hours with you." Mrs. Barber was asked in the letter to meet the writer that night.

Mrs. Barber was referred to by the author of the letter, who signed his name "James," as "my own forever" and urged her to be cautious as "it may mean our great loss forever to each other."

The first witness called at the afternoon session of court today was Mrs. W. A. Miller of San Jose, tenant in a house owned by Spencer there. Mrs. Miller testified that before his wife's death Spencer declared "my wife is a burden to me." Afterwards, however, Mrs. Miller said, Spencer declared to her he "was very happy."

Mary Caldwell, who lived at the home of Mrs. Barber in Santa Rosa, testified that Spencer went to see Mrs. Barber often, staying two or three hours each time.

Ella E. Palmer, Santa Rosa, testified that on many occasions she had seen Spencer's automobile parked in front of the Barber residence.

SENATORS DISCUSS TREATIES; NO ACTION.

SHEPPARD OF TEXAS TALKS FOR EIGHT HOURS AGAINST RATIFICATION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary were before the Senate all day with a speech of six hours by Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, in opposition to ratification and an address by Senator Moses, New Hampshire, a Republican "irreconcilable" in favor of the treaties.

Senator Sheppard discussed proceedings of the League of Nations, which he declared the United States should join and Senator Moses declared the treaties were the "consummation of the struggle . . . to maintain the independence of the United States.

"It cuts us loose at once and I hope forever," said Senator Moses, "from that body of death known as the League of Nations."

He opposed American representation on the Allied reparations commission although, he said, it was no secret that Secretary Hughes favored such representation. He added, however, he did not share the fears expressed by Senator Borah, that the treaties would force the United States into the League.

"I can see no reason why any irreconcilable should withhold his assent to its ratification," he said. Senator Sheppard declared "the only honorable course for this nation is to ratify the Treaty of Versailles and join the League of Nations." The League, he added, had already justified its existence.

COULD ENFORCE LANDIS AWARD.

Make Fulfillment Precedent to Financing.

Chicago Mortgage Bankers Asked to Help.

Windy City Ready for Open Shop, is Opinion.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A means to force both unions and contractors to abide by the Landis building wage decision has been found, it was declared today. Every contract, mortgage or other method of financing new building operations in Chicago will contain a provision that the Landis wage award be strictly adhered to or future funds will be cut off, if the citizens' committee, which has assumed charge of the building industrial problems, has its way.

At a meeting this afternoon the leading mortgage bankers of the city, as well as the representatives of the larger banking institutions, were asked to co-operate with the committee to assure the enforcement of the award.

Declarations were made today that the outside contractors, who had been flouting the working rules, agreements and wage award will be brought into line by this measure and will be forced to co-operate in the enforcement of the Landis award.

MEANS FIGHT IS WON.

"If the bankers include in their mortgages the provision that the Landis award must be complied with in every particular the fight for clean conditions in the building industry has been won," declared F. E. Davidson, president of the Illinois Society of Architects.

The committee today was to appoint smaller committees, each of which will be intrusted with a particular phase of the enforcement of the award. It was planned to have an executive committee of five to assume all responsibility. It was to be so organized as to act with speed and precision.

The declaration of an open shop in the trades that refuse to abide by the decision, the award and suggestions of Judge Landis is likely to prove popular among journeymen of various trades, according to architects and contractors.

The builder of a church near Chicago announced to his men that the Landis award was going into effect. A business agent for the carpenters' union told the men not to return to work. When pay day came around each of the carpenters on the job was interviewed by the contractor.

ARE ANXIOUS TO WORK.

"Only one man struck for the demand of $1.25 an hour," said the contractor. "Each of the others said they were willing and anxious to work for $1 an hour, but stated that they feared they would be slugged if they refused to obey the business agent. The same situation prevails in nearly every other union."

Chicago is ready for an open shop in every union that has betrayed its pledge to abide by the Landis award, according to Mr. Davidson.

"Chicago wasn't ready for an open shop six months ago," declared Mr. Davidson. "The people accepted the dictates of union leaders as a necessary evil. But today, after seeing the unions repudiate an award and a decision handed down by a man of the standing and integrity of Judge Landis, I believe that Chicago is ready for it in the trades that are not loyal to their pledge. The time has come when unions must cease to think about rules and working conditions, the contractors must cease to think about wages to be paid and both must begin thinking about the building industry in terms of the public necessity."

URGE LEGISLATION TO ENCOURAGE PICTURES.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY STATE UNIONISTS; OPPOSE CUT IN NAVY YARDS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN JOSE, Oct. 5. — Consideration of resolutions and nomination of officers were the chief items of business before the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor today. Hugo Ernst, San Francisco, and Seth Brown, Los Angeles, have appeared as candidates for the presidency, which will be vacated by Daniel C. Murphy, San Francisco, while Walter Yarrow, leader of the oil and refinery workers, also is mentioned as a candidate.

Resolutions before the convention urge national legislation to forbid the use of national government insignia for advertising purposes. State legislation to encourage motion pictures as a means of instruction in the public schools, a campaign against wage reductions in the Mare Island navy yard, financial and moral support to the striking oil workers, legislation to prevent importation of Mexican labor under bond, and indorse the forty-four-hour week of the printing trades.

Another resolution before the convention urges further investigation of the cases of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, serving life sentences in connection with a San Francisco bomb explosion with a view to having clemency extended to them by the Governor. Reorganization of the union-labor movement is urged in other resolutions.

MEXICO EXPECTING RECOGNITION SOON.

NEWSPAPER SAYS PRESIDENT HARDING SENDING "PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5.—Reports that Elmer Dover of Tacoma, Wash., had been named personal representative of President Harding in Mexico, which were current some time ago, were revived here today by the newspaper Excelsior. Information "obtained with the greatest difficulty" from high Mexican sources, according to the newspaper, indicated that "overtures from the State Department in Washington" are expected to pave the way for speedy recognition of the Obregon government by the United States were being brought to Mexico City by Dover, who was expected to arrive here this afternoon.

Dover was said to have been given an autographed letter to President Obregon by Mr. Harding, this being the fourth in an important series of personal communications between the two executives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—"President Harding has no personal representatives anywhere," was the statement authorized today by George B. Christian, secretary to the President when attention of White House officials was called to reports in Mexico City by the newspaper Excelsior that Elmer Dover of Tacoma, Wash., had arrived in Mexico City as the representative of Mr. Harding.

Scientists Playing "Put and Take" With Germs Develop Dusky Chicken.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A chicken, black-skinned from drumsticks to neck, has been developed at the Carnegie Institution's experimental evolution station at Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y. The bird popped into the world while scientists were playing put and take with chromosomes germ plasma, whose change in number and shape is held responsible by biologists for racial coloring.

The dusky chicken is not easily distinguishable from an ordinary white-skinned sister, for it is fully clothed in regulation feathers. By lifting these feathers, however, the skin is revealed, jet black, warranted not to run.

ARIZONA MURDERER TO HANG NOVEMBER 4.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 5.—Theodore West is to be hanged November 4 at the State Prison at Florence, for the murder of Lem Smith, whose body was found, last July, near the highway between Oatman and Topock, in the northwestern part of the State. The two had been traveling together, bound from Texas for Los Angeles, where West later was apprehended. He had abandoned his car at Ludlow. In his possession were found many of Smith's effects. He denied guilt and told a story of assault by three men who had been met on the road. The trial was at Kingman.

During the time of his incarceration at Florence West has been acting oddly. By direction of Gov. Campell he was examined lately by two physicians, who declare him sane.

KENTUCKY GIRL WRITES LETTER

How She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sunnyside, Ky.—"I suffered for more than two years with my back and nervousness, and was not able to help my mother do the housework. I took treatment from two doctors and they did not do me any good. Mother saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and I took about ten bottles. It has done me a great deal of good. I weigh 138 pounds and am in good health. I will gladly recommend Vegetable Compound to anyone who suffers with the troubles which I had, and you are welcome to publish my testimonial."—VELMER HENDRICK, Route 1, Sunnyside, Ky.

To many American girls life is often a heavy drag in consequence of illness, and every mother should heed the first manifestations, such as cramps, backaches, headaches and nervousness as Mrs. Hendrick did for her daughter, and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. For over forty years this old fashioned root and herb medicine has been relieving women of just such troubles.

FORCED TO GIVE UP HIS BUSINESS

Retired Merchant Enjoys Life First Time in Years.

Was Extremely Nervous and Run Down in Health.

After Taking Tanlac Feels Like Has Renewed His Youth.

"I'm now sixty years old, but since taking Tanlac I'm eating and sleeping just like I did in the good old days of my boyhood," said B. F. Coffey, well-known retired merchant living at 461 S. Hope St., Los Angeles, Cal.

"In the last few years I found myself getting very weak and scarcely able to keep up. I had almost no appetite, was extremely nervous, and could get nothing to build me up and give me any strength. Finally I became so badly run down and weak I gave up business altogether.

"Well, I came out to California, thinking the change would benefit me, and hearing so much about Tanlac, I started taking it. I've taken seven bottles now and it's nothing short of wonderful the way it has helped me. Why, I have a wonderful appetite and am so strong I can walk all over the city without feeling tired. In fact, Tanlac has helped me so much I can hardly realize that only a short time back I was in such bad shape. I'm enjoying life now for the first time in years and I owe my health to Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Los Angeles by the Owl Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.—[Advertisement.

GERMANS WANT YANKS TO STAY.

Not Enthused Over Proposed Rhine Withdrawal.

Dr. Rosen Mentioned as Likely Ambassador Candidate.

Von Bernstorffs' ex-Secretary also Considered.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The German government is not looking towards the expected withdrawal of American soldiers from the Rhineland with any enthusiasm. The government would rather have the United States troops remain where they are than have the Coblenz area occupied by French troops, an official of the Berlin Foreign Office said today.

GOVERNMENT'S VIEWS.

This statement was in connection with the complaint published a few days ago in the Chancellor's mouthpiece, Germania, from citizens of Coblenz against the conduct of the American forces there. This complaint, coming from an individual, prompted the Germania to publish the statement, which the Foreign Office official said might be taken as representing the government's views. The newspaper pays a tribute to the American administration of the area and the conduct of the troops there and says that the cooperative spirit shown by the United States authorities has resulted in the elimination of many misunderstandings and has given the German population of Coblenz cause for full satisfaction. This newspaper expresses the fear that the withdrawal of the Americans will result in the occupation of the Coblenz zone by French-Africans.

ROSEN MENTIONED.

Dr. Friederich Rosen, Foreign Minister in Chancellor Wirth's Cabinet and foreign envoy at The Hague, is mentioned as the most likely candidate for the German ambassadorship in Washington. His appointment is, however, contingent on the success of the negotiations now in progress between Dr. Wirth and the leaders of the principal political parties looking towards the reconstruction of the Cabinet on a coalition basis that will include the German's People's party and the independent Socialists.

Von Haniel, who was in Washington with Count von Bernstorff before the war and who now is Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, is also being mentioned for the Washington place. Fear is expressed in some quarters, however, that his connection with Von Bernstorff would make him persona non grata in the United States.

All the hotels in Berlin will close tomorrow unless a settlement is reached in the dispute between the proprietors and striking dining-room waiters. For several days the city has been in the throes of a general strike of waiters, and this movement now threatens to involve chambermaids, charwomen and other hotel employees. If these walk out all the allied missions, as well as other guests, must find other accommodations. The hotel proprietors advised the Berlin government of this situation.

Mary Will Not "Chuck" Her Job as Opera Head.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Reports from Paris that Mary Garden will "chuck" the Chicago Grand Opera Association as the result of a set-to with Mrs. Harold F. McCormick were denied in New York today by persons connected with the company here. They expect her to arrive in New York October 21, as she is planning to sail from England a week from Saturday, and is said to be bringing with her a number of the singers of the organization of which she is director-general.

As proof of the untruth of the rumor that Miss Garden is about to resign and surrender the management to George M. Spangler, it is cited that a cable from the diva announced the engagement of a new baritone to replace Titta Ruffo. The acquisition to the personnel of the Chicago company is a Greek, M. Lapa. This news came from Monte Carlo, where Miss Garden has been spending her vacation.

The basis for the story that Miss Garden planned to emulate the example of Mme. Ganna Walska and depart in one magnificent outburst of temperament, was her alleged resentment at Mrs. McCormick's announced plan to return to Chicago and reorganize the company with a new operahouse, year-around opera, and a museum for the centralization of operatic lore and traditions in Chicago.

[EXCL. NEWS DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 5.—A few months ago motor trucks were in use for transporting Mexican cotton pickers to the border, possibly 5000 laborers and children being thus handled. Now trucks are being used to bring pickers in from the South, this method of transportation being found much cheaper than by rail. Charge Youth With Attacking Aged Mother.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. — Charged with throwing his mother down two flights of stairs after she had accused him of the theft of $500 worth of bonds, Horace Gregory, 16 years old, of Brooklyn, was arraigned yesterday charged with grand larceny.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Alice Gregory, is in the Bushwick Hospital with her right leg broken and internal injuries. Because of her internal injuries she will probably have to submit to a surgical operation, physicians say, and her condition is regarded as critical.

Gregory was arraigned on a short affidavit made by Detective James J. Govern, who charges that on August 30 the youth took a gold watch and chain valued at $115, belonging to his mother, went to the mountains for two weeks and upon his return pleaded with his mother for forgiveness.

Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills Will KEEP YOUR BOWELS REGULAR AS A CLOCK

MOTHER!

Your Child's Bowels Need "California Fig Syrup"

Every mother! Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

"Diapepsin" for Bad Stomach, Indigestion

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" now! In five minutes your stomach feels fine and you don't bother what upset your stomach or which portion of the food did the damage. If your stomach is sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps, head dizzy and aches; if you belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that there's needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated so they eat their favorite foods without fear. If your stomach is upset, take care of your liberal diet without rebellion; if your food ferments and sours and causes gas to form instead of a help, relief is the quickest, surest, most certain antacid in Pape's Diapepsin which costs only sixty cents for a large case at drug stores.—[Advertisement.

MAY HAVE VOTE ON CENSORSHIP.

Blue Law Problem on August Ballot is Suggested.

Will be Defeated if Put Up to People, Says Sparks.

Compromise Measure Offered as Another Solution.

The issue of motion-picture censorship in Los Angeles may be placed up to the voters at the primaries next August, if a plan under discussion yesterday by members of the City Council is finally adopted. Councilman Sparks is flatly opposed to censorship, and Council Allan is just as strongly in favor of the proposed regulation, but other members of the Council believe that to avoid the expence of special elections ordered under initiative or referendum petitions threatened in case the ordinance is either passed or defeated, the simplest solution for the City Council to adopt would be to place the question on the ballot at the next general election, which would be in August.

In view of the very probable defeat of the stringent ordinance recommended by the Public Welfare Committee of the City Council which will be presented next week, a compromise measure has been suggested as a second way out of the situation in which the Council finds itself and this, as explained by President Criswell, would be to take the objectionable "teeth" out of the ordinance and would call for a board of seven unpaid censors to be merely advisory to the City Prosecutor. It is expected that the censorship forces will object to this proposed revision, and demand that a vote be taken on the ordinance as presented giving the board of censors power to preview and license or prohibit films to be shown in this city.

According to the present line-up, this ordinance will fail to receive the necessary six votes, and in case this happens, the ministers who are urging censorship threaten to circulate initiative petitions. If sufficient signatures are secured, the Council may then pass the measure in order to avoid the $40,000 special election called for under the referendum. If this is done, the anticensorship forces will then circulate referendum petitions, and if sufficient signatures are secured, the ordinance will be automatically revoked. To avoid all of this confusion, some of the Councilmen believe that if no action is taken on the ordinance and the question ordered on the August ballot, both sides will be satisfied. Councilman Sparks said yesterday that if the issue were placed up to the voters he was convinced that censorship would be overwhelmingly defeated, and the matter would be ended once and for all time.

President Criswell and Councilmen Conaway, Langdon, Mallard and Sanborn, conferred with Asst. City Atty. Whitehead yesterday relative to the legality of placing the censorship question on the ballot at the primaries next August, should the Council decide to adopt this solution. Mr. Whitehead was also asked to prepare, as the basis for discussion, a draft of a substitute ordinance creating a board of seven censors to act as advisers to the City Prosecutor.

FIRE AT RESORT.

Blaze Destroys Buildings at Springs Near San Diego.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 5.—Fire destroyed four buildings at Jacumba Hot Springs, a mountain resort seventy miles from here on the Imperial Valley highway, owned by Vaughn and Weggenmann.

The fire started from the kitchen of the Maze Restaurant and before the flames could be extinguished all the buildings on the south side of the main street of the village had burned.

The buildings which were owned by Vaughn and Weggenmann included their land office, Fred Reed's confectionery store, Amador's restaurant and George Maze's restaurant. An explosion in an oil stove started the flames. The loss is estimated at about $10,000 and only about $2000 is covered by insurance. The fire was fought with bucket brigades by the residents of the place.

B. L. Vaughn of the land office firm said today that the buildings would be replaced by a concrete block for stores to correspond with the plans for the hotel that is to be built at the resort this year.

CONVICTED RAIL MEN LOSE CASE.

Judgment Against Five Asserted Violators of Lever Law is Upheld.

Word was received here yesterday that the United States Circuit Court of Appeal, sitting in San Francisco, had affirmed the judgment of conviction secured in United States District Judge Bledsoe's court in June, 1920, finding William G. Fannan, Clyde H. Isrigg, Oscar T. Lefever, A. N. Miller and Roy W. Canaga guilty of a violation of the Lever law in having conspired to limit the transportation of the necessaries of life.

There were twenty-two defendants in all before the court, and of that number the five foregoing were found guilty, nine were found not guilty and the jury disagreed as to the guilt of the others. Those in regard to whose guilt the jury could not agree still have their bonds up before the court. The judgment of Judge Bledsoe was that the five returned guilty pay a fine of $1000 each.

The defendants were employees of the Salt Lake, Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railways, who organized what was known as the outlaw switchmen's strike, a movement that was not authorized nor countenanced by the railway unions. It was charged in the indictment that they interfered with the movement of trains on these three continental lines on April 6, 1920, and the loss of thousands of dollars' worth of perishable freight resulted.

Following their conviction, the attorneys for the defendants made the statement that they would make their stand on the unconstitutionality of the Lever law, a portion of which was afterward declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

This opinion, however, had to do with the boosting of prices, and the judgment of the United States Circuit Court of Appeal is based on the legality of the section of the law that makes it a crime to interfere with the movement of trains in interstate commerce.

The defendants represented employees at Los Angeles, Bakersfield and Fresno. Whether the case will be further prosecuted to the United States Supreme Court is not yet determined, but it is understood that if it is not, that the $5000 imposed in the way of fines will be raised by the voluntary contributions of the labor-union men employed on the lines affected by the strike.

Difference in Church Views Parts Couple.

Married at the age of 15 years, Mrs. Ethel Bittencourt told Judge Summerfield yesterday that for fifteen years she had tried to get along with her husband, Manuel Bittencourt, but that when he finally told her that "any man was a fool to get married," she decided it was hopeless.

Religion also played a part in the matrimonial troubles of the couple, according to her testimony. They had followed the practice of attending different churches.

"In a case of that kind, married people should at least try a fifty-fifty proposition by accompanying each other and alternating in the respective churches until a mutual desire could be established," said Judge Summerfield. He granted Mrs. Bittencourt a decree.

BOOZE FINES HEAVY.

Ninety Per Cent of San Diego Federal Cases Involve Liquor Charges.

During the term of the Federal court in San Diego, with U. S. District Judge Trippet presiding, continuing three weeks, there were fifty-five pleas of guilty, it was announced yesterday. The amount of fines assessed amounted to $21,621. Twelve automobiles, used in the transportation of liquor illegally, were confiscated. Of the more than 100 cases disposed of by the court, 90 per cent involved violations of the liquor laws.

The remainder of the calendar will be disposed of by Judge Bledsoe, who will go to San Diego for that purpose on October 24.

EXPLORER AT LISBON; DISPATCHES RECALLED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LISBON, Oct. 5.—Sir Ernest Shackleton and his party have arrived here on board the vessel Quest, which was damaged by a heavy storm off the west coast of Portugal.

It is recalled that when the Quest started out from England on its voyage of exploration to the Antarctic, London dispatches said there was not a "single able-bodied seaman in its crew."

HEAR OF ALL-YEAR PLAN.

The employees of one of the well-known women's apparel houses of the city were told of the details of the all-year movement at a meeting yesterday at which, at the invitation of the management, they were addressed by Daniel H. Jones of the club's executive committee, on the general subject of "The All-Year Club of Southern California." The meeting was in line with the club plan to acquaint all lines of business here with the all-year work, and its aims.

More than 100 employes of the store expressed their interest in the program for letting the world know the attractiveness of Southern California as a place of residence twelve months in the year and they are to supplement the All-Year Club's work by personal effort. Similar meetings with other retail store organizations are being arranged.

A reflection of the interest voiced by the clubwomen to whom the plans and purposes of the all-year movement were explained on Tuesday was given yesterday through a request for reprints of the advertisements used in the recent summer campaign. Mrs. Joseph B. Bonhaus, secretary of the Philanthropy and Civics Club, is to give these a wide distribution so that as many clubwomen as possible may see how Southern California as a whole has been advertised.

TOURISTS TO SECURE OPINION OF PUBLIC.

CANADIANS ASK ASSURANCE OF FAIR TREATMENT FROM RESIDENTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 5.—An attempt to determine the attitude of local people, particularly business men, toward Canadian tourists will be made at a mass meeting to be held at the Ocean Park Plaza. President John Hooper, of the Canadian Tourists' Association, and representing its 5000 members, has invited the city officials of all cities between Redondo and Sawtelle, together with the heads of all civic and business organizations, to attend the meeting.

The Santa Monica City Commissioners accepted the invitation today. In accepting Mayor S. L. Berkley said that in his opinion John Hooper had done more for Santa Monica in a business way during the last three years, than any other individual, in his capacity as head of the Canadian tourists.

Public statements that the tourists will get fair treatment with cooperation and moral support of the public if permanent headquarters for the Canadian tourists are established here, will be sought.

Judge W. R. Garrett of this city will preside and the principal speaker will be John Hooper, who is also a director of the Federation of State Societies.

Others invited to give short talks are Mayor Berkley, Mayor Gerety of Venice, President Dickinson and Secretary Kirkpatrick of the Santa Monica Chamber of Commerce, President Bauman and Secretary Dillon of the Venice Chamber, Judge A. A. Weber, Judge M. R. King, Thornton Kinney, Ernest Pickering, Rev. W. A. Walker, Rev. Sydney Maddox and others.

GLENDALE CATHOLICS HOLD CHURCH BAZAAR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GLENDALE, Oct. 5.—Marking the only social affair to be conducted within its walls, a three-day bazaar will be opened tomorrow evening in the new Holy Family Catholic Church of Glendale, at Elk and Louise streets, in aid of the building fund. The edifice, which cost $65,000, will be dedicated to divine service in the near future.

Men and women of the parish who have been working for weeks in connection with the event, declare it will be a real novelty. Many non-Catholics assist. The pastor, Rev. James S. O'Neill, in the preparations.

A Ford touring car, donated by the Holy Name Society, will be disposed of by a committee, including George McLaughlin, Thomas B. Smith, W. B. Kelly, Leo McMahon and Jesse Smith. A cafeteria dinner will be served every evening.

Files Petition for Sawtelle Case Rehearing

A petition was filed by City Attorney Stephens in the local office of the State Supreme Court yesterday asking for a rehearing of the case involving the annexation of Sawtelle. The date when argument on the petition is to be heard will be determined by the court in San Francisco. Probably the arguments will be heard at the coming October meeting of the court in this city.

The action was originally brought by George Cox against the city of Los Angeles, charging irregularities in the election May 4, 1917, that resulted by a close vote in the annexation of Sawtelle to this city. In the lower courts and in the District Court of Appeal the judgment was in favor of the city, but these were reversed by the Supreme Court deciding that on the ballot submitted to the voters there was not sufficient description of the amount of taxes the municipality of Sawtelle would have to assume by joining the larger municipality.

MEXICANS PREFER HELP EDUCATED IN AMERICA.

Roy Dickerson, a member of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, who is making a survey of the Mexican situation in the United States, with special emphasis on the boy problem, is investigating in Los Angeles. Mr. Dickerson has just returned from a trip to Mexico City, where he has been in conference with Mexican leaders, and he says that "one of the things which seemed to be of greatest significance is the extent to which Mexicans are looking to the United States for assistance in the solution of their problems. Men educated in this country are either filling governmental and commercial positions of importance or are being relied upon to counsel and direct those who do fill such positions."

COURT UPHOLDS SALE OF BONDS.

Counsel to Appeal to State Supreme Court.

Sacrifice of Securities by Council Given O. K.

Decision Seen as Blow at Taxpayers Here.

Judge J. P. Wood late yesterday announced a decision in which he held as legal the recent sale of $12,-500,000 worth of Los Angeles power bonds for $11,945,000 to Irving H. Hellman. Attorney Ingle Carpenter, counsel for Harry W. Anderson, a taxpayer who sought to have the sale declared illegal, immediately declared an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court of California. The bonds, which were disposed of at a private bargain sale by the City Council, acting on recommendation of the Board of Public Service Commissioners, were authorized for the purchase of the distributing lines of the Southern California Edison Company.

Attorney Carpenter, after Judge Wood announced his decision, said:

"The appeal will be based on the constitutional right of the people to authorize the bonding of the city for the payment of debts. Under the decision, no man's property will be protected from the losses due to the sale of bonds voted for municipal enterprises. Under this decision, the power bonds could have been sold for 3 cents, and the people would have had to bear the losses which would have amounted, in fact, to confiscation of property.

The provision was placed in the constitution to protect the people from the very thing that happened in this case, and as the issue is strictly a constitutional one, I feel confident that in the higher courts the decision handed down today will be reversed.

BLOW AT TAXPAYERS.

"If this decision stands, I am of the opinion that it sounds the deathknell to the voting by the people of Los Angeles in the future of any bond issues, for the taxpayers have no insurance that, after they have voted to tax themselves for a bond issue, say, of $5,000,000 for a given municipal enterprise, the City Council will not sell the bonds for $1,-000,000, and the people bear the loss. Therefore, this decision will be contested to the limit, and will be carried to the highest courts where, I firmly believe, the decision of Judge Wood will be reversed."

"No charge is made and no evidence offered," said Judge Wood in an exhaustive decision, "to prove that the city officials in the attempted sale are guilty of fraud or bad faith. The only question presented, therefore, is one of law."

The court states that it was conceded at the hearing on the injunction suits, which were brought in the name of Mr. Anderson, and by the city of Los Angeles as a test case in the name of Herbert Peery, that while the power bonds bear on their face 5 per cent interest they will return to the investor the equivalent of 5.86 2-3 per cent per annum.

QUESTION OF LAW.

It was contended at the hearings by Attorneys Carpenter and former Judge Dana R. Weller, for the plaintiff, that when the securities were authorized the bond act of 1901, which declared that municipal bonds must not be sold below par, was in effect, but the court, in its opinion, holds that the bond act of 1921 permitting cities to sell bonds at a discount validated the subsequent Hellman purchase at the City Council's discount sale of the $13,-500,000 issue of power bonds. Judge Wood also holds that the provision of the State Constitution does not prohibit the sale of bonds below par, and the court further says that the confiscation clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution was not violated when the securities were sold to Mr. Hellman.

"A decision setting aside the sale of the power bonds to Mr. Hellman, the court holds, could only stand on a ruling that the Bond Discount Act of 1921 is entirely unconstitutional, and on this point, the court says in conclusion: "It must be held that the city, in the sale proposed is acting under clear authority conferred by the Legislature; that the legislative grant of power is not contrary to any provision of the Constitution, and that the plaintiffs are not entitled to the relief sought."

RAIL LINE FACES SUITS.

Five suits, aggregating approximately $200,000 in damages asked, were filed yesterday against the Pacific Electric as a result of the collision September 3 at Sawtelle when an electric car collided with a big passenger automobile.

M. T. Crepo and the American Auto Tours Company of San Francisco, owners of the bus, and the Harrell - Shipley - Crepo Company, operators of the sightseeing vehicle, are also defendants in the suits.

The plaintiffs and the respective amounts of damages asked are as follows: Emil Dahlberg and his wife, Matheida Dahlberg, $35,464.30; H. T. Cartwright and his wife, Mayme Cartwright, $20,375.85; Helen Stevens, $75,897; Theodora Schulik, $50,456.25, and Ida A. Decrow, $50,260.80. All of these women were injured and each was confined to a hospital for three or four weeks and in each case it is asserted that their injuries are of a permanent nature.

The contention of the plaintiffs is that the crossing of the car line at Wilshire Boulevard in Sawtelle was not equipped with a wig-wag or other danger signal and that the car failed to sound any warning whittle upon approaching the crossing. It is probable that the five separate suits will be tried jointly before a jury. E. B. Drake is attorney for all of the plaintiffs.

GOOD SAMARITAN HIT AND ROBBED, HE SAYS.

Enacting the role of Good Samaritan to two sailors last night cost J. W. Hawkes, 529 South Main street, his valuables. Mr. Hawkes reported to the police that he offered to take the bluejackets to Los Angeles Harbor in his automobile. When the party reached the Union Oil Company's plant near the harbor, one of his passengers hit Mr. Hawkes on the head with a pop bottle, while the other took his money and a silver pencil. George Cooper and Cecil Pitman of the battleship Pennsylvania were arrested. Both confessed, the police say.

FOR SALE—
CARLSBAD-BY-THE-SEA.
We hear and read every day of farmers and ranchers, in all parts of the country not making money. If you are a rancher, or city man, and are making the money you should, better come to Carlsbad. Our two out of season crops will more than pay for the land—tomatoes, peaches, figs, grapes, apples, plums, berries, lemons, etc., do well in these lands. But the best feature is this: By planting green peas for the winter market, and the early crop in spring, you receive prices that will please you. There is no other district that equals these lands from one to forty acres, with water stock, ranging in price and easy terms. Modern bungalows on acre tracts, ocean front lots, all splendid investments.

CITY IS READY TO HELP IDLE.

Capital Unemployment Meet Deliberating.

Business Man Not Informed Properly.

Report Says He Needs Guide for Acts.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Deliberations of the manufacturers' committee of the National Conference on Unemployment, looking towards recommendations for a permanent policy for combatting unemployment, were scheduled to be resumed here today.

Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Los Angeles reported the organization of emergency relief committees to handle the situation in their localities.

"We are of the opinion," the economic experts declared, "that one of the chief causes of industrial depression is to be found in the lack of information available to business men as to certain essential facts connected with their general lines of business. The far-sighted business man who desires to forecast the future and guide his action accordingly is often compelled to rely upon pure guesses or arbitrary estimates. Were he to be provided with the actual facts he would often act differently from what he now does. Stabilization of business and the avoidance of recurring industrial depressions and crises are in no small measure dependent upon a more complete knowledge of the factors affecting the business situation."

WILL MEET MONDAY.

Mayor Cryer's committee on unemployment, to be organized this week in response to President Harding's appeal to governors of States and mayors of cities to co-operate in making effective the recommendations of the Washington conference, will hold its first meeting in the Council chamber at the City Hall at 2 p.m. Monday. The Mayor yesterday sent letters of invitation to the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, Municipal League and other organizations of the city to send representatives to the meeting. There also will be named as members of the committee a number of citizens selected at large, so that when organization is completed the body will have a membership of thirty or thirty-five men and women. The Mayor's letter to organizations asking them to send representatives to Monday's meeting in part is as follows:

"I am of the opinion, and have so informed the national authorities, that no serious unemployment problems confront Los Angeles at this time, and that the local authorities do not apprehend any such critical situation, unless brought about by the influx of the itinerant class of unemployed from less favored localities. Nevertheless, the city stands at all times read to co-operate with any regional or national effort to relieve distress or better the conditions of American citizens."

SUSPECT HERE ON ONE DAY, IN OMAHA NEXT?

HOW LONG IT TAKES FOR TRIP IS QUESTION IN BUNKO CASE TRIAL.

The question of how long it takes to travel from Los Angeles to Omaha, arose yesterday in Judge Reeve's court in the trial of David Rogers, alias David D. Mitchell, alias R. Hudson, when Dist.-Atty. Woolwine was called to the stand to testify for the defense. Mr. Woolwine was cross-examined by his deputy, Asa Keyes. It is understood the case will go to the jury today.

The testimony of the District Attorney related to the deposition of a hotel clerk in Omaha, who stated that Rogers was in Omaha and registered at a hotel there on May 27, while the offense was said to have been committed in Los Angeles, three days' journey from Omaha, on May 26. It is charged that Rogers and others, through an asserted fake stock deal, bunkoed Werner Roehl of $15,000.

Detective Georges Contreras of the District Attorney's office testified regarding the arrest of Rogers. He kept Rogers on the streets of Detroit all night in order to avoid habeas corpus proceedings. He also said that he was unable to find witnesses in Sioux City who said Rogers was there at the time of the asserted offense in Los Angeles.

COMRADES IN DEATH.

Lifelong Pals Killed in Accident to be Sent Home Together.

Official recognition of the comradeship that existed between Seaman Cyril George Bermersheim of the battleship Arizona and Seaman Arthur J. Barnes of the Nevada, who were both killed at Los Angeles Harbor Saturday night in an automobile accident, was taken by staff officers of the Pacific Fleet yesterday, when it was decided to send the bodies together to their old home town, Shelbyville, Ind.

The young sailors were boyhood pals in the Hoosier village; they enlisted in the Navy together and remained pals throughout the war. After the armistice they were transferred to the Pacific Fleet.

While they were en route to Long Beach in a rented automobile Saturday night they met death. Their automobile collided with a Pacific Electric Long Beach train.

VESSEL IS RELEASED.

Sunset, Libeled by Government, is Restored to Owner.

U. S. Commissioner Long yesterday released the gas screw vessel Sunset, libeled by the government on the charge that it had left Los Angeles Harbor, bound for Ensenada, where it was found, without having taken out the necessary clearance papers. The boat is the property of Capt. Simon Cvitovich, a Los Angeles Harbor fisherman.

It appeared that during the illness of the owner and commander, about last June 14, the boat was taken by two of the crew to Ensenada, where it is understood it was engaged in the contraband liquor trade. The Commissioner found that Capt. Cvitovich did not take the boat out and ordered it restored to its owner.

Indians Freed On Their Own Recognizance.

U. S. District Judge Trippet made an order yesterday releasing on their own recognizance the fourteen members of the tribe Mission Indians held in the County Jail under an indictment charging Jonathan Tibbets of Riverside and fifty-three members of the tribe with conspiring to deprive P. J. Skelton, holder of a lease of land lying within the reservation, of his constitutional rights in occupying the land. Twelve of the fifty-three Indian defendants had been previously released on their own recognizance, and the balance of the total have not yet been rounded up.

It was intended to try the case against Mr. Tibbets and the Indians in Judge Trippet's court next Tuesday, but the matter will go over on the motion of the government to try the other indictment against him charging that he has been guilty of alienating the red men from the government. It is desired to get a line on conditions in the Riverside reservation before beginning the hearing of the case against the wards of the nation.

ANTIOCH ASKS FOR WATER REHEARING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The State Supreme Court was petitioned by the town of Antioch, Contra Costa county, today, to grant a rehearing on its recent decision jeopardizing the town's claims to fresh water from the Sacramento River. The town contended that draining river waters for the benefit of crops allowed salt water from Susuin Bay to flow into the city's fresh water intakes.

Act to Reduce Rail Fare to Beach Resort.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 5.—The City Commissioners agreed today to co-operate for the betterment of Santa Monica's interests, when a communication was received from the Santa Monica-Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, asking the officials to aid in a plan to co-operate with the Venice Chamber of Commerce and Venice officials to the end that proposed reduced fare and changes in car service on the Pacific Electric be secured for the Santa Monica Bay district.

The plan, which originated with the transportation committee of the Venice Chamber of Commerce, is to petition the State Railroad Commission to have Pacific Electric fares placed on a unit mile basis. This would result in a round-trip fare of 5¢ cents to Venice, according to the committee.

The Santa Monica City Commissioners requested that President Dickinson and Secretary Kirkpatrick of the local Chamber of Commerce come before them and outline in detail how the board can aid them.

EXPENDITURES SHOWN.

Report of U. S. Marshal Walton for Quarter Made Public.

The quarterly report of U. S. Marshal Walton, completed yesterday, shows expenditures during the last three months to amount of $62,219.41. This is about $16,000 more than the usual quarterly payment, due to the fact that on June 30, when the last quarter closed, Congress had not passed the deficiency appropriation, and about the sum given had to be carried over to the quarter ended September 30.

The items of expense and the amount of each were as follows:

Salaries, fees and expenses, $10,732.98; jurors, $7411.40; witnesses, $10,427.92; keep of prisoners, $6854.50; pay of bailiffs, $918.37; miscellaneous, $6799.91; district attorneys, $3269.65; assistants, $3147.23; district judges, $3750; clerks, $5681.79; circuit judge, $2125; increased compensation, $3100.87.

LEGAL EXPERTS FOR ARBUCKLE.

Film Faction Reported Acting to Back Comedian.

Strong Array of Attorneys Likely to be Hired.

Prosecutor Tells Why He Quit; Brennan May Follow.

An unofficial movement by a faction of the motion-picture industry to build up a powerful legal staff for Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, was reported from reliable sources in San Francisco last night.

Action to this effect followed closely on the heels of the announcement by Attorney Frank Dominguez that he had withdrawn from the case.

Another important development was the report, apparently well founded, that Attorney General Brennan of San Francisco has also resigned to join Arbuckle's staff of lawyers, which already enlists Milton Cohen to represent the film comedian.

Reports stated last night that attorneys from Los Angeles this evening would go to San Francisco in order to be present for the hearing scheduled Friday morning.

Friends of Arbuckle, it is said, have decided to leave nothing undone that may result in his acquittal on the charge of manslaughter, and it is said will retain several noted Eastern attorneys.

NAMES EXPECTED.

No authority for the statement that St. Brennan has severed his connection with the case is highly probable, confirmation nor denial could be had by Mr. Brennan. An assistant of the personnel of the legal staff is expected soon. Attorney Dominguez late yesterday made clear why he had withdrawn from the case. He sent a letter of explanation to Arbuckle and his written resignation, which he said was in accordance with views made at a conference last week.

Prior to writing the letter Attorney Dominguez had discussed his reasons for leaving the defense, which he said will take two months to try Arbuckle's case," he said. "I have not the time to devote to it, and as Mr. Arbuckle's interests at heart should retain some one from San Francisco jurist.

BANKERS TAKE UP "INSIDE STUFF" OF PROFESSION.

Battle Looms Over Desire of Huge National Institutions to Establish Branches.

BY CHAPIN HALL,
Financial Editor "The Times."

The bankers of America in convention here yesterday devoted themselves to the "inside stuff" of their profession. They oiled the machinery for another year and learned from their committees what it is that makes the great organization tick. Threatening weather had the effect of stimulating the attendance, many preferring to postpone their sightseeing. It was also old home day for many, and reunions were frequent.

So far the convention has proceeded in a highly conventional manner, marked by the presentation of able papers on timely topics. There have been no contests, and debate has been conspicuous by its absence. Today there may be a change in this order precipitated by the desire on the part of some of the great national banks of the country to establish branches at strategic points, on a plan somewhat similar to that under which State banks operate.

It is recognized by delegates that to throw down the bars and permit the promiscuous establishment of branch banks would result ultimately in a cut-throat game whereby the great eastern combinations would perhaps be enabled to dominate the field.

MAY COMPROMISE.

One suggestion which may be made from the floor this morning as a compromise measure is that the national banks be given the same State-wide prerogative now enjoyed by the State banks; that is, that they be permitted to branch out within the confines of their own State.

The entire question is one fraught with import, especially for the small bank, and the development of this issue, should it be joined, will soon occupy a commanding place in the banking world.

According to the best information available last evening the convention will refuse to indorse a movement for branch national banks, but the battle will be an interesting and lively one while it lasts.

FRASER TO SPEAK.

Today promises to be the most interesting of the week for it includes an address by Sir D. Drummond Fraser, K.B.E., M.C., of London, on the Ter Meulen bond scheme; the election of officers, and a presentation by Henry M. Robinson dealing with free ports and free zones, in which the Los Angeles banker is expected to discuss the relation of such zones to the agriculture interests of the United States.

A year ago Mr. Robinson presented the co-operative marketing movement before the association, and at that time insisted upon the friendly consideration by bankers of the problems faced by agricultural interests. The free zone and free port movement is of vital importance to the welfare of the producing group in the United States, in that the developing of foreign trade will aid in the marketing of agricultural products.

This evening comes the principal social event of the week, the formal ball which is to be given at the Ambassador.

STRAIGHT TALK.

Comptroller of the Currency Crissenger talked straight from the shoulder at a meeting yesterday afternoon of the national bank section. He told his audience that "bankers who, during recent periods of financial stringency have imposed excessive interest rates will find it pretty nearly useless to protest issuance of charters for new and competing national banks within their territory."

"The bank that gets advances from the Federal reserve system, and only seeks to increase its profits by that privilege is not doing its part. You are expected to understand that banks are a convenience and facility to business, not that business is the ever-redy support of high and yet higher banking profits," he said.

The Times, on Tuesday, said that Thomas B. McAdams, first vice-president of the American Bankers' Association, and president of the Merchants' National Bank of Richmond, will succeed John Drum as the head of the association. This election will be consummated today when John H. Puelicher of Milwaukee, will become first vice-president; Walter W. Head of Omaha is still the leading candidate for the office being vacated by Mr. Puelicher. Richmond, Va., is likely to be the choice for next year's meeting place.

WIDE EDUCATION.

The prospect of a nation-wide program for universal education in the fundamentals of economics was held out in the address of Dr. Henry T. Suzzallo, president of the University of Washington, yesterday before the convention on "Economic Intelligence in Public Opinion."

Dr. Suzzallo, frequently interrupted by enthusiastic applause, urged the association to take upon itself the task of first making a survey of current public opinion with a view to determining the most persistent economic fallacies which are troubling the nation and then building a course of education for all citizens around the result of that survey.

Governmental regulation of business in a democracy is a thing which cannot be uprooted, he pointed out. It is here to stay. The only question is whether public opinion, expressing itself through governmental regulation, shall be infuriated and ignorant or deliberate and well informed. In order to make it well informed, he said, public opinion, more poorly informed here than in any great nation, should be trained in the fundamentals of economics. That training should, he argued, be through the schools and colleges and the press and should be carried on not as "trouble education" thrown out like propaganda in times of crisis, but should proceed from a broad plan and should work itself out in faithful accord with economic laws.

The association, he urged, should appoint a permanent staff to make the needed survey of public opinion and to shape the course of training which that survey shows to be most urgently needed at this time.

NEED EDUCATION.

Mr. Suzzallo said in part:

"All you have to do in the United States is to give us a period of prosperity, with resultant leisure, and every individual begins thinking and talking about everything. This is particularly true in regard to economic problems, which, because of our system of government and our attitude toward the freedom of the individual, are often thought and talked about in a way which is harmful alike to the individual and to the country as a whole.

"The American people are sadly in need of an economic education. This is a result of the lines along which we have grown and of the inherent qualities of our people.

"One result of this lack of knowledge in economic matters is that there is no civilized nation which has greater need for competent leaders in economic thought and at the same time no nation which places a lower valuation upon those leaders or is quicker to disregard them.

COMPARE SYSTEMS.

"The English government is the best friend of British foreign trade. The United States government, until very recently, has been the enemy of American foreign trade. Germany before the war presented a system which, from the standpoint of the German citizen and the German business man, left but little to be desired in the interest which it took in the advancement of German business in every corner of the world.

"Here in this country we have a new attitude of mind which finds expression in the slogan, 'Let us have less government in business.'

"Now I am willing to admit that the government should not do what individual business organizations can do equally well. But when the public welfare is at stake in a matter, involving expenditures so vast that neither the banks nor individual capitalists or groups of capitalists can handle, then the government should step in and finance those operations.

DEFINITE LIMIT.

"There is, however, a very definite limit beyond which governmental participation in business should not go. That limit is the point at which the task is so great that private enterprise or private capital cannot adequately handle it.

"There must be government in LAW MAY SWAT DRUG MEN HERE.

Gandier-Volstead Question Proves Harrowing.

Grief in Sight if Ordinance Overshadows Act.

Sellers of Liquor in Pints Facing Prosecution.

Every retail druggist who sells liquor in Los Angeles will face prosecution if the final decision of the courts affirms the precedence of the Gandier ordinance over the Volstead Act, according to Dr. S. T. Montgomery, president of the Anti-Saloon League.

Evidence against forty druggists is held by Dr. Montgomery pending the decision of the Superior Court in a test case recently appealed after conviction in Police Judge Richardson's court.

A tilt between City Prosecutor Widney and Dr. Montgomery has resulted in a temporary victory for the former and saved two score druggists from arrest pending an interpretation of the Gandier ordinance by the high courts.

If Mr. Hixon, the druggist convicted in police court of violating the Gandier ordinance, meets with failure on his appeal, Dr. Montgomery will attempt to start prosecutions in cases in which he has recently failed to cause the issuance of complaints, he said last night. A drive on druggists, with the exception of the chain stores, which do not fill liquor prescriptions, will be started, he stated.

MATHEMATICAL POINT.

The dissension hinges on differences between the Volstead Act and the Gandier ordinance. The Volstead Act permits druggists to fill prescriptions for sixteen ounces of liquor, or one pint. The Gandier ordinance, a city statute, limits the prescriptions to eight ounces each.

Following the original arrest in the controversy, druggists here refused for a time to sell more than a "Gandier bottle." The result was that sales fell off. The doctors' prescriptions cost just as much and called for a full pint, but the purchaser could obtain only eight ounces, with the additional grief of paying more money.

Neither the retail druggists, of whom there are about 370 in the city, nor the purchasers thought that was much fun. Many prescribed a quit drinking drugstore whisky and some proprietors reported a harsh lapse of sales and money. But refusal on the part of the city prosecutor to issue any further complaints until the construction of the law was clarified proved a spirituous boon and boom. The sixteen-ounce flask came once more into its own.

"The Gandier ordinance is not prohibition," said Prosecutor Widney yesterday. "It is local regulation. On the other hand, the Volstead Act is prohibition with regulation of medicinal alcohol. The point is so in doubt that I could not justly arrest and brand the majority of druggists as law breakers. They are reputable citizens, and it would be grossly unfair to issue complaints against them until there is a clear and comprehensive interpretation of the two laws which are in conflict."

"My contention is that there is no choice in the matter," said Dr. Montgomery. "A prominent citizen in criminal law deserves no more consideration than a hobo. The druggists think they can continue to sell pints with impunity. If the Gandier ordinance is proved effective, every druggist who has ignored it and against whom evidence can be procured will be prosecuted."

BANKER DENOUNCES UNIONS.

Urges Abolition of War Labor Board and Federal Interference in Private Business.

Elliott G. McDougal of Buffalo, president of the State bankers' division of the American Bankers' Association, launched a bitter attack against labor union policies during his address before the session of that division at the Alexandria yesterday afternoon. Mr. McDougal also recommended the immediate abolition of the War Labor Board and the reduction of governmental interference in business.

"One prime necessity, without which we cannot have reduced railroad fares and freight rates, is the immediate abolishment by Congress of the War Labor Board. The war is over and a War Labor Board is no longer needed. That would be true were the board doing well. No business can be economically managed if a third body or person can come between the executive officers and the employees. Besides, no board could do much worse.

"It is endeavoring, not only to perpetuate the ridiculous rules formulated by Mr. McAdoo and the railroad unions, but arbitrarily to add to them. Under the McAdoo rules railroad officers cannot control the men under them. They often are compelled to pay men for time not worked, a full day's pay for an hour or two of work, two days' pay for one day's work.

DOUBLE PAY, HALF WORK.

"Should a railroad union man be called for one service and used for another he must be paid for both; one day's pay for the service for which he was called and did not perform, plus one day's pay for the service for which he was not called and did perform. Could anything be more wasteful? Can you expect lower fares and freight rates under such conditions? Can you expect anything of a War Labor Board that would perpetuate them? There are many rules and practices as bad or worse.

"The War Labor Board is backing the labor unions against the public which is paying high passenger and freight rates. It has gone so far as to make rulings which it knows to be in flat opposition to plain decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Its attitude and actions plainly show the danger of government interference with business, and the necessity for its own abolishment.

"Union labor professes to be fighting the railroads. Excepting itself and its families it really is fighting every man, woman and child of this nation. Railroad capital may be paid in by stockholders, but railroad wages must come out of fares and freight charges, which must be paid by the public. The houses we own, the rent we pay, the clothes we wear, the food we eat, everything we need, with very few exceptions, cost too much, and will continue to cost too much until we realize that we who buy to consume always must pay in increased prices all such increases in wages and taxes.

PLEADS FOR FARMER.

Mr. McDougal declared that the farmer has seen the prices of what he sells drop to prewar levels or lower, while everything he buys, measured in dollars, is still too high. Measured in farm products, prices to him actually are as high as during the war, in some cases higher, it was declared.

"What keeps these prices high?" was his pertinent query. "Principally high-priced labor, high freight rates and heavy taxes," he said. "High-priced labor on raw materials and finished product, perhaps through several processes in several different factories, with several

JAIL DRUG RING DEALT HEAVY BLOW

Addicts Put in One Tank and Visitors Watched at County Institution Here.

Smuggling drugs into the County Jail will not hereafter be so lucrative an occupation as it is reported to have been, it was announced yesterday by Sheriff Traeger and Jailer Cronin. It was stated that it is now believed that most of the smuggling of habit-forming drugs into the institution has been stopped. All prisoners known to be drug addicts were segregated in one tank yesterday and a close watch is being kept on them and upon their visitors. It was believed that what was called the "drug ring" is broken.

A peculiar means of communication between prisoners in different tanks was discovered yesterday in the form of a home-made telegraph instrument. It was learned that men having knowledge of telegraphy were in different tanks and that they conducted their own telegraph system, sending forward messages for other prisoners.

Self-punishment had its inception yesterday at the jail when one prisoner was called before Jailer Cronin for striking another man being held. He admitted the offense and was asked by the jailer what punishment he deserved. After deliberation, the prisoner said he should be sent to the dark cell, and was.

MUSICIANS FACE SPLIT ON STRIKE.

Formation of New Theater Orchestra Association is Predicted.

A split in the ranks of the Musicians' Mutual Protective Association looms as a result of the wage scale fracas with the Los Angeles Theaters' Association, it was intimated yesterday.

Predictions were made that in the event of a strike being called, many theater musicians will band together in a separate organization under some such name as Theater Musicians' Association, and make their own contracts with the various theaters.

This situation arose in New York during the theater labor difficulties there and may possibly obtain here should the musicians' union refuse to accept the 10 per cent wage decrease announced by the local theaters' association.

It was pointed out that 90 per cent of the positions provided for musicians in Los Angeles are given by the theaters' association. A considerable number of the theater musicians are said to be in favor of accepting the 10 per cent decrease rather than lose their places. Several orchestra leaders are discussing this matter with their players. Approximately 275 musicians are employed by the thirty-five large downtown theaters.

Strong possibility of a strike being called by the musicians' association is seen by close observers of the situation if arbitration now in progress fails. H. P. Moore, president of the association, yesterday received a communication from the theater managers reiterating the necessity of a 10 per cent salary curtailment because of local conditions, and asking that a committee with power to act be appointed so that definite action may result from next week's conference.

Open-shop conditions will be affected by theaters if negotiations with the union fail, it was stated. A full quota of men for each orchestra is available already.

VENTURA FAIR IS BEST EVER.

Thousands See Show in Home of the Lima Bean.

Sunday Opening Plan Stirs Up a Lively Fight.

Will Close Stores, Shops Today that All May Attend.

BY CLYDE C. HURLEY.

Those who attended the opening day of the Ventura County Fair yesterday, having in mind the fact that Ventura is known as the home of the great California lima bean, were astonished at the array and diversity of products shown. A livestock show rivaling that at the State Fair at Sacramento, an immense agricultural display in which community exhibits from every section of the county were shown, extensive commercial and educational exhibits, races and amusements were enjoyed by the thousands who thronged the grounds on the opening day.

In spite of a heavy track, good time was made in the races. Supervisor Tom Clark of Ojai defeated Bob Anderson of Los Angeles in the chariot races.

The fair is officially scheduled to end on Saturday night, but a sentiment is growing for the extension of the exhibition until Sunday night. This is being fought by church and civic organizations of Santa Paula and other cities, and quite a verbal battle developed yesterday over the question.

Today almost every store and shop in the county will close for a few hours at some time during the day to give all an opportunity to see the best county fair that Ventura county ever staged. Friday will be school day, and school children of the county will be guests of the fair management during the afternoon. Saturday will be women's day, and the energetic Mrs. Gwyn Thurmond of Saticoy, head of the women's department of the fair, will marshal her aides to show the men what the gentler sex can do in running a fair. Live-stock judging will begin today, with the awarding of the ribbons in the swine and Holstein cattle divisions. There are 6000 head of pure-bred cattle from all parts of the State, and one herd from Arizona at the fair. One exhibit of great interest in the beef cattle section is the $25,000 shorthorn bull Cluny Royal Windsor, recently brought over from Scotland, to head the Shorthorns on the Dibblee estate, Lompoc. This bull was bred by Lady Cathcart, known as the foremost Shorthorn cattle breeder in Europe. His sire, "Presidents the Mutt," is known as one of the greatest bulls of the beef breeds ever born.

Officers of the Ventura County Fair Association, which has produced seven successive and successful agricultural and live-stock expositions at Ventura, are: President, A. L. Hobson; secretary, L. P. Hathaway; vice-president, A. D. McGrath; treasurer, John Lagomarsino, Jr. A. Camarillo, founder of Camarillo and an old pioneer, is in charge of the live-stock department. Mrs. Gwyn D. Thurmond manages the agricultural and horticultural department and E. O. Tucker has charge of the poultry and pet stock show.

SIFTING LISTS IN B-CONTEST.

Gigantic Task of Handling Observation Puzzle Returns Progressing.

The gigantic task of sifting the 20,000-odd lists submitted in competition for the sixty cash prizes offered in The Times' Observation Contest is well under way. By a process of elimination the mass of lists is being gradually reduced to the comparatively small number from which the final awards will be made. The greatest care is being observed in this work and it is consequently slow.

The Times requests patience on the part of contestants. The final findings of the judges will be made public at the earliest possible moment. The task is so much greater than was at first anticipated that it is impossible even now to fix exactly the day on which the awards will be published.

FIND DEAD MAN IN SEA OFF VENICE

Fishermen Discover Well-Dressed Body; Inquiry on Coast Begun.

Efforts extending the entire length of the Pacific Coast are being made to establish the identity of a richly dressed man whose body was found floating in the ocean at Venice late yesterday afternoon. The body had evidently been in the water for some days and was badly decomposed. How he came to his death is as much a mystery as his identity. His clothing was that of a refined and wealthy man.

Fishermen on the end of Venice pier discovered the body floating just outside the breakwater and reported to life guards, who brought the remains ashore in a small skiff. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of Shorb & Son.

The dead man was between 30 and 35 years old, weighed about 145 pounds, was 5 feet 7 inches in height and wore clothes of best quality, including a silk shirt. A signet ring on a finger of the left hand bears the initials "H. A. L." and two handkerchiefs carried in the man's pockets have a laundry mark "3843."

DOG WAITS VAINLY FOR HIS MASTER.

Death Probably Will End Drama of Fidelity Being Enacted Beside Old Camp.

There is a little drama of fidelity being enacted at a point on the Seal Beach Road a mile or so west of Bolsfower. There a dog has been hovering about the dead coals of a campfire for four or five months, waiting for his master's return.

This drama doubtless will prove a tragedy. The dog has been growing thinner and thinner, in spite of the wolf-fashion hunting he must do. Now the winter is setting in.

Motorists who have passed by the road have failed to make friends with the dog, a shepard, they describe him, sometimes they throw him food. He will not touch it in their presence.

The master broke camp in the dog's absence, it is assumed. Since a dog never admits that a master could desert him, this one has been keeping his useless vigil and doubtless will continue it until he dies.

ON EUROPEAN FINANCES.

Fred I. Kent of the Bankers' Trust Company, New York, addressed members of the City Club yesterday at their weekly luncheon on the financial situation in Europe during and following the war. He told the "inside story" of the financing of the war by the Allies and added that Germany will experience many difficulties in meeting the reparation demands.

WOODBINE MAY BE REJECTED.

Harbor Committee Majority Opposes Appointment.

Stickney Complains Regarding Anchorage Space Lack.

But Criticism by Rear-Admiral Includes Compliment.

When the appointment by Mayor Cryer of Commander Alonzo H. Woodbine, United States Naval Reserve, as president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, at a salary of $4000 a year, comes before the City Council today or tomorrow for action, it is expected that the harbor committee, of which President Criswell and Councilmen Langdon and Allan are members, will submit a report recommending that the appointment be rejected.

Councilmen Langdon and Allan have stated that they are opposed to Commander Woodbine's confirmation, and they constitute a majority of the committee. If the Council adopts this view, as seems probable, the Mayor will be compelled to send in a third appointment, the Council having previously rejected Edwin M. Daugherty, who was first named for the place.

Harbor Commissioners McKee and Richards, whose appointments were confirmed, are energetically pushing along harbor board business, and yesterday received a letter from Rear-Admiral H. O. Stickney of the Pacific Fleet, complaining of the lack of sheltered anchorage space at the harbor, for naval vessels.

"During the last week," Admiral Stickney wrote, "one of our vessels has parted her anchor chains twice due to swell to eastward of the breakwater. These exposed anchorages are almost impossible at times, and training of the fleet is interfered with by our inability to find here more sheltered berths. This fact is constantly urging us to look elsewhere for a training base."

Admiral Eberle, commanding the Pacific Fleet, has already gone on record since his arrival here in favor of recommending that the government extend the breakwater, five miles to Long Beach, which, if done, will increase the sheltered anchorage space from one to thirty square miles. Meanwhile the naval officers ask the co-operation of the harbor board to secure additional berthing space in the inside of the present breakwater.

Rear-Admiral Stickney's letter was highly complimentary to Los Angeles Harbor in the matter of ease of entrance, saying: "You have a harbor here extremely easy of entrance and exit. I hardly know of any other United States harbor of importance on either coast quite so easy to enter. And you have comparatively few fogs."

RESTAURANT DELEGATES SEE SIGHTS.

Visitors Take Day Off to Tour Most Favored Spots of Southern California.

A day off from strenuous convention duties was taken yesterday by the thousand visiting delegates to the third annual convention of the National Restaurant Association, which is in session this week at Philharmonic Auditorium.

Though the free exposition in the basement of the auditorium building remained open, the visiting restaurateurs were absent. During the morning, as the guests of the local restaurant men, the delegates clambered into many automobiles and went out to see the sights.

The motorcade left Los Angeles at 8:30 a.m. and toured out Huntington Drive to Pasadena and to the Foothill Boulevard. The party passed the citrus belt, Monrovia, Azusa, Duarte, Glendora, Upland and Ontario to Guasti, where it paused for a recess in the world's largest vineyard. From Guasti the visitors journeyed to Riverside, reaching there at noon.

Luncheon was served the visiting restaurant men at the Riverside Inn, the guests of Frank A. Miller, who gave them a brief address. The return trip was made through Smiley Heights, Colton, San Bernardino, Cucamonga and Upland, and home via Pomona and the San Gabriel Mission.

Today the restaurateurs will get down to business again. Addresses will be made by R. D. Clark of Cleveland; David Roth of this city. The visiting wives of the restaurant men will be the guests on an automobile trip today and at a theater party, while the men will attend a smoker at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Take First Step for Developing Slauson Avenue

The first step to bring about the development of Slauson avenue was taken yesterday by the City Council when it instructed the City Attorney to prepare proceedings for the widening of the thoroughfare from forty feet to seventy-six feet, between Figueroa street and the western city limits.

On account of the objections of property owners the Council has delayed taking action in ordering the widening of the street from Main street to Figueroa street.

The Los Angeles Investment Company is planning to aid in the development of the thoroughfare from the city limits to the ocean.

The improvement started yesterday calls for the widening of the street a distance of two and a half miles.

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy, involving the affairs of J. Scully, a business man of Oildale, Kern county, was filed in the United States District Court yesterday by three creditors holding claims amounting to $527.43. It is asserted that Scully committed an act of bankruptcy in collecting a $2000 life insurance policy, which he neglected to apply to the payment of his debts.

JUSTICE ADDS TO EDUCATION.

Tries to Visualize Pussy Willow Silk Combination Union Suit.

One by one the mysteries of women's apparel are being explained to the inferior sex. Yesterday Justice Hinshaw learned, if he did not already know, just what a pussy willow silk combination union suit was and is when Mrs. W. W. McClain of 333 South Hope street brought suit against the Bluebird Laundry to recover the cost of the article, which she stated was lost.

"Just what is a er—um—ah—pussy willow silk combination union suit?" asked the judge.

Mrs. McClain looked at him in amazement, apparently appalled at his ignorance. Then she started in and from what she said and from what could be grasped of what she said, a pussy willow silk combination union suit s a very complex and complicated affair.

Justice Hinshaw awarded her $10.50, the damages asked.

condition or destiny. My true selfhood as determined by God, is harmonious, healthy and free. I therefore refuse to be dominated or controlled by any argument of cold or sickness which has no authority from God in and by whom I live, and move, and have my being.'

"You will see, I think, that this method of mental practice simply displaces in thought the negative ungodly testimony of mortal sense, no matter how time-honored, with the reasoned truth of affirmative and harmonious spiritual sense."

BANKER HOTLY HITS UNIONISM.

high freights largely composed of the cost of high-priced railroad labor, added. To the prices swelled by all these charges must be added all the taxes that are laid on business.

"Congress knows that it is fooling the public when it says that it is taxing big business. Congress knows that in big business or in little business such taxes are merely additional expenses which are added to the price and paid by the buyer.

FARMERS SUFFER.

"Because farmers are not in transportation centers they are the worst sufferers. Every unnecessary dollar spent for wages, or for taxes on products which the farmer uses or does not use, or for their transportation by rail or water, directly or indirectly adds to the cost of everything the farmer buys.

"What he buys costs him more than it should. What he sells brings him less than it should. He loses going and coming. Not only the farmer, but all consumers pay more than they should and then together farmer and all, hurrah for the demagogues in and out of Congress who are shouting 'Tax big business!' 'Make the railroads pay their men high wages for doing nothing!'

Policies of the Federal Reserve Board also came in for their share of the general criticism when Charles de B. Claiborne, chairman of the division's committee on exchange, read his report. This committee has for some time been advocating the repeal of the reserve board's ruling which makes checks collectible at par through Federal Reserve banks.

State banks have been long opposed to this system of universal par clearance which was forced on them by the Federal authorities. They prefer a system that will enable them to make an exchange charge. The present system, according to the committee report, requires them to do a considerable banking service for others without any compensation. Under the direction of the committee, a test case is now being tried in the Supreme Court and a solution favorable to the bankers is expected soon.

EFFICIENT SUPERVISION.

L. E. Thomas, examiner of the State banks of Louisiana, spoke on the "Importance of Efficient Bank Supervision and How It May Best Be Obtained." The duties and attitude of the bank examiner and State banking departments towards the banks were outlined in the speech. "The bank examiner should make the banks feel that he has their welfare at heart," said Mr. Thomas.

A general discussion, touching chiefly on bank embezzlements and the means of preventing them followed. The consensus of the bankers regarding embezzlers was that stopping bank defalcations presents an impossible task. The real problem is in devising means of catching the culprit after the embezzlement has been committed. Several different schemes for preventing frauds and shortages were brought forward by the delegates in the discussion.

At the close of the session, R. S. Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans, was elected president of the division. H. A. McCauley, president of the Sapulpa State Bank of Sapulpa, Okla., is the new vice-president, and George H. Holderness, Grant McPherrin and W. C. Gordon are the new members of the executive committee. A chairman of the executive committee will be chosen later.

RAINFALL IS SLIGHT.

Precipitation is Reported From but Few Points in Southland.

Although a heavy fog hung over Southern California yesterday morning, rain was reported at only a few places, where a light shower was recorded. In Los Angeles the government station reported .02 of an inch during the early morning hours, while at Glendora .08 was reported, and at Sierra Madre .13.

At Pomona there was a heavy mist, almost a rain, for a short time during the morning, and at Alhambra a slight drizzle continued for a short time. At Ontario and Glendale a mist prevailed until nearly noon.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT.

Fulmer Hines of Los Angeles, University of California student, who was drowned in San Francisco Bay a week ago, met death accidentally, according to the verdict of the Coroner's jury at Oakland yesterday, said a dispatch from that city last night.

SOME SALVAGE.

We are advised that Jugo-Slavia is paying out and indicating a program of peace and progress. All Bolshevik tendencies have been suppressed and the inhabitants are patiently working back to normalcy. There is some salvage in the Balkans.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

More than 10,000 American churches are now using the films in one way or another. They may pick and choose and are not objecting to the quality of the pictures furnished them. The church does not ask a censorship over its own offerings, but is demanding a supervision of the theater. This is not exactly consistent.

THE BRITISH VIEWPOINT.

Labor members of the British Parliament, who came over to inspect the workings of prohibition in this country, report that they are not at all sure that we have any kind of prohibition here, but that we seem to have disposed of the licensed saloon with its distilled liquors and may at least be congratulated to that extent. But they are not much impressed with prohibition.

TALE OF A COW.

A New Jersey cow ate a bushel or so of decayed apples and in the course of the fermentation processes her nature became disturbed and abnormal. When a Jersey heifer is full of apple-jack she loses all sense of decorum. In this case Maud ran wild and waged a successful fight against three Fords at one time—driving them one after another into a creek. After this she broke up a picnic party by charging through its center and wound up the day's proceedings by chasing the hired man into the haymow. This should be a fearful warning to both two-footed and four-footed heifers to leave hard cider alone.

MONEY AND ELECTIONS.

Henry Ford serves notice that he is going to continue a wide fight against the illegal use of money in elections. He is going at it in the usual way: by spending a large sum of money for propaganda and influencing elections. He declares that he could not be induced to sit in the Senate under any circumstances. At the same time he says it is his purpose to continue the fight against the man who once defeated him. It would be wrong for Newberry's friends to spend money to elect him, but it is all right for Ford to spend a million to beat him. That is one of the glorious inconsistencies of the Michigan primary.

HOTTER AND DRYER.

Government experts report that the world is getting hotter. In a few million years hell will have nothing on the United States of America. The average temperature of the present year has been almost five degrees above the normal of what it should be. There is also a serious reduction in the moisture. The world seems also to be slowly going dry. It is perfectly safe to blame this on prohibition, but how about the heat? Do they mean that it will be shades when the universe goes dry? If the heat goes up five degrees every year and the moisture shrinks five inches every season we will all be going about with our tongues hanging out within the next 200 years.

SLUMP IN VOTING.

President Harding urges on his fellow-citizens the importance of voting in the elections. They turned out and voted for him with eagerness and enthusiasm, but haven't done much in that line since. The President mentioned the situation in Virginia, where only 90,000 persons voted for Governor out of a vote of 900,000 in the State. Since the women have the ballot there has been a slump in voting. The men seem to be willing to let the women do it and the ladies are finding that voting is unfashionable and consequently they are deserting the booth. It may yet be necessary to serve free lunch and distribute souvenirs in order to induce the electorate to go to the polls.

HUSBAND HUNTING.

The Illinois girl who advertised that she would marry any man who would furnish $3000 to complete her education and buy some clothes is now reported to have received more than 100 answers to her advertisement and to be able to take her pick from a long list of successful plumbers, merchants, farmers and insurance agents, all of whom are looking for just such a wife. If this be true, it only proves that it pays to advertise. The country is packed almost to suffocation with girls who will wed any party who will spend $3000 to "educate" them and keep them in modish apparel. At the same time there is merit in the proposition from the standpoint of the male. If a man is capable of calmly contemplating matrimony as a definite state it would seem wise for him to enter it in the company of some young woman whom he has especially trained as his companion. If he pays for the education he should at least prescribe the curriculum or course of study. Whether it be music, conversation or home brewing, it should be his option to inspire and suggest. If this Illinois girl is to be trained upon lines laid down by the prospective bridegroom he may have made an excellent investment. It is still possible that the pair will live happily ever after.

"YELLOW PERIL" NOT AN ISSUE.

The Times is inclined to view with more amusement than concern the attempt of certain alarmists to drag the "yellow peril" out of the property room and give it a place under the spotlight during the sessions of the disarmament conference. There was a time when timid souls all over the country trembled and blanched at the thought of an invasion of this country by a Chinese army, numbering at least 50,000,000 troops. They compared the populations of the two countries and found that the Chinese outnumbered us at least six to one. That disparity in numbers was sufficient to convince them that it was only a question of time when the yellow millions would drive the white peoples of North America into the Atlantic.

But the impotency of China has become so apparent during recent years that the average American regards an invasion from that source as no more likely than one from Mars. The Chinese Exclusion Act has barred our ports very effectively to the Chinese coolies and we look upon China as a friendly nation needing our assistance rather than as a possible enemy.

During the last ten years the "yellow peril" has shifted to Japan. This time fear is not awakened by reason of superior numbers, for we outnumber them about two to one; not because of their superior economic strength, for our national wealth is more than ten times that of Japan; but because they are represented as possessing an ability superior to that of the white races. It is not clear upon what basis that superiority superstition is founded. We have been in contact with the Japanese in California for some time. Frequent personal encounters have demonstrated that five Americans can easily defend themselves in a rough-and-tumble against ten Japanese. It is true that we do not want so many of them in the State; but the objection is one of blood and not of ability.

The Japanese that come to California have, in the main, a lower code of morals and a lower standard of living than that maintained by the citizens of the United States. In addition, the worst elements of the two races cohabit, and the offspring are a serious problem; for they are often physically and nearly always mentally deficient. It is for the best interest of both races that there shall be no mingling of blood.

But it is in no sense a fear of the physical force or the economic strength of Japan that dictates the attitude of the people of California and of the government of the United States toward the Japanese. We are amply able to protect ourselves against Japanese aggression. It is possible that, if the Japanese are permitted to use a free hand for the next fifty years in bringing China and Eastern Siberia under their dominion, they might form a federation of the yellow races with an imperialistic design that would threaten the peace and the safety of the white population of North America; but it is not at all probable. "The supremacy of the white race for at least another generation is fully established. Neither are we in a position where we are calling to our succor the peoples of Europe. If the issues between the American and Japanese governments are to be settled by force, if Japan will accept no other arbiter, we can protect our interests, both at home and in the Far East, without calling upon any outside nation for assistance.

There is a disposition on the part of the European press to place a false construction on the motive that actuated President Harding in promoting the approaching disarmament conference. Some of the European writers and diplomats have conceived the idea that we are alarmed at the increasing power of Japan and fear a descent of the Japanese fleet on our western coast. They are inclined to give to the conference a background of personal interest. Even Gustave Le Bon, the noted French psychologist, has fallen into this error as the following extracts from one of his recent publications testify:

> It is not to discuss the conditions of uncertain European alliances or an impossible disarmament that the representatives of the great powers have been invited to Washington, but to study a problem of which the importance to the United States is capital, for their future depends upon it.
> The problem of the Pacific, notwithstanding the paraphrases with which the orators will envelop it, will consist in finding the means to prevent the Japanese from sending their immigrants to the United States. Mingling not with other races, multiplying with extreme rapidity and working to a much better account than the whites, they will offer to the latter a disastrous competition.
> Unhappily, emigration for the Japanese is a fatal necessity. They have every year an excedent of many hundred thousand inhabitants who, finding no longer a place on their soil, not able to be expedited to China, already too heavily populated, wish to invade the United States. But Draconian laws have rendered up to the present time their access very difficult.
> Japan has been forced to submit to these laws, because she was not the stronger. But now?

And Le Bon proceeds to make a gloomy prophecy about the increasing power of Japan and the future onslaught of the united yellow races upon the people of this country.

With that form of the "yellow peril," however, this country is not greatly concerned. The main question affecting the Pacific area to be discussed at the coming conference is not the security of the Pacific Coast. It concerns the Far East.

There is a clash of national aspirations in the Pacific area, due in a large part to the desire of the Japanese to secure dominion over other peoples. Those questions can be settled but in one of two ways: by arbitration based on justice and the right of all peoples to self-government, or by a resort to force. The United States prefers justice to an appeal to arms. If Japan will consent to hold only what she has a moral right to hold all can be settled amicably and a reduction of armaments can be easily arranged. But if Japan insists on holding what she thinks she has the might to hold, regardless of justice to her neighbors, it is possible that another war will be necessary before the reign of peace can be definitely established.

President Harding called the disarmament conference for the purpose of reaching a decision whether justice or force shall be the dominating influence in the Pacific area. He was actuated by a sense of justice, not of fear; and that is the attitude of the American people toward the conference.

And She's Getting Away With It!

NATURE FAKING IN FILM LAND.

Stefansson, the Arctic explorer, diverts himself between polar expeditions by censoring the films exposed in the New York moving-picture theaters that pretend to depict life in the frozen North. He accuses the dramatists of nature faking and says that if they would take a trip into that great zone of which they write so glibly they would blush to the ears at their own ignorance.

Apparently Stefansson is as ignorant of the characteristics and habits of the film dramatists as they are of the regions which he explores and they write about. Even a slight acquaintance with the movie creators would convince him that they lost the art of blushing in the purlieus of filmland while they were acquiring the experience and atmosphere so necessary to successful cinema production. Film dramatists don't blush any more than silver foxes visit icebergs.

In his various expeditions into the northland Stefansson has left a part of his heart there and it pains him to see the things of the North traduced and maligned. But he admits that if the life of the snows was depicted as it actually exists it would probably be much less interesting to the spectators. Between his trips he is beginning to learn some things about civilization. The few go to the picture shows to be instructed; the passion of the many is to be diverted and amused. The realities of life are to be found on every hand and the average person flees from rather than courts them.

Filmland is the land of illusions. The spectators would turn their backs on a production which was true to nature and would denounce the author hardy enough to seek to rob them of their cherished beliefs. What child was ever grateful to the person who first robbed him of the illusion of Santa Claus?

If Stefansson were selected for the director of a movie production picturing life in the Arctic regions and insisted that there should be no subterfuges, that art and imagination should be sacrificed to truth, the film would be very likely to register a flat failure. A few would be grateful to him; but those few would not fill so much as the first three rows.

Truth lives in a well. If she were to appear in her native purity on the streets of Los Angeles she would be hustled into a patrol wagon before she had proceeded a block. This lesson has been learned by the motion-picture producers. Those who presumed to sacrifice illusion for truth have registered only failure. Stefansson admits that life in the North is not attractive, except for the few consumed with an unquenchable passion for visiting the waste places of the earth, who, having once listened to the call of the great unknown, conceive henceforth an incurable ennui in the presence of the commonplace.

As far as the film dramatists are concerned, they will mock Stefansson and his strictures so long as their nature-faking productions continue to crowd the theaters. He freely admits that his censorship is not likely to attain desired results. In the midst of his criticism he pauses to observe: "Long experience has taught me that the public adores to be misinformed and detests being told the truth. Probably the women in the audience who were wearing silver-fox furs—and it was that kind of an audience—fondly imagined the pelts they had on once frisked prettily around the blocks of ice." And these same women are not likely to forgive him for mocking those throws that cost husbands and fathers as much as $1500 a throw.

GOOD MEASURE.

Chief Justice Taft has now been sworn in and assumed his duties as head of the greatest judicial body in the world. There is no denying the fact that the decisions of the Supreme Court will take on added weight. But Justice Taft brings much more to the bench than weight. He is the judicial embodiment of the square deal and his compassions are commensurate with his splendid proportions.

BUSINESS FIRST.

When Lloyd George has disposed of the Irish question, curbed the Socialistic activities in England, solved the problems of the unemployed, arranged a disarmament program and started the wheels of industry to humming he is going home to get a hair-cut.

MOBILIZING THE JOB.

America must mobilize the jobs in the industrial arts. If there are stumbling blocks in the path they must be removed. Force may be used if force be necessary, but there are no existing barriers that cannot be overcome by arbitration and concession. Strikes and threats of strikes have caused much unrest and halted numbers of large enterprises. There are no workers who seriously intend to strike. Yet the threat and the discussion have tended to check industrial progress. In certain lines new factories would have been built or extensions made but for labor troubles and embarrassments in the coal and oil industries. Power, fuel and transportation have been threatened and the cumulative effect has been to put a brake on all industry. The purchasing power of the American people has been reduced. That means a lessening of home trade. Meanwhile the volume of foreign commerce has slumped slightly as a result of stimulated competition on the part of other nations. If the home market is to be enlarged and the foreign trade expanded there can be no further hint or use of the strike as an industrial weapon. It is a silly one to wave at best. There are now said to be 5,000,000 idle workers in this country. At least 1,000,000 of them are eager and anxious to take any jobs that are left open by strikers—no matter how skilled they may be. No strike can hope to be successful unless it is based upon absolute justice. If there are two sides to it the strikers are bound to be on the losing one because there are many better men than themselves ready and willing to take their places. The unions are themselves to blame for the reduction of wages. When they began to limit the output or capacity of the individual and to restrict product they forfeited the respect of intelligence and justice.

HORRIBLE CONSPIRACY.

Henry Lee Myers, Senator from Montana, claims to have made the harrowing discovery that the moving-picture people are taking an interest in politics—even to the extent of having a choice in the selection of representatives and other public officials. This he would clothe with all the mysterious raiment of a conspiracy. It would, of course, be frightful if the men who make the films should have any concern or interest in the selection of the country's Congressmen or other servants. Senator Myers offers a resolution calling upon the Department of Justice to investigate this critical situation with a view of mayhap correcting the evil ere it be too late. He says we have been regulating the railroads, the packers and the boards of trade and it is high time we were regulating the activities of the motion-picture makers. First thing we know they will be trying to influence elections. That is the way of it. If a man does not vote or take an interest in affairs he is held up as a delinquent citizen. If he indicates an unusual interest he is a menace to the republic. It is hard to please even a Senator.

THE HOUSE DIVIDED.

New York is all bloated up with arrogance. Never before in history has New York had an entire world's series in its midst and the glory is almost too much for Father Knickerbocker. He is so excited that he walks in his sleep. Whole families have been parted and spoiled in the partisanship which has arisen. When father is backing the Giants and mother is plugging for the Yanks, what show is there for a mere breakfast? Babe Ruth is not only a mighty swatter, but he may turn out to be quite a home-wrecker as well.

FOR WHOM DO THEY SPEAK?

Some of the ministers were saying that the directors of the Chamber of Commerce were not speaking for the 8000 members of that body when they made protest against the establishment of a costly censorship of the films. Are the ministers absolutely sure that they are speaking for all the members of their congregations when they demand such regulation of the picture industry? We are convinced that there are at least a few church members who object to the principle of censorship. The attitude of not all followers of Christ is censorious.

WHITING THE SEPULCHRE.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The college graduate was visiting his rich uncle, who considered the occasion worthy of a bottle of his old port—crusted, mellow nectar, served with the reverence due its excellence by the epicurean butler.

The boy drank in silence, drained his glass, then talked of other things.

Uncle felt that the port had been wasted upon this uneducated palate and signified to the butler to bring a lesser, poorer vintage for the next bottle.

"Ah, uncle," quoth the youngster, "this is good wine. Fine! Where did you get it?" and he sipped it gingerly.

"Why, you young cub, the other was good wine if you like, but this—" and uncle spluttered indignantly.

"Yes, sir, this needs recommending," remarked the youth. "The other didn't."

The Associated First National Pictures, Inc., have issued a sort of proclamation to the effect that the vast majority of the 200,000 people who earn their living in the picture industry are wholesome, domesticated people—and point to ten couples who are living in marital amity, four of them married within the last year. The list doesn't include the names of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, either, which seems to be a regrettable oversight. Neither does it take in Norman Selby, Earl Williams, Charlie Chaplin, Mildred Harris, Pauline Frederick, Geraldine Farrar, Lou Tellegen, Clara Kimball Young and so many of the other names so prominent and glamourful in the industry with which we are all so familiar. It seems a shame that these much-advertised people should have been omitted—for, of course, no particular reason. Especially as the proclamation goes on to explain that "Divorce is no more rampant among cinema people than any other class of professional people."

If there is no sepulchre, why this furious anxiety to white it? And, if there is one to white, why not white it over its more conspicuous parts instead of restricting the whitening to the inconspicuous shadows?

What that proclamation really implies is that rather a large percentage of the most prominent stars cannot be included in that list of the white and unsullied, having had the grave misfortune to acquire the divorce taint, but that its thousands of numerous undistinguished lights—too undistinguished to enumerate by name—are the ones who feel the necessity of upholding the film's domesticated reputation. Which, of course, seems a pity. In other professions it is the prominent and distinguished who bear the chief burden of this responsibility and only the small fry of no news value can "step aside" with comparative impunity.

Other professions, says this proclamation, have their quota of divorces and scandals, "most of which do not extend beyond local limits because, in most cases, the persons are unknown to the general public and anything beyond local publication is not of sufficient interest."

Well, that is equally true of the cinema industry. Unless the person involved is prominent before the public the cinema sinner is only good for a local paragraph on an inside page—just like any other profession. And the nationally known stars of any profession—politics, law, medicine, drama, literature or commerce—can always count upon their peccadillos being well advertised. And there has not yet been a single trade or profession other than the films which has been reduced to the ignominy of explaining that most of it is perfectly proper, although the highlight evidence would imply the contrary.

Directly a lady feels called upon to protest her virtue, that virtue is in doubt.

The film industry is bemoaning the fact that it gets too much publicity in this connection. But publicity is the very breath of its life. A large percentage of those 200,000 people "who earn their living in pictures" are press agents whose sole duty it is to inspire this publicity. No other profession has ever gone to the lengths to get organized publicity that the films have gone. And publicity is a raging flame that quite logically becomes unmanageable when combatted with gasoline in a fair wind.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

CHEAP SKATES.

Cheap skates are men whose idle lives no sane results are giving, who loaf and argue while their wives attempt to earn the living. While men of vim and merit chase around in high endeavor, cheap skates sit in the marketplace and thrash stale themes forever. They play cheap games for cheaper stakes in joints where skates assemble, and talk of toil with hoes and rakes will make them flinch and tremble. Cheap skates are men who never pay unless through writ or judgment; their promises of yesterday but show what bunk and fudge is theirs. They spoil their stand-off at the start, they mangle and behead it, and now there is no store or mart where they can buy on credit. Their children have to blush for shame, their wives, as well, are blushing, while they, to play a checker game, through alleys dark are rushing. Cheap skates are chaps who have no pride, who'd rather loaf than labor, and amble when charity's supplied by some more thrifty neighbor. Cheap skates will borrow book or hen, they borrow things and break them, and never bring them back again unless the peelers make them. Cheap skates abound in every town and rank not with its glories; they hold the shady benches down and tell the shady stories.

THE BUTTERFLY AND THE FAT MAN.

BY PAULINE BARRINGTON.

Butterflies live a day and die.
They fly
From flower to flower
Until some shimmering hour,
When their colors run
Back into the sun.
To kill a butterfly one must crush
her wings,
Break their wild, bright color that sings
Her song against the sky.

She was a butterfly . . . alas . . .
Light as thistledown on a blade of grass.
Her wings were frail and blue.
They flew
In strange places
Among hectic, flushed faces,
Fluttering over artificial flowers,
Into bowers
Of forced spring.
Where no birds sing.

There was a man who was fat,
A mountain of fat flesh.
His bull neck wrinkled at the back,
And of chins he had no lack.
He was not a clown,
For a clown has a soul of his own.
Where this man had rolls of fat.
It was his fortune and his pride,
His amazing fat hide.

He saw the lightness of the butterfly,
The flash of her wings fluttering by.
A calcium light glittered about her head.
Following where she led,
He tried to catch her,
Snatch her . . .
It is not difficult to catch a butterfly,
Though they dip, dart and fly so high.
All he needed to get
Was a net.

So he and his friends together,
With good luck and fair weather,
Set the net.
And the butterfly, whose beauty
Was her soul and duty,
Fluttered soft wings,
Blue with iridescent rings,
Into the fat man's net,
Already and set.
She shivered and was afraid,
But took a drink and felt repaid,
A little dizzy, delicious and queer.
There was nothing to fear.

Then . . . she was alone . . .
Alone . . . can a butterfly moan?
Alone with a man of fat!
Horrible . . . enormous . . . a mountain of fat!
Heavy hands were on her wings,
Breaking their quivering blue,
Crushing her body, too . . .
She was mad with fear . . .
The horror of his awful face and leer,
His open mouth like a cod
"No!—No!—O God . . .

A dead butterfly in a long gray box,
With screws for locks.
A dead butterfly with closed eyes,
And a three-cornered shadow on her cheek.
Her broken wings folded and meek.
A stillness of death and spent pain
Followed her from truck to train.
And softened her funeral march
Of jar and rack,
Of the baggage car and railroad track.
No friend, no flowers, no welcome,
no crowd.
For a broken butterfly going home in a shroud.

A REMINISCENCE.

An Incident in Early Career of Chief Justice Taft.

When the new Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court was simply a struggling young lawyer in 1886 a characteristic incident occurred in his office in Cincinnati.

There was a literary society known as the Unity Club, which had been addressed by his father, Hon. Alphonso Taft, former Attorney-General of the United States and subsequently Minister to the government of Austria and later to that of Russia. But young Howard, who had graduated with high honors at Yale, had to make his own way in the world.

In 1887 I was chairman of the Program Committee of the Unity Club and we were preparing a lecture course for the winter. It was planned to have notable men—professional educators, clergymen, journalists, etc., each to portray some phase of Roman life in the Augustan age of the Roman Empire when that empire was in the acme of its glory and wielded its sceptor over the whole known world. Subjects had been assigned and accepted. The posts, the orators, the arts, architecture, highways, commerce, seafaring craft, etc. Finally we wanted a brief sketch of Roman history from its foundation to the Augustan Age, and another from the latter period to the Middle Ages.

All these subjects except the last had been assigned and accepted. We seemed to have exhausted all available local talent. But someone had a bright thought—why not apply to Young Taft, a recent graduate of Yale, with high honors?

I called on him at his office; there were no clients waiting for audience; I had immediate access to his presence. I showed him the scheme for the winter course, the list of subjects to be handled and the array of prominent names assigned to each and pointed to the important subject reserved for him.

"Why, Mr. Knight," said he, "what do I know about the history of Rome during that period?" I thought a moment and said, "Mr. Taft I don't know how much you know at present of that phase of Roman history, but before you finish your essay you will be exceedingly well posted on the subject." He regarded me rather quizzically for a moment and then said, "Mr. Knight, I will undertake the job." And he gave us one of the most brilliant essays of the entire course.

I have no doubt that the study of the development of the Roman Catholic hierarchy which he made at that time was of advantage to him when he was appointed Governor of the Philippine Islands by President Roosevelt, for it was agreed by all that his administration of that dependency where the Catholic element was dominant was a notable success.

SPORTS MOTORING FILMLAND DRAMA

MAYS IS SUPREME AND YANKS WIN FIRST GAME IN BIG DIAMOND CLASSIC.

UNDERHAND PITCHING IS TOO TRICKY FOR GIANTS.

Carl Mays Puts His Subway Stuff on the Ball and Yankees Take First World Series Game in Walk.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Carl Mays, with one of his masterful exhibitions of box work, pitched the Yankees to a well-earned victory over the Giants in the first game of the 1921 world series on the Polo Grounds today. The blond American League twirler with his underhand delivery held the National Leaguers runless, the final score being: Americans, 3; Nationals, 0.

It was not without some fine fielding behind Mays, some heavy work with the stick and clever running on the bases that the Yanks were able to get the jump in the first all-New York series ever played for world baseball honors. Babe Ruth, king of the long-distance clouters, although he did not make any home run, was in there with a timely hit and some inspiring and heady coaching on the lines. Mike McNally, the Yankees' third baseman, rated as one of their weakest hitters, contributed a double which blossomed into a run and jumped into a niche in the world series hall of fame by tearing off a neat steal of home in the fifth inning for the second run of the game.

The Yankee victory was won against a determined Giant defense, a leading feature of which was a pitching gem by Phil Douglas, the Nationals' epithali star.

ON THE HIP.

Douglas laid the slugging Ruth at his mercy after the fourth inning, striking the Babe out twice, amid cries of approval from the Giant stands and bleachers, the appearance of Babe Ruth at the plate was the big attraction of the afternoon. As has been said, he went home-runless for the day, his only hit being the first-inning blow—a slashing single to center — that sent Miller home with the first Yankee run. Ruth on this occasion went out himself in a fast double play. On his second trip to the plate he received a base on balls. The sixth and eighth innings he struck out.

BOB IS THERE.

"Bob" Meusel, the Yankees' heavy-hitting right-fielder, another focal point of popular interest, did something toward living up to his reputation as a long-distance clouter by finding Phil Douglas for a hit in the sixth inning, which would have been a triple but for a slip on the part of a Yankee member of the Meusel family—a break which if the game had been closer might have done his team an extremely ill turn. "Bib's" hit scored Roger Peckinpaugh from second, but unfortunately for the batter, he failed to touch first in rounding that bag and was declared out while standing on third. Some one in the Giant dugout had caught the omission on his part, and the ball was called for and thrown to first, whereupon Umpire Moriarty declared him out.

The Yankees' three runs came in the first, fifth and sixth innings. Miller opened the game with a single to center and took second on Peckinpaugh's sacrifice, Douglas to Kelly. Miller scored when Ruth hit the first ball pitched to him to centerfield. It was a hot drive and brought great cheering from the big crowd.

The Yankees got men as far as

"I WAS SURELY ROTTEN TODAY."

Kelly Reproaches Himself for Poor Work.

Says Giants Will Have to Put Up Stronger Game.

Certain McGraw Has Task to Stop All the Yanks.

BY GEORGE KELLY,
First Baseman of Giants.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Giants were beaten this afternoon by a team that surprised us so thoroughly that we had little to offer in rebuttal. It is impossible in the face of things to win a ball game unless you score a run or two, and we completely overlooked that little detail. We didn't exactly overlook it at that. We tried our mightiest, but Carl Mays pitched the greatest game of ball he has ever turned in, and there you have the secret of the first game of the world's series.

The task before the Giants is clearly defined. We will have to play the same sort of ball against the Yankees that we turned in against the Pittsburg Pirates when we humbled the pride of Gibson's men. In fact, we will have to go just a bit stronger, for it is quite evident to us now that the Yankees are to be feared at all times. There is a lot in their repertoire besides brute force, and they show it so clearly that there can be little doubt of it. That sort of baseball is no accident.

GOING TO WIN.

However fierce the rush of the Yankees might have been today, it has in no wise weakened the morale of the Giants. We feel that we are going to win the series, though we appreciate fully how hard we must fight. It is not going to be a question of going out and stopping Ruth. We will have to

BRITISH CHAMP IS CONQUERED.

Miss Leitch, Marvel on Links, Bows to Mrs. Letts.

Winner Gets an Ovation When Last Putt is Sunk.

English Woman Regarded as Golf Superwonder.

DEAL (N.J.) Oct. 5.—Miss Cecil Leitch, superwoman of golf, went down to defeat today before the superior playing of an older woman, Mrs. F. C. Letts, Jr., of Chicago. The score was one up. This unexpected setback for the British marvel at the annual national tournament occurred on the home green and came as one of the most thrilling and tense climaxes in the history of women's sports.

For the British woman who holds the British, French and Canadian championships, it meant the failure of a life ambition—to become a real world's champion by annexing the American crown. For the American woman it meant the attainment of something that no other woman of her nationality has ever achieved in championship competition and that the American champion, Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., has twice failed to accomplish.

GREAT COMEBACK.

Losing the first three holes and picking up at one of them, and being down at the turn, the Chicago woman, a former western woman's champion, gave one of the most remarkable exhibitions of grit ever seen in women's national competition. Although outdriven by the British champion, Mrs. Letts, by remarkably steady putting, was able to reach the home green all-even with her famed opponent. Each of their balls lay on the green about forty feet from the pin. Miss Leitch over-ran by about fifteen feet, with her approach putt, while Mrs. Letts was short by about ten feet. Miss Leitch missed her next putt and walked away, disconsolately. Mrs. Letts, confident and smiling before a gallery held breathless by the tenseness of the situation, holed the second putt for a par 4.

Scarcely had the click of the ball dropping in the cup died away before the gallery burst into a tremendous cheer and rushed in to con-

"IT WAS THE PLAY OF HAMLET WITH HAMLET LEFT OUT OF THE CAST," SAYS IRVIN S. COBB.

BY IRVIN S. COBB.
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—It was the play of "Hamlet," or "The Melancholy Dane," with Hamlet left out of the cast. It was an opening for a world's series with none of the features which usually mark the opening of a world's series. Lacking was the fine, rich fruitage of errors which nearly always betray the inner emotions of a thrifty group of athletes trying to keep one eye on the ball and the other on the money count of the attendance. Lacking was the bumper crop of errors which customarily is symptomatic of acute nervousness on the part of both groups of contenders. Lacking was the spectacle of an overanxious infield throwing 'em high, wide and handsome. Lacking was the strategy, the so-called science of inside baseball, of which we hear so much beforehand, which so often is smashed into shards and potsherds by a mating of tender pitching to sinewy batting.

Finally lacking was the tremendous record-smashing attendance, which, according to the prior press notices, was to strain the concrete seams and rip open the steel reinforced plackets of the Brush stadium.

JUST LIKE ALGEBRA.

What we had instead of these things was a well-nigh perfectly played game, mechanically as exact as a correct sum in algebra, scanty as to the harvest of swatting and with one conspicuous exception barren of really spectacular interpolations. The one exception came to pass when Mike McNally, lurking on third and being seized with an uncontrollable attack of nostalgia, stole his way swiftly homeward by taking advantage of the fact that shuffling Phil Douglas, who pitches with the old-fashioned Australian or crawl stroke, insisted on winding himself up like a grandfather's clock before delivering the ball. It has been a long time since anybody committed this form of grand larceny in a world's series and at a later hour tonight Mr. Douglas was reported as still being engaged in trying to figure it all out.

What also we had was a perfect day, with a sky as blue as Colleen's eyes and a sun as genial, almost, as mid-July's; that plus an early expectation of an audience that would entirely overpass any audience that ever gathered in any ball park on this hemisphere. But the audience failed to reveal itself. By rights every seat should have been filled. But in the upper tier of the grand stand were wide stretches of vacancy, and even in the bleachers there was room for a few more of those sun-tanned zealots who know more about baseball than old man Chadwick ever dreamed of.

JESS BULKS LARGE.

Indeed, it looked for quite a spell as though there wouldn't be a crowd at all. This however was before Uncle Jess Burkett entered with the Giants. Only by the happy circumstance of his being in uniform was he saved from the embarrassment of being ordered by the constables to disperse. When in practice he stationed himself at second, the centerfield was entirely blocked out from the view of those sitting in the press stand. Father Wilbert Robertson is still the official human detour of the National League, but Uncle Jesse is entitled to second place on the ticket by at least forty pounds over any other contender.

The preliminary scenes were not particularly exciting, the spectators entered quietly, almost listlessly. Only one casualty was reported. Over in the bleachers the early birds thought up the quaint conceit of making late arrivals run the gauntlet. With newspapers rolled into clubs they belabored the heads of those who came along the aisles, and one celebrant was so careless as to strike a fellow citizen on the head with the editorial page of the Brooklyn Eagle, causing concussion of the brain.

PURE QUILL STUFF.

As for the game itself it, taking it by and large, was one of those games which bulk largest in the box score on the morning after. The fielding was of the pure quill variety, although to these eyes it seemed that, if a shade might be given to either side, the American League outfit played with just a trifle more snap and pep and—strangely enough—with just a bit more confidence than did their opponents. The pitching was lovely to see, whether executed by the heavy-footed Douglas with his 1914 model, Trudgeon stroke delivery, or by the blocky Mays with his curious style of reaching back first like a lady trying to button her frock up the back, and then snapping the ball forth from the level of his knee joint.

A PREMONITION.

If tomorrow, say, of next day the Yanks can produce that battling ability which won the American League championship for them, they should handily take the larger championship now in issue. But this merely is a sort of premonition and should not be construed as a prophecy.

From the massed-in picture of the opening game certain salient details stand forth in one's memory. It may

ANGELS GET GREAT HOME WELCOMING.

The pennant-winning Angels arrived here yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, at the Southern Pacific Station. Prexy Patrick, Eddie Maier and Carl Weber were on hand with about 200 enthusiasts to welcome the boys. When Red Killefer, looking like a fashion plate, alighted from the train at the head of his famous club, the Catalina band struck up "Hail to the Conquering Hero."

All the players were tendered automobiles, and headed by the band, paraded through the downtown streets, where they were given a hearty welcome. The parade disbanded at Eighth and Broadway. The big breakfast that was to have been given to the team at the Los Angeles Athletic Club was abandoned owing to the lateness of the train's arrival.

TIGER ELEVEN IS MUTILATED.

Oxy's Hopes Dwindled When Norton is Injured.

Plucky Quarterback Breaks His Collar Bone.

Gary, Spangler and Argue Are Out of the Game.

Occidental cohorts are in the depths of despair following the defeat of their team at the hands of the heavy Sub Base eleven. They wouldn't have minded the licking so much if the gobs hadn't ruined so many of the potential heroes of the Tiger eleven. Fullback Gary and Cliff Argue, the star end, went out on the second play of the game and Tony Spangler was incapacitated a little later.

Last night it was pretty generally believed on the campus that the Tigers would go into the important Whittier game on Saturday minus all three of these men, the most important cogs in the Occidental offense. Goodenough will probably take Argue's end, and Lawyer and Stub Norton fill in at half and full for Spangler and Gary.

Coach Joe Pipal telephoned in a little more woe last night, saying that "Smic" Norton, Oxy's veteran quarterback, broke his collarbone in yesterday's practice. It seems that Norton was engaged in falling on the ball when the thing happened.

Busted collar bones seem to be in vogue at the Tiger College just at present, as Substitute Quarterback Pud Hadden retired from the game about a week ago with such an injury. It looks as though Pipal would have to do some tall hustling to get another mathematician in time for the Quaker game Saturday.

JUST AS GOOD FOOTBALL BACKS TODAY AS THERE WERE IN THE DAYS OF COY, THORPE, ET AL.

BY ROBERT W. MAXWELL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) Oct. 5.—Are any really great backfield men being produced these days, men who could stand with the mighty giants of a generation ago? was the question that developed among a group of critics and officials shortly after a game at Yale a couple of weeks ago.

It was one of those questions like asking you to pick the greatest pitcher and the fastest horse of all times.

SOME SCOFF.

Several of those present scoffed and began to recall the prowess of men like Ted Coy, Vince Stevenson, Jim Thorpe and others of their stamp.

To our humble way of thinking, the answer should have been in the affirmative and we have been wandering about football fields for more than a generation in every capacity from getting battered up in the line and carrying water to officiating.

A question like that is apt to create a wrong impression in the first place. It gives the idea that every back of a generation ago was a superplayer, and that is all wrong.

There were poor backs, mediocre backs and great backs at the time just as there are today. In only one respect does there seem to be any real falling off, and that is in the old type of line smearing, bone-crushing player who can sweep through with six or seven tacklers tearing at various parts of his anatomy.

This probably is due to the fact that the essential style of play has undergone a great change in recent years. The play has opened up immeasurably. Speed is absolutely necessary and very, very few of the burly mammoths who could rip and smash their way through tons of humanity have that speed. They had to get going behind fine interference before they were tackled in order to perform their wonderful feats and they had to have a lot of help. The rules have abolished that sort of thing now.

The game is different.

SPEED ESSENTIAL.

As soon as a play is started now the game is almost always wide open and a back has to be a quick starter and fast on his feet to get anywhere at all before he is brought down.

In proportion, we believe there are just as many great backs today as there ever were. There may be a shortage any given year and a surplus the next. A couple of years ago there were twenty stars on as many teams throughout the country who were so evenly matched that it was farcical to pick any four of them as outstanding all-America material. Not only was it farcical, but it was an injustice to the rest.

Who the great performers of this year may be we are not going to predict yet, but there are a number in eastern ranks and a couple in the Middle West that we feel pretty positive will be, while the Pacific Coast should also have a number of rattling good men.

MEN ARE MEN.

Men are men, and the human race as a whole doesn't slip to any vast degree in one generation. Players of the stripe of Mahan, Brickley, Lourie, Rodgers, McMillan and their class would have been stars twenty years ago just as they were a couple of seasons back.

Conditions may change, but men don't. They are just as game, just as great at every angle of the game and if football today were to revert to the style of game played twenty years ago there could be just as impressive line smashers as held the center of the stage then. But the game has advanced and the players have had to keep pace with it. That much is sure.

QUAKERS PILE UP HUGE SCORE.

Santa Ana Junior College is Swamped, 69 to 0.

Game is Played at Whittier Behind Closed Gates.

Howling Hundred Disposes of Unwelcome Visitor.

Whittier College and Santa Ana Junior College engaged in a strictly private football game yesterday afternoon on Hadley Field, in which the Poet crew won by the close score of 69 to 0.

For once the justly celebrated Howling Hundred of the Quaker institution was not present to watch their varsity do battle, but officiated as a species of bodyguard to keep prying strangers away. Blondie Deems, line coach at Occidental, was discovered using his six-feet-six-or-so to good advantage by peering over the fence at the fracas, and a goodly portion of the hundred shoved him into his fiver and gave him a push in the direction of Eagle Rock.

Coach Perry used his first squad until it had piled up a substantial score, when the second bunch was sent in to keep the Santa Ana boys busy. Suggett, the Whittier halfback, bucked through for five touchdowns, while Capt. Johns counted for two. Thompson, Riece and Buckmaster each crossed the line once, and Pickett converted nine out of the ten touchdowns. The line-up follows:

Santa Ana J. C.		Whittier

Louisville Fairly Slaughters Baltimore Pitchers in First Series Clash.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Oct. 5.—Battering a trio of pitchers for nineteen hits, Louisville, champion of the American Association, buried Baltimore, pennant-winner of the International League, under a 14-to-1 score in the first game of the junior world series here today.

The veteran "Nick" Cullop, a left-hander of major league fame, pitched for Louisville, and although touched for ten hits, succeeded in keeping them fairly well scattered. In the ninth Baltimore, by bunching two hits, saved itself from a shutout. Cullop fanned six and allowed one base on balls.

With a shutout facing them, the Orioles started after Cullop in the ninth, getting three hits and their only run of the game.

Acosta, Ellis and Schepner were the batting heroes, each getting a trio of hits. Although ideal baseball weather prevailed, a disappointing crowd turned out, the official attendance being 3253, and the receipts $4324.

Officials explained that the small attendance was due to the registration for the November elections, which required 5000 workers.

Rose Scott is Winner of Big Futurity Race.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Oct. 5.—Rose Scott, Henry Oliver's black filly by Peter Scott-Roya-McKinney, repeated her great performance of last year, when she won the 2-year-old division of the Kentucky Futurity by taking the 1921 3-year-old division in straight heats at the Grand Circuit races today. The Pittsburg filly was best all the way, leading Nelson Dillon, A. R. Coxe's bay Dillon Axworthy colt to the wire in 2:05¼ in the first heat and 2:03¼ in the second.

Driver Tommy Murphy piloted the winner and Serrill, who yesterday piloted Helen Dillon, a full sister of Nelson Dillion, to victory in the 2-year-old division, held the reins over the second horse. The purse for today's race was $14,000.

Jay Lee, piloted by Curtis, won the third heat of the unfinished 2:15 trot, the first two heats of which were won on Tuesday by Lightsome Watts.

This event was a three-heat race raced under a new rule whereby the winner of two successive heats is taken out and the remaining horses contest for the remainder of the purse.

Main Direct, brown gelding, by Harry Direct-Main Sheet, easily won the 2:04 pace, a two in three heat event, with Senator Wilkes finishing second. H. Fleming piloted Silka to victory in straight heats in the 2:06 trot. The Cumberland, a 3:08 stake event for $2000, was not finished, Walter K, piloted by Palin, winning the first heat and Jimmy McKerron, piloted by Ray, taking the second.

be that leggy and audacious stripling, Mike McNally, sliding home from third with his gears grinding and his large, resolute hoofs winnowing the air as he comes in, feet foremost. It may that other gallant youngster, Frank Frisch, the walloping window blind of Fordham, getting four lovely smackers in four times up, which is batting 'em out by acclamation, I should say. It may be the infant terrible, infrequently known among intimate friends as G. H. Ruth, coming like a lion with a beautiful smash in the first inning and then going out like a lamb—going out on strikes, at that—twice in following frames.

WITH A TRELLIS.

It may be Pipp for the Yanks, scooping them up out of the sky or gathering them up from off the latchets of his shoes, wide-winged as a spread eagle, or windmill, and as infallible at catch or recovery or toss as time itself. To look at him in repose Pipp suggests one who should have been born with a trellis, he being wand-like, limber, willowy, and seemingly in dire need of support to twine his languid frame athwart. But how he did play baseball at Coogan's bluff this day of grace.

It may be any one of these matters or some other which will linger in the brainpan of the onlooker. But to my way of thinking the very finest, the most heart-lifting incident of the day was something, a small thing it was—which I think must altogether have escaped the notice of a great many in the grand stand.

Just before the umpires called time the band played the national anthem, and the crowd rose. Away out in center field nine or ten of the players grouped themselves on either side of a small slab at the base of which lay a great wreath of autumn leaves tied with purple ribbons.

This slab was the memorial erected last spring to the memory of Capt. Eddie Grant, a one-time National Leaguer, who fell fighting in France, and the nine or ten who stood at attention alongside the marker were professional players who formerly had played with or against him.

Dick Kerr Pitches Better Than Grover Alexander, Hence Cubs Lose.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Dick Kerr was a better pitcher than Grover Alexander today, and the Chicago Americans shut out the Chicago Nationals, 2 to 0, in the first game of the series to decide the city championship. It was the first meeting of the two clubs since 1914.

Kerr allowed his opponents only five scattered hits, three of which were made by Barber, while the National leaguers' ace was touched for ten blows, most of which were bouched. Johnson's double in the third inning, followed by a single by Strunk, sent the first run across the plate, while the other run counted as the result of an error. With Hooper on third in the sixth inning, Mostil grounded to Terry, who threw to O'Farrell in time to nip Hooper at the plate, but the Cub catcher dropped the ball.

Alexander was unable to stop the left-hand hitters on the White Sox club, Johnson and Collins touching him for three hits each, while Hooper and Strunk gathered two apiece.

The attendance was announced at 16,843, and the gross receipts $14,-365.14.

The commissioner's share was $2,-144.77, and the players' share $7,-326.23; $4,844.15 went into the clubs' share, which is to be divided equally at the end of the series.

Dempsey Says He Agreed to No Percentage

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BATAVIA (N. Y.) Oct. 5.—Jack Dempsey, world's champion boxer, testifying today in the $100,000 suit brought against him and Jack Kearns, his manager, by Frank P. Spellman of Batavia, denied he had entered into any oral agreement whereby Spellman was to receive 25 per cent of the profits of a motion picture in which the champion was starred.

Dempsey raised his voice and made defiant answers to some of the questions asked him on cross-examination. When asked if he was the champion "prize fighter" of the world, he declared he was not a prize fighter, but the champion "boxer" of the world. It is expected the case will go to the jury tomorrow.

Too Much for Him.

When a woman who was "burning up the road" on the boulevard was overtaken by a traffic officer and motioned to stop, she indignantly asked, "What do you want with me?"

"You were running forty miles an hour," answered the officer.

"Forty miles an hour? Why, officer, I haven't been out an hour," said the woman.

"Go ahead," said the officer. "That is a new one on me."—[Argonaut.

RUTH-KELLY CONTRASTED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Here is the story of the batting of Babe Ruth, peer of all home-run hitters, and George Kelly, leading circuit clouter of the Giants, in today's first battle of the current world series. Ruth did not face Jess Barnes, who pitched the ninth inning for New York:

NORTHWEST GRIDIRON DOPE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 5.—Despite the closeness of the game with Willamette last Saturday, the University of Oregon is somewhat encouraged by early-season football developments. The first actual tryouts have revealed considerable strength among the new material and all of the veteran players who were expected have returned to school in first-class condition. Coach Huntington is now experimenting with some shifts in the line-up, which he believes will strengthen the team. He expects to decide pretty definitely on his players and their positions by the Pacific University game to be played October 8.

There is a close contest for quarter-back on the Oregon team between Bill Reinhart and Hal Chapman. Reinhart played a good brand of football last year as understudy to Bill Steers. Chapman last year was on the freshman team. Chapman is a heady player, quick and fairly heavy. It looks now as though he will be first-string quarter, with Reinhart as sub. Chapman is a brother of Nish Chapman, Oregon half last year. The diminutive "Skeet" Manerud, 128-pound field general, will not return to school.

TACKLE TO HALF.

Shields, former tackle, is now playing half regularly. His kicking is improving and Huntington thinks he has solved the punting problem. Both of his punters, Shields and Leslie, were tackles, and Huntington wanted to avoid shifting men every time he called for a kick. Shields has speed for a half and fits into his new berth very nicely. Both of last year's halves, Chapman and Mead, are out of school, so there is another vacancy behind the line, with a flock of applicants trying out for it. Rip King has returned to play full-back. Ward Johnson of last year's freshman is understudying King.

Oregon's graduate coaching staff is working in perfect harmony. The only hitch in coaching so far has been the inability of Kenneth Bartlett to make satisfactory business arrangements to return to handle the freshman. In his place Manager Benefiel has signed Everett Brandenburg, captain of the 1919 team.

COSMOPOLITAN.

Oregon is advised that it is going to have a very cosmopolitan bunch against it when it meets the University of Hawaii at Honolulu on Christmas Day. Otto Klum, former Oregon Aggie star, now coach on the island, writes that he has thirteen different nationalities represented on his squad. All coaches in Hawaii have found that racial jealousies are something that must be overcome before a successful football machine can be developed. Klum has forty players practicing. A league has been formed which begins its games on October 8. It is likely that an all-Hawaiian team will be selected from this league to meet Oregon on New Year's Day.

The Ninth Army Corps team at Camp Lewis has been considerably weakened by an injury to Maj. Merriliat, former West Point star, which will keep him out of the game for the season. He broke an ankle in scrimmage. As he was acting as coach, quarter and field general his injury was a real blow to the soldiers. No one had been practicing to take his place, but there is much good material on hand and a satisfactory substitute doubtless will be developed.

The Army squad is now complete, with thirty men going through practice twice a day. A training table has been inaugurated and training rules will be enforced even more strictly than they are by the college teams.

The team is composed principally of officers. However, Private Doran is developing into a good end and will probably play throughout the season.

HATS OFF TO WADE KILLEFER.

BY JAMES F. MORLEY,

Former Owner of Los Angeles Baseball Team.

"Come on, Red!" This was the war cry with which the Angel rooters used to encourage Red Killefer and his so-called "nice old gentlemen."

"I think I hear them calling me," said Red, and he "come on." He not only surprised his staunchest adherents, but accomplished the seemingly impossible. The dope did not give him an outside chance.

There are four essentials supposed to be necessary in a championship ball club—good pitching, good fielding, hitting and speed on the bases. With the exception of an excellent pitching staff our Angels did not come up to the required standard.

BRAINS!

Yet they won the pennant. Why? The only way I can account for it is brains and experience, qualities that go hand-in-hand, qualities which overcame a world of handicaps and won the Pacific Coast League championship.

Despite the fact that "comparisons are odious," let us be odious for a few minutes and compare the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams. Would Graham trade Catchers Agnew and Yelle for Stanage and Baldwin? Would he trade O'Connell for Griggs? At second base there is little choice. But would he trade Kamm for Niehoff? Would he trade Caveney for McAuley? Schick and Carroll are fairly even, and Crawford and Fitzgerald figure about the same value. Would Graham trade Ellison or Walsh for Stats? He would, and toss in the City Hall and Ferry Building for good measure.

As to pitchers, O'Doul, Couch, Scott, Crumpler and Lewis figured as good as Aldridge Hughes, Crandall, Tmohas, Reinhart and Dumovich, but they did not deliver. Man for man, the Seals outclassed us in everything except brains and experience.

As a manager, I take my fur hat off to Wade Killefer, who, while surrounded by several equally smart players, kept dissension away by consulting with them in emergencies, and by showing them every consideration possible. They fought for him, and won for him.

Killefer was ably aided by Rube Ellis. Rube has slowed up some, but he knows baseball, is still a dangerous hitter in the pinches and valuable on the coaching line, or at detecting any flaw in the other club's defense.

The "comeback" of Tom Hughes was one of the real sensations of the season, and in one view meant the pennant for Los Angeles, as the games which he turned in were necessary. All that Tom asked of Powers, who owned the club at that time, was the loan of a uniform and a chance. He demanded no pay, just an opportunity to show what he could do. Tom was a long time coming, but he came.

Too bad that good sportsman, Johnny Powers, couldn't have held on until his team won, and we cannot do less than divide the congratulations between him and William Wrigley, Jr., under whose ownership Los Angeles baseball prospects are indeed bright.

SOCCER LADS GET BUSY.

With the majority of the practice games now history, the teams in the Southern California Soccer League are getting down to hard work for the opening of the season scheduled for October 16. If a line on the clubs can be got from the practice performances, fandom can be assured of fast and keenly contested games. All of the clubs have had a wealth of material to choose from this season, and some difficulty has been experienced in the cutting down process. Quality has ever been in the minds of the different managers.

Arrangements have been made for the use of Maier Park, Vernon, and a double-header will be staged there on the opening day. According to present plans Vernon baseball park will be the soccer headquarters this year, and it is likely a double-header will be played there each Sunday, with the first game called at 1:30 p.m.

With a view to encouraging the game in the schools a movement is on foot for the formation of a second division composed of high school teams. A cup would be presented by the local association for competition and the direction of the league would be by the local body. Every aid will be given by supplying coaches and furnishing of referees.

BRITISH GOLFERS MEET DEFEAT.

NEARER HOME.

Turning from New York to things ...nearer home recalls the fact that ...we are to have some big league ...stuff right in our midst, starting ...next Saturday.

Four stars, greater than any ap... ...pearing in the world series, with the ...exception of Babe Ruth, are now ...speeding westward. These are Ty ...Cobb, Harry Heilman, Rodgers ...Hornsby and George Sisler, who will ...manage the four clubs in the Win... ...ter League, composed of Vernon, ...Los Angeles, San Francisco and the ...Missions, also located in San Fran... ...cisco.

The combined salaries of these ...four men in the majors probably is ...not far short of $70,000, and how ...the promoters of the California ...Winter League ever talked their ...owners into allowing them to play ...out here for ten weeks is one of ...the real mysteries of inside base... ...ball. It was one of the conversa... ...tional triumphs of all times.

QUITE COLOSSAL.

Never before has winter baseball ...been attempted on such a colossal ...scale. In fact, it always has been a ...slip-shod affair. But this league is ...as much of a league as the Pacific ...Coast League, and the pennant ...stands for something. In a way, it ...will be a pennant race between Cobb, ...Sisler, Hornsby and Heilman. Each ...aspires to display his managerial ...skill, and the genius baseball athlete ...craves his base hits in the winter ...as in the summer. Being stars, ...they naturally are jealous of their ...reputations, and realize that their ...work as managers and players will ...be followed by the country at large.

Usually, out here we see big ...leaguers at their worst, in the win... ...ter after they have fattened up or ...in the fall while they are just begin... ...ning to take it on. Cobb, Hornsby, ...Sisler and Heilman jump into Cali... ...fornia uniforms while still warm and ...steaming from two close major ...league races.

Carl Mays, Pitching Ace of the Yanks.

The brightest star in the Yankees' hurling constellation lived up to his reputation by underhanding the Giants to death. Frank Frisch, A.B., was the only one of McGraw's men who could solve the slants of the blond dealer with any degree of success.

GREB SIGNS TO BOX GIBBONS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—George Engel, manager for Harry Greb, the Pittsburg light heavyweight, announces he has accepted Tex Rickard's terms on behalf of Greb to box Tom Gibbons for the light heavyweight championship. Engel further avers that Rickard had been trying to get into communication with Gibbons or his manager, Eddy Kane, for several days without avail. Greb will meet Gibbons any time or place, according to Engel.

FRANK FRISCH, A.B., BEATEN BY YANKS.

BY JAMES WHITAKER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Frank Frisch is not the kind to offer ity, was beaten by the New York Yankees today. We feel that Mr. Frisch is not the kind to offer alibis. He might draw attention to the fact that there were nine Giant players who lost the first game of the 1921 world's series with him. He might say that he took every chance, including the spikes in McNally's shoes when he slid into third base in the sixth inning and got no backing. But you know he'll say none of these things. He'll take the burden of the 3 to 0 defeat as he took the burden of the fight—because there are none to take it with him.

Mr. Frisch will stay licked, we are certain, for exactly twenty-four hours.

When Umpire Rigler walked on the field nonsense sluk off. Severe Mr. Rigler withered nonsense with a baleful glance. He caught sight of a number of wiseacres playing courtier to Judge Landis behind first base and broke up their meeting. He cast a cold and disapproving eye in the direction of Mayor Hylan and made a commanding gesture.

Mayor Hyan threw Mr. Rigler a nervous ball and the game was on. Somewhere in this paper they tell the story of it. Some of it will bear two tellings. There was McNally's heroic slide in the sixth. It came to the fans, parched for a little thrill (for it was not one of your blood-freezing ball games) as a gift. At the time of its happenings, Mays, the Yankee pitcher, was trying to get a little story for himself. McNally, on third, was forgettin, while Mays, at bat, tried, as pitchers always will, to hit a home run.

The Machinist's Challenge.

"This is my car," exploded the indignant tourist to the garage man, "and what I say about it goes—see?" A dirty-faced machinist crawled out from under the dead machine and, looking at the irate man for a moment, said pleadingly, "For Gawd's sake say 'engine,' mister!"—[Everybody's Magazine.

VACANT SEATS GIVE JOLT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. — At least 5000 vacant seats in the unreserved upper grandstand at the opening game of the world's series!

At $2.30 each, not much more than half the section filled!

It was a jolt to the American and National League moguls and, in fact, to the army of 600 or more sports scribblers and the 30,000 fans who jammed the lower grandstand reserved section and every spot in the bleachers.

Tonight, loyal sporting writers, who scoff at such suspicions that baseball is on the downgrade in popular interest, even in a world's series, are explaining that the vacant seats were because of the "advance boom."

Columns and columns have been written about the crush at the league offices for reserved tickets. Beginning last night the bleachers line began forming, and Mr. Average Man undoubtedly was frightened away with the vision of a surging, battling mob trying to get into the Polo Grounds.

KLEPPER SELLS STOCK.

KEPPER SELLS STOCK.

SEATTLE, Oct. 5. — William H. Klepper, for the last two years president of the Seattle Club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League, Secretary-Treasurer James R. Brewster and Director George Hardenburgh have sold their stock in the corporation to James R. Boldt and have resigned, effective October 15, it was announced today.

Mr. Boldt, already a large stockholder, will be elected president at the October meeting of the stockholders and will conduct the future affairs of the organization, according to the announcement.

There was no lack of harmony in the club, but because Mr. Boldt was the heaviest holder of stock, he felt it was "only good business" to direct the club's business policy, it was announced.

second base in the second and fourth innings. In the fifth McNally opened with the only double of the game, was advanced to third on Schang's sacrifice, Douglas to Kelly, and stole home.

The third run came in the sixth. Peckinpaugh singled to short. A passed ball by Snyder allowed him to gain second. After Ruth struck out trying to put the ball out of the lot, Bob Meusel hit to left center, scoring Peckinpaugh. Meusel drew up on third for what looked like a perfect three-bagger, but was called out for not touching first base. After this inning only one Yankee reached third base.

The Giants threatened the home plate twice. The best chance to score came in the fourth inning with Frisch on third and only one out. He had reached first on a single to right, stole second, and took third on Young's sacrifice, Mays to Pipp. Hewas left there as Kelly struck out and Emil Meusel Grounded out, Peckinpaugh to Pipp.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

The other chance came in the sixth inning on Frisch's triple after two were out. Young, however was not equal to the occasion, going out Ward to Pipp. The Giants had men left on second in the first and second innings.

One of the surprising things about the game was the fact that while the Polo Grounds will accommodate nearly 39,000 persons the official attendance figures showed but 30,203 persons present. The upper grand stand, to which admission could only be obtained by purchase of tickets at the gates after they were opened, showed large stretches of empty seats at the extremes of the stand. This was easily accounted for, however, when it became known that the police orders to keep nonticket holders from the vicinity of the field after 1 p.m. had been strictly enforced, with the result that thousands of late comers, who might readily have been accommodated, were kept beyond the reach of the box office.

As for the temper of the crowd, it was remarked that some degree of the enthusiasm witnessed at most world series contests seemed lacking. There was a ready enough explanation of this, too, when it was recalled that this crowd was one divided against itself, with probably something like a fifty-fifty split between the Giant and Yankee rooters. From this it need not be taken that the usual roaring outbursts of gleeful fans were not in evidence when things took favorable turns for one side or the other, but simply that at no time did stands and bleachers arise as one man to shout the shout of the joyful. Something like half the crowd did not feel much like shouting.

NOT THRILLING.

For another thing—and possibly this was the more compelling reason—the game lacked really tense situations. It was close throughout, but the Yanks, as the score shows, took an early lead and not only were they never headed, but never was there a chance on the part of Giant rooters to cheer a possible tied score or a successful rally. The Yankee rooters made plenty of noise when the game was ended spectacularly by a flashing double play with Peckinpaugh and Ward as the leading figures.

The Giant fans had held hope of a score up to this point, for Frisch got a clear single to start the inning and visions of a rally were indulged in. Frisch, however, was forced by Young and then Kelly's hit to Peckinpaugh was tossed by him to Ward, forcing Young, Ward then wheeling and throwing to first, getting the batter and ending the game. The only other double play of the game was made by the Giants in the first inning. There was one out when Bob Meusel forced Ruth at second, Frisch to Rawlings, and was himself thrown out at first.

OUT SPEED THEM.

In base running the Yankees outsprinted the Giants two to one. McNally's two steals could not be matched by the Giants, whose only pilfered base was earned by Frisch. Pipp, of the Yanks, tried to go to second, but was thrown out, Snyder to Rawlings. Four sacrifices were made in the game. Two of them, by Peckinpaugh and Schang, figured in two of the Yanks' three runs. Others to sacrifice were Pipp and Young.

Douglas gave four bases on balls. The men who received the passes were Ward, Ruth, Pipp and Schang. His passes did not figure in the scoring.

Mays was very steady. He gave no passes, but hit one man, Rawlings, the ball striking the Giants' second baseman on the leg.

An analysis of the pitching shows that Mays in nine innings pitched eighty-six times, an average of nine and one-half an inning. Twenty-eight of these were balls, eighteen were strikes and nine foul strikes. Twenty resulted in infield outs and five in outfield flies. The five hits of the Giants and a hit batter accounted for the remainder.

THE STATISTICS.

Douglas sent the ball to the plate 103 times in the eight innings he worked, almost thirteen to the inning, thirty-nine times pitching balls, putting over thirty-five strikes and six foul strikes and being touched for three fouls which did not count as strikes. Fifteen infield outs, and the Yankees' five hits make up the remainder. The Yankees' other two hits were made off Barnes, who pitched twenty-two times—ten balls seven strikes, one foul strike, and two infield outs.

Although Douglas was credited with a lost game, he struck out six to Mays's one. Ruth fell a victim twice in his last two trips to the plate. On one of these occasions there was a man on second, Peckinpaugh, Ward, Schang and Mays whiffed once each. Schang also was struck out by Barnes.

The only Giant to fan was Kelly, who cut the air with a man on third.

An odd incident of the game was that not a Giant outfielder made a putout.

With an attendance of 30,203 the official announcement gave the gate receipts as $102,945, a new record. Of this the players' funds got $53,032.15, the two clubs a total of $35,948.10, and the National Commission, $15,894.75. The only other case of the gate receipts at a world series game running over $100,000 was the sixth game of the Cincinnati-Chicago series in 1919, when the receipts were $101,768.

Some 400 and odd newspaper men gathered to report the series, said to be the largest number ever assembled for this purpose. The great majority came from the eastern section —New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Massachusetts being the most heavily represented.

gratulate the victor. Miss Leitch was graceful even in defeat, warmly clasping the hand of her successful rival a moment before the American woman was lifted to shoulders of several other Chicago players and carried to the clubhouse.

DIDN'T CRACK.

The reason for the greatest upset in the history of women's golf is best epitomized in the words of the defeated star herself: "I had a wonderful opponent, who didn't crack."

The defeat of Miss Cecil Leitch removed the most dangerous foreign contender for the American championship. There is still a possibility, however, of the title going abroad. Miss Edith Leitch, sister of the defeated star, today displayed the best approaching and putting of the tournament by defeating the clever Miss Mildred Caverly, 4 and 3. Her recoveries and her chips from traps, dead to the pin, amazed the gallery.

Mrs. Latham Hall, who is competing as a representative of Mid-Surrey, England, and is listed as a foreign entrant, is actually the English-born daughter of an American citizen, a native of New York. Mrs. Hall, who was tied with Miss Glenna Collett of Providence for the qualifying medal, increased respect for her ability today by defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago, the western champion, 5 and 3.

Miss Alexa Stirling, who is defending the title, had no difficulty in defeating the gray-haired veteran, Mrs. Caleb Fox of Philadelphia, 8 and 4.

"I WAS SURELY ROTTEN TODAY."

attend to them all. And we are going to do it.

A great deal will depend upon our pitchers for the next couple of days. Of course, branching out as a journalist does not give me the key to McGraw's thoughts, and so I cannot tell who will pitch tomorrow. However, it is pretty certain to be either Art Nehf, our lefthander, who has pitched brilliant baseball throughout the season, or Fred Toney. I incline to the belief that it will be Nehf, and I think he will win his game. We have a very fair idea on what the Yank hitters like to hit and likewise what they can't hit.

IS INVINCIBLE.

Carl Mays was unbeatable. His underhand delivery swept up to the plate, and when we swung for it, it wasn't there. That goes for most of us, and for me in particular. I had the misfortune to hit into a double play that closed the game and gave first blood to the Yanks. Mays put a wicked break on everything he threw, and believe me, he threw plenty.

However, looking around for a silver lining, we don't have to look far. Frank Frisch saved us from utter route. He was the dominating feature of the entire afternoon. In four times at the bat he rapped out three clean singles and a triple, and proved right then and there that the delivery of Mays could be hit. Johnny Rawlings got the other blow for us, but most of the time the bases were pretty clear of the Giants. We had men on bases six times in the afternoon, and four of these occasions found two of us out. Now, you know for yourself that there is mighty little nourishment in that sort of thing. Twice Frisch got on to open the inning. He got to third in the fourth, and Mays, pitching invincible ball, struck me out. In the next I hit into the double play. Some rotten day for me.

HIT AND RUN.

Now, when we heard of the Yankees, we learned that they were a slow-moving, slow-thinking team, that depended upon Babe Ruth to do everything for them. We discounted a good deal of it, but just the same we rather expected to cripple them if we stopped him. But they pulled the hit and run on us, they sacrificed, and even stole home on us. It is a good thing that bench was nailed down or they might have pulled that on us. I certainly take off my hat to Miller Huggins. Baseball fans might not have appreciated the fact, but they saw one of baseball's history happenings when Mike McNally stole home in the fifth.

He doubled, and when Schang sacrificed he took third. Mays was out on strikes, and with Miller up we thought we had the Yankees stopped. Douglas shot through a high ball on the inside and McNally stole the plate. Ty Cobb pulled that stunt back in 1909. But it has not happened since then. It was pretty good for a slow-thinking, slow-moving bunch of ball players, I will tell the world.

HEW CLEANLY.

The Yankees hewed out their runs cleanly. In the first, Miller was fairly lucky when his roller got by Johnny Rawlings, but Peck's bunt was clean and Ruth's single, scoring Miller, was clean as a hound's tooth. I have described McNally's steal of home and there was no fluke there. We got a good and bad break in the sixth when Bancroft threw Peck's grounder wild and Meusel tripled. Bob, however, forgot to touch first and he was out. That eased the situation for us. Phil Douglas pitched a good game and had a lot of stuff. The scores gave Peck a hit in the sixth, but I think it was an error. But let that go. Errors are a part of the game. Douglas, however, while he stopped Ruth cleverly could not stop the American Leaguers. He had a lot of stuff. But it takes more than stuff to cop off the games. Tomorrow is our day, I hope.

BOBBY'S OMISSION DIDN'T HURT; HOYT MAY BE ON HILL TODAY; HIGH POCKET KELLY FAILS.

BY MARSHALL A. HUNT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—What with a tang of autumn in the air and another tang from old Kentucky which wasn't in the air, we certainly enjoyed a lady's company at the Polo Grounds yesterday. Whatta booh, though, whatta booh.

We paid more attention to the tang that wasn't in the air and to the lady than to the game.

MISSED IT.

We missed Bob Meusel's act in the fifth inning when he would have made a perfectly good triple had he only touched first base. Whatta booh, whatta booh.

Such little oversights have cost clubs league pennants and world's pennants, but the Yankees didn't need Meusel's run so very much. The swat, which is technically known as a fielder's choice, scored Peckinpaugh with the Yanks second round.

Waite Hoyt probably will be the lad who will pitch tomorrow, with Jack Quinn in readiness to take over the reins in case the Brooklyn youth begins to wobble. Hoyt has a peculiar habit of slumping about the fifth or sixth inning. Shawkey was worked too hard in the bull pen today to start tomorrow afternoon.

TO USE NEHF.

Manager McGraw will no doubt send Art Nehf in against Marberer's Row in the second bramble and Smith will do the backstopping. Jawn, however, might fool the talent again.

Three actors, a wrestler, a barber and the leader of the Yankees' star band were spotted in the press section. There were several genuine correspondents there, however.

Harry Stevens, the retound gent in the blue suit, is going to be the real winner. A dollar bill buys but two cups of coffee and a toothpick in his lunch wagon.

KEL A BLOOMER.

High pockets Kelly was a sort of a bloomer, although he left first base and speared straight up like a rocket in the fourth inning to nail Bancroft's relay of Ward's swat. It was a corking play.

The Giants will go "on the road" tomorrow afternoon. They will switch dugouts and use the one built for visiting players. They will wear their road uniforms. Most fans never saw the Yankees in their out-of-town costumes until today. They looked like a high school team.

MORE FILMS ON WAY.

TOURNEUR AND LEAH BAIRD WORK AT INCE.

By Grace Kingsley.

The Thomas H. Ince studios are commencing activity. Douglas MacLean is beginning work on a film version of "The Hottentot," and another company is making a special feature for Mr. Ince.

Maurice Tourneur is shortly to start a superproduction, probably "Lorna Doone." Mr. Tourneaur has been busy preparing the script for this, and has also another feature in mind, which he is soon to make, the name of which will be announced later.

Another feature on which work will shortly be commenced is one in which Leah Baird will be started. The name of the story is not yet announced, but will be within a few days.

Miss Baird is spending a vacation motoring through Southern California, but she is to get into harness soon literally and figuratively inasmuch as she is even now planning the gowns she will wear.

Mayos Serenaded.

Frank Mayo and Dagmar Godowsky, who has just become Mrs. Mayo, attended the performance of "My Lady Friends" at the Majestic, Monday evening, and the orchestra leader, spying them, gave the signal for the wedding march, which the orchestra played with bright and shining faces, while the bride and groom sat frying in their blushes. The audience, learning the cause of the demonstration, applauded wildly.

Sara Sothern's Bird.

One hears of chickens loose on Broadway, but it's seldom that a bird wings its innocent way into that path of sophistication. Nevertheless the Majestic boasts such a paradox.

The birdie is an ordinary little linnet, which somehow found its way into the foyer, and has been fluttering around the chandeliers ever since. Whoever painted that ceiling was a real artist, for it seems to be fooling even the bird, inasmuch as the little creature refuses to fly into the open, but persists in thinking the blue ceiling is the sky.

Sara Sothern, ingenue of the Wilkes Stock Company, has adopted the bird, by a sort of long-distance adoption system, and insists that the janitor climb up every morning and evening to put food and water in the chandelier where the bird can get it. That the bird occasionally bathes in its drinking water and baptizes a patron of the house does not deter Miss Sothern in the least in her humane work.

King Baggot Preparing.

King Baggot is assembling an all-star cast at Universal City to film "Human Hearts," to be sent to the screen as a Universal special. It is from Gerald C. Duffy's screen adaptation of the stage play by Hal Reid. Baggot broke his box-office records as a star himself, and has recently demonstrated his directorial powers with "Moonlight Follies," "Cheated Love" and "Nobody's Fool."

Jack Perrin in the Deep.

Wandering around among the sea urchins and the jellyfish at the bottom of the sea is the occupation of Jack Perrin, Universal star, these days. But he is safely, that is pretty safely ensconced in a submarine, and his reason for such unconventional ramblings is that scenes for "Bob, of the U.S.N." are being made under the direction of William Craft.

Gertrude Olmstead is playing opposite Perrin, and is looking forward to appearing in some of said undersea stuff, but doesn't know whether to look on the prospect as a threat or a promise.

Gladys Walton Back.

Having finished a vacation during which she engaged in some charity work, had her dental work attended to, took a motor trip to San Diego and otherwise filled in her time, Gladys Walton is back at Universal beginning work on "Sandman," a new starring vehicle by Doris Schroeder from J. U. Gelsy's novel. Dallas Fitzgerald is directing.

Here and There.

Lillian Rich has been selected to play the leading feminine role in "Man to Man," Harry Carey's latest Universal feature, and Alfred Allen will appear in an important character part.

Noah Berry, Lloyd Whitlock, Percy Challenger, Helen Raymond and Mai Wells have been chosen for leading roles in support of Priscilla Dean in her new U feature, "Wild Honey."

Lois Wilson is playing the leading feminine role opposite Wallace Reid in the latter's new vehicle for Paramount, "The Champion."

George Melford and his company have arrived in San Francisco and are preparing to start some of the big scenes of his Paramount production, "Moran of the Lady Letty," in which Dorothy Dalton is starred with Rudolpho Valentino in the masculine lead.

Viola Dana, Bosses Pa and Ma.

Now at last, just for once in her life, Viola Dana has got a chance to boss her pa and ma, and get even for early spankings.

It came about in this way. Louis Lewyn, west coast representative of a feature film organization, requested Miss Dana to appear in a picture subject with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Flugrath, who have recently established their residence in Hollywood.

So, during the few days vacation the star enjoyed after completing "Glass Houses," Miss Dana arranged a little story, and with the assistance of her cameraman, John Arnold, produced the requested reel.

"And I certainly did make papa and mama step lively!" commented Miss Dana.

Grauman Directs from Afar.

Trust Sid Grauman to keep his finger on the public pulse, even if it is by absent treatment. Although Mr. Grauman is in New York at present, busy with a multitude of important business affairs, he is managing, by means of telegrams and night letters, to direct the prologue of "The Case of Becky," starring Constance Binney, which is to go on at Grauman's next week.

Jackie Coogan to Europe.

It begins to look as if there won't be a single person who is anybody, left in this country pretty soon. Now it's Jackie Coogan who is looking forward to a trip to Europe, but this will not occur until next summer, for he has his contract to fulfill in the making of pictures, and his pa and ma won't let him go over and hobnob with blue blood until he has done his "stent."

It appears that since Charlie Chaplin and Charlie's picture, "The Kid," have been such a sensational success, the English public is clamoring for Jackie, who played the name part in the picture. An English publication even went so far as to relax British stoicism and say that "Were young Mr. Coogan to step on English soil, he would receive a welcome rivaled only by that of the famous Charlot himself."

So after that, of course, there's just nothing for Jackie to do but to show himself.

Max Hoffman Weds.

Having gotten the consent of both papa and mamma Hoffman, Max Hoffman, 20-year-old son of Gertrude and Max Hoffman, is now a bridegroom. From Houston, Tex., comes the news that young Hoffman has just been wed to Norma Terriss. The two are appearing in a vaudeville act together. Miss Terriss was formerly a Ziegfeld beauty.

Bushman and Bayne Soon.

The actual dates of their appearance at the Orpheum of Francis X. Bushman and Beverley Bayne, have been set. They will be here in a fortnight, beginning on Monday matinee, October 19. Shortly afterward they will be followed by Carlyle Blackwell. Both will offer playlets.

Harold Lloyd Says It.

Harold Lloyd's zeal for exact details in his comedies was the occasion of a trip to San Francisco of the art director of the Hal E. Roach studios before "A Sailor-Made Man" went into production, to examine prints in a private collection that showed a real Sultan's harem. When he returned, he showed the picture of an interesting interior to the comedian, and added, "This was the harem of Abdul Aziz."

"Who's he?" asked Lloyd.

"He was the Shah of Persia. He's dead now."

"Then his name can't be Abdul Aziz," argued Lloyd. "It must be Abdul Azwaz."

Lloyd's company is about to separate for a few days' vacation. Mr. Lloyd is still undecided as to where he will go. Sam Taylor will motor to Santa Barbara. Mildred Davis plans a trip to Tacoma. Fred Newmeyer, "Red" Golden and Walter Lundin are bound for San Francisco. Jean Havez will stay in Los Angeles and think up some more jokes, and Hank Kohler will go to San Diego.

Ben Wilson Heard From.

"Bare Fisted," Ben Wilson's special western production, starring Jack Hoxie, is well into production. The company spent several weeks at Yuma, Ariz., where desert scenes were shot, returning last week to the studio, where they are now filming interiors. It is expected the picture will be completed within another three weeks.

ORPHEUM BOOKING HEADLINER BILLS.

This seems to be the season for the return of the old timer to vaudeville. Therefore it happens that with the opening of all the houses along the Orpheum circuit, the local Orpheum—our own particular Orpheum — has received bookings for the next few months in which famous vaudevillians will shine in brilliant bills.

The slump in other branches of theatricals in the East has put at the disposal of Orpheum booking offices acts which for years have been unobtainable because of their being in New York productions. Therefore, again the Orpheum promises us no less than three and sometimes four, real headliners every time during the coming season.

First to appear among the stellar lights will be Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, who have turned their backs on the flickering films. They will come to Los Angeles on the 17th of this month, to stay for two weeks. Carlyle Blackwell will follow them. He also is a renegade from "the pictures." His sketch, "Eight, Six and Four," was written by Mark Swan. On the bill with Blackwell will be Neal Able, "the man with the Mobile face," and Carleton Bellew of "Jada" fame, both favorites here.

Then, week by week, these attractive men, women and things will appear in rapid succession: A bill of four headliners, including Aline Stanley; Franker Woode and Bunny Wyde; the Cansinos, Spanish dancers, and Felix Adler with Francis Ross, who need no letter of introduction.

After all this we shall have Helen Keller, and on the same program Harry J. Conley in "Rice and Old Shoes." Then come Pearl Regay and her dance band from the Rialto Hotel in Chicago. On the program with Miss Regay is Jack Rose, nutty nut. Grace Nelson, operatic star, headlines a bill on which appear Moran and Mack, black-face funsters. After which comes the first big girl act of the season, Corinne Tilton's revue, which has a large cast and twelve pippins. On the same bill are Jack Clifford and Fid Johnson, two boys from Los Angeles, whose nutty act is a feature.

Looks like fun, eh, what? Anyway, enough to keep us happy till the bells ring in 1922, when we shall see what we shall see.

In New Herbert Musical Play.

Marguerite Zender and Tyler Brook in scene from "Angel Face," to be presented next week at the Mason.

David Butler a Feature on New Pantages Bill.

Every little while the film fans who attend New Pantages in search of vaudeville fun as well as celluloid flickers are given another picture in which David Butler is hero. He makes a good hero, too, and they never tire of him. This week he shows in "Making the Grade," a clever screen version of "Sophie Semenoff" by Wallace Irwin. "Making the Grade" is full of thrilling episodes, its locale being Russia, though its young and adventurous hero is an American. Helen Ferguson plays Sophie, the lovely lady in the case.

After the film, the fun. Or is it before the film? One never can tell, because the New Pantages bills don't seem to have a beginning nor an end, they just go on and on, delightfully. Anyway, Jan Rubini, always welcome, plays for us once again on his wonderful violin. Signor Jan has two charming assistants. Mlle. Diane, who sings cute songs in a chic way, and Miss Voelker, the talented violinist's able accompanist. Their number is a great musical treat.

Joe Whitehead delivers the jokes that produce the laughs—his goods are perennially fresh, despite their age. The burlesque of Stan and Mae Laurel, "No Mother to Guide Her," though occasionally a little rough, is very funny. It hits hard, and it makes a hit. Nat Burns and Bill Lorraine, "Broadway Thieves," sing and dance to the accompaniment of applause. In "White, Black and Useless" we have three humans and a mule, all in a grand mix-up of kicks and falls—lots of hilarious fun. Maud and Frank Cromwell, who come from Barnum and Bailey, do the trapeze in breezy style.

Which ends a very good show.

FARRAR LEAVES.

During her stay in Southern California Miss Farrer has remained in seclusion in her bungalow at the Hotel Maryland.

Accompanying her when she left for the East this noon were her father and manager, Sidney Farrar and her maid.

"AIDA" GLOWS WITH BEAUTY.

Superb Massed Effects in Scotti Production.

Vocal Competition is Keen in Lyrical Scenes.

"La Boheme" Has Attractive Presentation.

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT.

Majestic in the sweep of its melody and harmony, "Aida," over the most superb of Verdi's operas, proved the massed powers of the Scotti Grand Opera Company last night at the Mason. Climax after climax of tone thrilled the listeners into bursts of wild enthusiasm and, though the theater was not filled to capacity, the resounding applause and the cries of acclaim far surpassed the demonstration of the two previous evenings of opera.

Like a tapestry of glowntg color was the splendid pageant of the coronation of the victor in the second act. Every neutral hue seemed to be blended in a web of permeating richness. Nothing of the gaudy or offensive detracted from the appeal to the eye in the glorious massing of subtle and inviting hues. Yes—I except one thing, or rather two things—the stupid convention of the bathrobe band and the negro extras who grinned their excitement over a first appearance in opera. Personally, I kept my eyes off the trumpeters, one of whom was even bespectcled. Spectacles in the days of the Pharaohs! Can you imagine it? It is a mystery to me why the beauty of such a picture as is afforded by "Aida," second act, should be spoiled continually by a senseless adherence to operatic tradition.

But this was the only flagrant fault in a scene where Scotti's acquaintance with metropolitan productions was manifest in his splendid attempt to visualize some of the bigness and grandeur which should belong to an impression of ancient Egypt. Never easy to accomplish is such a feat when a company is carrying its properties across the continent.

VOCAL MARATHON.

Virtually, a vocal marathon was entered into by the principal in "Aida." The combination for honors was keen. Nobody in the cast showed any inclination to save his or her voice, and in striving to overcome the terrific volume of orchestral tone in the pageant scene, all the principals let go the fullness of their powers. Had Conductor Guerrieri tempered the force of his instrumental blasts ever so little the brilliance of the ensemble would have been admirably proportioned. The test was a little too strenuous, however, for this though the effect accomplished the desired purpose of lifting the audience off their seats.

Especially in the lyrical scene on the banks of the Nile did the principals put forth of their best to do justice to their roles. Each in turn rose to new heights, as the bewitching melody of this portion of the score came to life under the compelling baton of Fulgenzio Guerrieri.

Olga Carrara, Jose Palet and Greek Evans composed the trio who have much of the loveliness of "Aida" at their beck and call in the Nile scene. Miss Carrara sang Aida—really sang the role with a fine sincere feeling for the charm of the music. Her acting, as in "Manon Lescaut," is not above reproach, but her quality of tone is exceedingly attractive.

Mr. Palet found the demands of Rhadames part very serious for his otce, which may not be classified definitely as a dramatic tenor. In the lyrical passages he showed a warmth of tone that was alluring, and his rendition of "Celeste Aida" proved exceedingly attractive. Greek Evans was fully equal to the dramatic exjencies of Amonasro. He imbued the part with a heroic vigor. He has a voice that is exceedingly well placed.

To Alice Gentle belong the laurels for a fully perfected portrayal both dramatically and vocally. Her Amneries was a statuesque figure, quite a contrast to her grotesque part in "Zaza." The vitality of her tones and her personality are beautifully matched. Following the denunciation scene she received an ovation.

Distinction was given the part of Ramfis by the basso Italo Picchi, who is known from previous appearances here. His tone has a notable breadth

The part of the King of Egypt was sung by Louis d'Angelo.

"Boheme" Charms.

Thanks to the inspiring presence of Antonio Scotti, himself, and a cast which exhibited artistic virtues in their signing and interpretaton, the performance of "La Boheme" by the Scotti Grand Opera Company proved an attractive event yesterday afternoon at the Mason. Puccini's delineation in music of life on the old Montmartre with its follies, its sincerities, its joys and its sorrows drew only a moderate attendance. Those present gave ample testimony of their delight in the production, however, tendering a particularly notable reception to Queena Mario, who has been a favorite with the popular operatic organizations for several seasons. At the close of the third act she enjoyed the tribute of bouquets and floral baskets.

The performance marked the first appearance of Fulgenio Guerrieri at the conductor's desk. The popular director of many a popular opera demonstrated the fact that he has not forgotten his feat of leading an opera without the score. His interpretation was, as usual, distinguished by the fervid feeling and sweep, with which he knows how to imbue his orchestra when Puccini is the source of the music.

Scotti's presentation of "Boheme" is a highly vitalized affair. He makes the second act particularly dashing, especially in the scene with Musetta. Much life was given to the role of the flirtatious one by Anna Roselle. In fact, she made the waltz number radiant with vivacity.

Queena Mario again appeared as an ideal Mimi. The love duet, the Addio and the Death scene all had a splendidly subdued beauty, both as a result of her intelligent singing and warmth and sympathy of her conception of the role. She has added a new role of gayety to her playing of the Cafe episode.

The intelligence displayed by Joseph Hislop as Rudolfo was an outstanding factor. He showed the reserve of real artistry, giving to the role a certain new character. His singing was lyrically fine. His voice does not astonish by any brilliance, but is used with discretion.

One fault of the production was the strenuous prompting for some of the lesser roles. bTe prompter's voice was audible even over the sound of the orchestra in the festive second act.

The Coat Song by Giovanni Martino was pleasingly given. Louis d'Angelo sang Schaunard. Paolo Ananian was also effective in two buffo parts.

How much Scotti makes of the role of Marcel, though. A beautiful bit of acting went to his credit at the end of the Addio duet, where he watched Rudolfo and Mimi vanishing in the distance, and registered a sudden overcoming sorrow for the departure of Musetta. Both the stage picture and the music blended in their interest.

Barber of Seville.

Thursday evening the charming music of Rossini will be enjoyed in "The Barber of Seville," with Angela Ottein, the brilliant young Spanish coloratura soprano, Tomorrow evening the performance of "Tosca" with Alice Gentle as Tosca and Scotti as Scarpia.

The last two performances will include, Saturday matinee, a double bill of "L'Oracolo" and "Cavalleria," with Scotti, Picchi and others, and Saturday evening "Rigoletto," with Rosina Galli in the name part, Orville Harrold and Hislop as the Duke.

THE WAY TO GET RID OF BLACKHEADS
Here is a safe, safe and sure way to get rid of blackheads. Just get two ounces of calonite from any drug store—sprinkle a little of it into a cup with a wet sponge—rub over the face briskly—wash the parts and the blackheads will be entirely removed. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, or how long they've stayed, will disappear, leaving the skin without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt mixed with the oil from the pores of the skin—pinching them causes irritation, make them larger and more noticeable, and do not get them out after all. But calonite powder will dissolve the blackheads right out, leaving the skin clear and in their natural state. Anybody troubled with these disfiguring blackheads should certainly try this method.—[Advertisement.

TO CHOOSE NEW HEAD OF U.S.C.

Trustees to Name Seminary and Hospital Chiefs.

To Fill Trustees' Posts Thrown This Year.

Plans for the Conference Here Are Picked.

The new president of the University of Southern California, a new dean of the Theological Seminary and a new superintendent of the Methodist Hospital will be named at the forty-seventh annual Southern California conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

This was the information gained last night from District Superintendent Byron H. Wilson of Los Angeles following his annual report meeting at University Church. The sessions are being held. In this he referred to Dr. George Marsh, president of University of Southern California, by saying he hoped he will be president emeritus for almost many years to come.

The examination of this after the year will be admitted that a successor to Dr. Bovard probably will be selected as a result of the conference terms of one-third of the trustees of University of Southern California expire this year and their places must be filled by the conference either by re-election or election of new members.

In addition to the expected uniting of the two churches, a new dean to succeed Dean C. Healy of the Methodist Theological Seminary is expected to be named. Supt. Wilson said. The third position of importance to be filled is that of superintendent of the Methodist Hospital.

HOSPITAL SHAKE-UP.

The vacancy was caused by the recent resignations of the superintendent, all of her executive staff and one, and of five members of the board of trustees recently. In his annual report Supt. Wilson mentioned that the hospital is doing good work under the guidance of the Woman's Home Missionary

The names of the successors to the high posts were not made public last night, but they are expected to be announced during the conference.

The district superintendents who read their annual reports included Dr. J. Inwild, Long Beach; Harry Fresno; W. Y. Davis, Pasadena; Henry I. Rasmuss, San Diego, and A. W. Adkinson, Arizona. A statement by Bishop Adna W. Leonard, head of the conference, at the opening business session in the morning that he would not change the superintendents this year followed out last night's plan, which he sounded for this conference form his cabinet.

The outstanding matters will come before the conference in addition to the important announcements of the appointments of the ministers by Bishop Leonard. They are the Pacific Palisades proposition, the educational committee's report which will deal with the affairs of the University of Southern California and the Methodist Hospital

The Pacific Palisades project concerns the recent announcement that Clarence Hand has obtained an option on 3000 acres of land fronting from Santa Monica on the ocean north of Santa Monica on what is commonly known as the Huntington tract. Part of the option, amounting to $1,000,000, has been exercised, and $500,000 more has been raised for the purpose.

It is planned to make a great camp meeting place at the Woman's Figures on Board Bill Make Clerk of Court Pass Buck.

Figures are sometimes mystifying, but it is seldom that they are as completely bewildering as those presented yesterday to E. H. Miller, clerk of the Small Claims Court, when Rosa Lee Bradford, colored, of 1867 Darwin avenue, recorded her claim against Albert Bowie, also colored, of $10 loaned and a board bill."

"What does the man owe you?" asked Mr. Miller when making out the woman's affidavit.

"He owes me $10 he borrowed and $34 board bill. He was at my house eleven days at $1.50 a day and that's $34," she concluded with emphasis.

"I beg er — your pardon," said the clerk, "but I'm afraid you made a slight error in your computations. Are you sure the sum is $34 for eleven days? That would be a little more than $1.50 a day."

"Course I'm sure. He owes me just that for just that. I'm going to collect."

Mr. Miller proceeded to fill out the affidavit, preferring to let some judge spend sleepless hours multiplying $1.50 by eleven.

Palisades, turning it into a western Ocean Grove. Arrangements already have been perfected for improvements sufficient to provide for meetings there next summer. A similar summer camp for the training of young people in church affairs also is conducted in the High Sierras, near Huntington Lake, where 400 acres have been obtained for the purpose and where summer Chautauqua has been held for five years."

The report on the Methodist Hospital is expected to bring to light some of the details of the friction that caused the tendering of resignations by at least five members of the board of directors, including the president and vice-president, of Miss Ida May Reed, superintendent of the hospital, and all but one member of her executive staff.

OFFICIAL ORGANIZATION.

The conference is the official church organization to which 338 ministers and thirty-two "members on trial" or candidates for the ministry belong. The territory embraced by the conference is all of California, south of the Bay of Monterey, Nevada south of Las Vegas and all of Arizona. More than 40,000 members of the church are in this territory and the constituency is estimated at about 200,000.

Rev. F. G. H. Stevens, for seventeen years an assistant secretary of the conference, yesterday was elected secretary. Rev. O. W. Reinius of Brawley was chosen statistician, and Rev. M. W. Beckwith of Rialto was elected treasurer.

Yesterday's program was started with the communion service, which is an official part of every conference. Election of officers then followed. Dr. Ezra A. Healy was in charge of the memorial service dedicated to the members of the conference who have died during the preceding year or to wives of members. In this connection, respect was paid to the memory of Rev. W. C. Norcross of Creighton, Ariz.; Rev. L. D. Van Arnam of Ontario, and Rev. T. W. Lincoln, Long Beach; Mrs. W. M. Sterling of Pasadena, Mrs. Martindale Woods of Monrovia, and Mrs. C. W. Tarr, widow of one of the charter members of the conference.

OLDEST MEMBER.

Rev. J. B. Green of Hollywood, treasurer of the pension fund, is the oldest living member of the conference, having been a charter member.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society yesterday afternoon held an inspirational meeting at the University of Southern California. Mrs. Lena Leonard Fisher, sister of Bishop Leonard, and Miss Inez Marks, who recently returned from five years' work in Western China, were the principal speakers on the program.

At the ministers' forum, Rev. Lincoln A. Ferris, pastor of the First Church at San Diego, presided. Rev. Henry H. Meyer made the principal address and following this came general discussion on "Our Religious Educational Problem."

The conference will continue until Monday night.

Poland Envoy Thinks Trade Should Tempt.

Zygmunt Nowicki, Consul-General of Poland for the Western States, with headquarters in Chicago, was in Los Angeles yesterday on a tour to lay the foundations for a consular service for the new republic. Conditions of trade with Poland are tempting, he declares, and since Poland, like Austria, especially seeks cotton for manufacturing, California growers may have dealings there in the future.

"A credit association has been formed at Warsaw to finance trade," Mr. Nowicki said. "We could make no more attractive description of Polish trade possibilities than already has been made by an American investigator, E. D. Durant, sent to Poland by the United States Department of Commerce. His views, published in the September 12 bulletin of the Department, are that business can be carried on despite the bad economic situation, and may even better it, and that Poland is well on the way to a solution of her economic difficulties."

Mr. Nowicki is a graduate of several Russian universities and he formerly was judge of an important court in Poland. He is at the Alexandria.

ART CLUB RECEPTION TO BE HELD TONIGHT.

The board of governors and the director of the museum at Exposition Park have issued invitations to a reception in honor of the members of the California Art Club, at the opening of their twelfth annual exhibition. The reception will be held in the main gallery tonight from 8 to 11 o'clock.

PLAN TO FIGHT FOR ARBUCKLE.

city and the attitude of the people there.

"I am convinced that Arbuckle will be found innocent. I proved that Arbuckle did not invite anybody to the party in the St. Francis Hotel which Miss Virginia Rappe attended. The inviting was done by others. In withdrawing from the case I wish to say that Prosecutor Brady and his staff are merely doing their duty as they see it; that they have a keen sense of justice and have accorded the defense every courtesy."

Attorney Dominguez's decision to resign came at a conference at Arbuckle's residence last week at which Attorney Milton Cohen was present. Following is the letter to Arbuckle written by Attorney Dominguez yesterday:

DOMINGUEZ'S LETTER.

My Dear Roscoe:

It is with profound regret that I am compelled to advise you that, because of my business affairs in Los Angeles, I am obliged to withdraw from the defense of your case. As I indicated to you in the conference held at your home the other day, it will be impossible for me to spend the necessary time in San Francisco that would be required for a proper defense of your matter.

In withdrawing from the case I am pleased, through sheer admiration of your conduct, to say to you that it has been a great pleasure for me to have met you and to have known your heart of pure gold.

I know you are innocent of the charges made against you, and that a jury of your peers in the courts of justice of San Francisco will acquit you. The good people of that wonderful city will see that justice is done. I am convinced from my knowledge of you, and the evidence in the case, that a great triumph awaits you. The people of San Francisco will give you justice and fair play.

God is just, and justice will be yours. Then you will be restored to the hearts of the people of our country, to whom you have given unbounded joy and pleasure.

I am proud to be your friend, and whenever I can be of service I am yours to command.

Your sincere friend,
FRANK DOMINGUEZ.

CONTINUE ARRAIGNMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Arraignment of Arbuckle on a police court charge of manslaughter, one of the two such charges pending against him, came up today in Superior Court but was continued until Friday. Arbuckle was not present but Milton T. U'Ren, assistant District Attorney, said that his presence would be required when the actual arraignment takes place.

"We are trying to bring this case to trial as speedily as possible," U'Ren said. "We would like to start the last day of October."

The manslaughter charge, a grand jury indictment, will not be dismissed, District Attorney Brady announced.

HUNT RUM RING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—Federal prohibition enforcement agents announced today they are investigating published statements in San Francisco that rum-running between Vancouver, B. C., Seattle and California points has become an organized business, with regular quotations on the prices exacted from the various elements in the illicit trade.

The asserted disclosures came in connection with the case of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, awaiting trial on charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe. The local agents said they had notified San Francisco authorities of several consignments of liquor reported to have been shipped to California recently. Every effort will be made to discover the asserted coastwide liquor ring, it was explained.

WARRANT IS ISSUED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—A warrant for the arrest of Jack Lawrence, charging illegal transportation of liquor, was issued by the United States Commissioner here late today upon complaint filed by Robert H. McCormick, special assistant to the United States Attorney-General. Lawrence is declared by Mr. McCormack to have delivered at the St. Francis Hotel liquor for guests at the party of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle.

Lawrence testified before a Federal grand jury concerning asserted liquor transactions, but Mr. McCormack said the charges in the complaint filed relate to other transactions than those to which the man confessed. Lawrence dropped from sight several days ago and efforts of Federal authorities to locate him have been unavailing, Mr. McCormack said.

ELKS AT CONVENTION.

Delegation of Two Hundred from Los Angeles at Santa Cruz.

More than 200 Elks from Los Angeles and 100 from Santa Monica, with similar delegations from other Southern California towns, are attending the annual State convention of the B.P.O.E. which opens today at Santa Cruz. More than 7000 delegates are expected.

The Santa Monica Elks are taking their band and hope to capture the convention for next year. There will be band concerts, a golf tournament, drilling and other contests. The elections will be held Saturday, the closing day.

CHIEF OF ARCANUM.

Arthur W. Kennedy is Named Supreme Representative for State.

Arthur W. Kennedy of Los Angeles was elected supreme representative from California at the closing sessions yesterday of the Royal Arcanum of California grand council meeting. It is the highest office in the grand council's jurisdiction. Frank V. Bell of San Francisco was made grand regent; Robert J. Simpson of Los Angeles, grand orator; G. L. Davidson of Los Angeles was re-elected grand secretary, and C. J. Wade of Los Angeles was re-elected grand treasurer. The terms are for two years.

TO CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

The ninth anniversary of the organization of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Association, which conducts a sanatorium here, will be celebrated Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Music and Art Studio Building, formerly Blanchard Hall. The program contains many musical and literary numbers, and motion pictures showing the history of the institution.

Accuses Spouse in Note, Then Shoots Herself.

"Charley, I have found you out! I have found out just what you are! I know you won't love me any more!"

After placing the foregoing note on a table in her bedroom, Mrs. Ruth McLaughlin, 27 years of age, of 1642½ East Twenty-seventh street, stood before a long mirror in the bedroom yesterday and shot herself through the head. Her body was discovered by police who were called to investigate the shot and removed to the J. H. Riederman undertaking establishment.

When questioned by police detectives, Charles McLaughlin, the dead woman's husband, was unable to give any reason for his wife's act. He declared he had never given her any reason to distrust him and could not account for the suicide in any way.

CAFE TO REOPEN.

Famous Venice Ship Closed For a Short Time.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Oct. 5.—The Ship Cafe, unique, and widely known resort for diners and dancers, which was closed last night when a writ of attachment was served, will be reopened within a few days, it is expected. This statement was made today by J. M. Covington, owner, who outlined the present financial condition of the cafe.

"The attachment placed on the Ship Cafe yesterday, amounting to $827, by the Imperial Ice Company of Santa Monica, and the Gardner Produce Company, was not raised," he said, "because it was found impera-tive to get an agreement amongst the creditors, whereby the creditors would each agree to take their pro rata share of the profits, which would permit the operation of the cafe."

ZONE HEARING TODAY.

Council Will Consider Ordinance to Supercede All Similar Laws.

The City Council will hold a public hearing at 1:30 p.m. today at the City Hall on the proposed new comprehensive zoning ordinance which is designed to supercede all similar legislation enacted by the city. Zoning maps of the Hollywood, East Hollywood, Van Nuys, Westlake and Wilshire districts accompany the ordinance as submitted, and maps for additional districts will be submitted for approval as soon as completed. The ordinance regulates all future building operations in these districts and creates one-family dwelling, apartment-house and commercial, light industrial, heavy industrial and unrestricted zones, inside of which construction of buildings only of these types will be permitted.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

In the Interests of the Public Peace.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

One of the most curious things in the world is that so many married people, who are otherwise well mannered and observant of the decencies of life, apparently choose the most public places they can find in which to have their fights.

Wherever they may happen to be is a good enough battleground for them, though their favorite places for going to the mat with each other are automobiles and small lunch or dinner parties. They do not disdain, however, the lobbies of theaters, on the decks of steamships, or summer hotel verandas, or any other spot in which they are sure of an audience.

Probably no one is so lucky as not to have taken motor rides with husbands and wives on which the quarrel between them waxed so fierce that it seemed that bloody murder must be done before it ended, nor are many of us fortunate enough not to have been forced to become the unwilling referee in matrimonial fights where both parties threw sportsmanship to the wind and bit, and gouged, and kicked, and used every foul tactic.

And in such fracases we, who were the innocent bystanders, were the ones who suffered. We were the ones whose sensibilities were outraged, whose dignity was affronted. We were the ones who were humiliated. Not the doughty warriors who retired from the battleground battered and bruised, but with the air of those who have come to the end of a pleasant day.

Of course we all know that the theory that getting married makes a man and woman two souls with but a single thought is a myth. As a matter of fact, the difference of sex makes it impossible that any woman and any man can ever think exactly alike on any matter, or see it from the same angle. Nor can any man or woman, born with different temperaments, brought up in different environments, with different traditions and ideals, agree on every subject. If every husband and wife were as much alike as two peas in a pod they would bore each other to death.

Furthermore, as the general run of humanity does not tend to produce long-suffering Griseldas and patient Griseldas, it is inevitable that husbands and wives should disagree in many things, and that each should stick up for his or her own opinion, and that there should be many a family argument. Likewise, it is comprehensible that in the heat of debate a man might tell his wife that she had a jelly bean for a head, and a wife assure her husband that he was solid ivory from the shoulders up, and make other uncomplimentary personal comments. So much for that.

Perhaps, if married couples could agree to disagree, and concede to each other the right to hold individual views unmolested, it would usher in the domestic millennium. Apparently, it is impossible for people to rise to the height of canning the family argument, but, this being the case, surely it is not too much to ask that it should be kept strictly for home consumption.

None of us really desire to know our neighbor's private opinions of their life partners. When Simpkins berates Mrs. Simpkins for her extravagance, and tells her that she is ruining him, or when Jones knocks his wife's cooking, and compares it invidiously with his mother's; when Mrs. Simpkins retaliates by accusing Simpkins of being a tightwad, and Mrs. Jones retorts that if she doesn't know how to cook, it was because her father made enough money to hire servants, and that she never would have married as she did, if she had ever dreamed she would be put in to the kitchen, why, we who are forced to listen to these disclosures of family discord feel as if we were assisting to dig up a festering corpse for the second postmortem.

It isn't our idea of spending a pleasant hour listening to a family quarrel over things that don't concern us, and which we have neither the desire nor the right to know, and whether we are host or guest at the party we resent being trapped into such an unpleasant situation.

Undoubtedly, the reason that most husbands and wives fight is because married life is monotonous, and they get bored, and they find that a good, stiff scrap puts pep and ginger into it. If they didn't enjoy a rough and tumble tussel, they would get along in peace, because no two people who are not drivelling idiots, can possibly live with each other even twelve months without finding out just exactly how to step on each other's prejudices, and how to get around each other's angles. For all of us have got our "Keep Off the Grass" signs put up so distinctly that even a blind person can see them.

When, therefore husbands and wives go around with chips on their shoulders, it is because they are simply spoiling for a fight and as long as they do their scrapping in private, it's nobody's business but their own, and they've a perfect right to take their pleasure as they find it. But when they fight all over our parlor floors, and muss up our dinner tables, it is a different matter. Then they become general nuisances that should be abated. And those married couples who cannot keep the peace in public should be ostracised until they come to their senses.

Surely these people do not realize what they do when they open their skeleton closet, and force us to look upon its grisly contents. Surely they do not appreciate the embarrassing situation they put us in when they make us listen to their criminations and recriminations of each other, and then appeal to us to take sides in a controversy that is none of our affair. Surely they have no conception of how lacking in taste, in breeding, in everything that lifts humanity out of the mire, they show themselves when they rage at each other before a third party.

As long as human nature is what it is, husbands and wives will have their domestic spats, but decency demands that they retire to their own firesides when they do it, and shut the doors and pull down the window shades, and plug up the keyholes.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Says They're Bad.

PASADENA, Oct. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In justice to myself kindly permit me a few lines to reply to Miss N. Wilcox.

She says I am unaware that the Virginia Rappe pictures have been withdrawn. When I wrote and mailed my letter to The Times, a week or more before it was dated there and published, the Rappe picture, "A Twilight Baby," was being played up in glaring type in this city and San Francisco and other big cities. This lasted some ten days and it was only after the newspaper reporters' comment on this shameless exploitation of a disgraceful debauch ending in the killing of Miss Rappe that the picture was suppressed. Miss Wilcox knows this as well as I.

Again, Miss Wilcox says actresses cannot be dissipated and hide it by camera makeup. How many women will believe that? About a year ago I was talking with a gentleman acquaintance who is somewhat familiar with many of the stars of moviedom. I said: "Miss —" (naming a screen celebrity) "must be a sweet, innocent girl. She looks so nice on the screen."

He grinned sardonically and said: "She certainly appears so on the screen; but you ought to see her when she is on a drunk. She was all right until, like many others who yield to the environments, she surrendered to the unfavorable influences. Many of them work hard in work hours but spend much of their resting time in poor ways."

A young lady friend came here from a mid-west town because of failing health and secured employment in the pictures. Having to make an almost entire change of clothing twice in her work she asked her director for the use of a dressing room. He laughed at her and told her to undress anywhere. She complained to the other girls. They told her she was "new" and would soon do as the rest of them had to. "You'll come to most anything in two weeks," they said; "nakedness in public is not out of fashion here."

Many good pictures are put on the screen but most of them are interspersed, not with innocent fun, which old folks would enjoy as well as children, but with suggestive scenes that should be suppressed. They keep many away who want clean enjoyment as well as instruction.

Housecleaning would help the movie industry. If Miss Wilcox will inaugurate a movement within her realm to banish the boozers, the debauchees and the libertines and renovate the plays themselves she will confer a lasting favor on a suffering public.

MRS. WILLIAM FRANCIS.

Asks Protection.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to make a few suggestions on the very important subject about unemployed workmen. It seems to me as it is in the hands of the government (where it belongs) there should be some obligations on the part of the employer and the employee for the protection of the honest workmen.

I would suggest that all laborers, male and female, that depend on their labor for others on an income less than $1500 a year, be provided with a pass book stating name, age, residence, occupation, clerical, mechanical, or otherwise, and have it registered at the government employment bureau.

The employer shall make his wants known at the bureau and state in the passbook the workman's time and pay received. If the workman changes his residence, he must register his or her name and residence at the government employment bureau. This would not alone protect the honest workman, but it would lessen crime.

I would go a little farther in order to share this obligation equally, all public houses, apartments, etc., should report daily their new guests to the police department who would have far less trouble to find their man.

A. W. WERN.

Says Europe Laughs.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The writer is wondering if the lady who wrote so pleadingly for prohibition in yesterday's Times, ever heard that "stolen fruits are sweetest."

The very fact that liquor is forbidden makes people want it the more and the writer knows several men who never touched anything stronger than dinner claret and beer before the war, who now drink the rotten stuff that passes for liquor any time and all they can get.

Crimes are more numerous now than ever before for the simple reason that these bootleggers are selling anything and everything that will pass for liquor whether poison or no and its not likely to stop and poor stomachs and heads must suffer accordingly.

Isn't it safer and saner to give people light dinner wines and beer made right and inspected and sold publicly?

These cranks don't need to drink it, you know. This abnormal desire for the stronger stuff would then pass and people would settle down again and there would be fewer crimes.

It's very much like putting a box of matches and a coal oil bottle on your top shelf and telling your 6-year-old son on no account to touch the matches, but if he should not to put a lighted one near that coal oil.

After all our men are just overgrown kiddies. Why must the people as a whole accept laws put through by a lot of "sissy" men and old maid school teachers who happen to have the vote?

If these cranks think liquor is so "naughty" and can't stand to see it around they could be chained up for a while.

Aren't there sane men and women enough in the old United States of America to know and see what is best for Americans and put it through in spite of the cranks?

The writer personally does not care for liquor but she does hate to see this good old world go "fluey" because of a fool law that should never have been effective after peace was declared.

All Europe is laughing at us right now and it seems as though nothing can be done and yet our men are stronger than any the world over.

Let us stop this bootlegging entirely, force people to empty out their cellars or else give the people back the light wines and beer.

MARGARET WORTHINGTON.

Censor Necessary.

REDLANDS, Sept. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the open letter from William De Mille to Dr. Briegleb, appearing in the paper today, Mr. De Mille takes on a license which one cannot think any real American considers himself entitled to. For instance, he says "no one shall say what, or what not, my children shall see on the screen, etc."

This reveals the whole viewpoint of Mr. De Mille's philosophy. No one would care much what this gentleman thought was good for his children to see on the screen, but majority opinion guards its rights in this as in all other matters where any spectacle is presented for money or publicly.

A thousand years of Anglo-Saxon development of its sociology is very fully recorded in its history, and no one, essaying to discuss a moral question can afford to neglect it. Now, evidently Mr. De Mille is connected with the production or exhibition of moving pictures, because he speaks of "my profession." As a profession, if it is that, the public will demand spectacles that are free from distortion as to incident and themes that bear a real relation to nature. The "art" began as a scientific curiosity, its only real development was to a 5-cent entertainment, and except for mechanical improvements on the scientific end it remains that.

It would be better if censorship stepped in at an earlier stage. Los Angeles is the heart of the cinema industry, then as any other commercial enterprise, it should be worth while to provide it with safeguards to insure its stability, not as it is but as it can be. A qualified board of censors, or judges, inspectors perhaps they should be called, could work effectively and with great economy in the studios, a method which would eliminate a great waste of materials, and which would result in weeding out a great deal of the alleged talent found around these places. The camera can interpret for us only the most obvious emotions, it is either silly or disgusting when it tries to do otherwise, but it has a legitimate field and when those making a business of it learn to utilize types and suitable under this censor will be necessary.

Mr. Powell's duties, however, were more like those of a consul in a country against which another is about to declare war, as he was said to have handled only cases which did not relate to the controversy between the two offices. Like a consul, he attended to business as usual, without referring to the subject at issue. His appearance before the grand jury set at rest doubt as to the attitude of the District Attorney in presenting cases before a jury that was declared to be more or less hostile.

Neither Presiding Judge Shenk nor Judge Reeve, who is in charge of the grand jury, yesterday had received word from the Attorney-General as to the latter's probable action looking toward appointment of a deputy to take charge of the proposed investigation. It was thought likely that no reply would be made to the grand jury's request, submitted through the Superior Court, but that, if action is decided upon, the deputy so named would simply appear here with authority to take over the inquiry.

He chose yesterday as the day to serve and will be released today. His fine, it is understood, will be paid in the meantime.

W. A. Loomis, former Chief of Police of the beach city, who was convicted on the same charge, on the other hand decided to appeal. He was sentenced to serve six months in the County Jail and pay a fine of $100. Notice of appeal was filed yesterday before Judge Reeve.

FILES SUIT TO COLLECT BACK TAXES

Federal Attorney Brings Actions Against Former Oil Concern Officials.

An action was filed in the United States District Court yesterday by U. S. Atty. O'Connor at the request of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair, to recover with penalties and interest various amounts of money asserted to be due from the Los Angeles Cherokee Oil Company, a California corporation that went out of business July 22, 1917, by decree of court.

The defendants are Dan Murphy, president; Godfrey Holterhoff, Jr., secretary, and a number of other persons residing within the southern division of the southern district of California. The judgments asked for are said to be unpaid corporation income and profits taxes during a series of years. The corporation had an office during its existence at 1117 Trust and Savings Bank Building, this city. It is charged that the asserted erroneous returns were not made until March 30, 1918.

The money demanded in the complaint covers the following years: 1909, $282.48; 1910, $539.14; 1911, $260.99; 1912, $248.76; 1913, $167.51; 1916, $692.63; 1917, $141,-167.31, or a grand total of $143,-858.83.

Also it is charged in the bill that when Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Munroe went to serve a warrant of distraint on the property of the corporation for the purpose of collecting the amount of taxes found due, that the property, assets, etc., of the company had been distributed and there was nothing to levy on.

The record shows that the Los Angeles Cherokee Oil Company was sold to the Prairie Oil Company of Oklahoma, May 31, 1917, for $868,-660, also, that the valuation in March, 1913, was $1,194,604, of which $921,164 was the value of the oil and gas in the property.

What Women Are Doing in Widening Fields of New Endeavor.

PAGEANT MARKS CLUB OPENING.

Wednesday Morning Members at Brilliant Breakfast.

Charm Pervades Meeting of South Pasadena Women.

To Give Benefit Saturday in Crippled Children's Aid.

BY MYRA NYE.

With a brilliant breakfast marking the beginning of the season for them, nearly 200 members were seated yesterday at the gaily adorned tables in the clubhouse of the Wednesday Morning Club. Miss Martha Thompson, who presented the club with the site for its home, was the guest of honor and as president emeritus extended greeting. Mrs. F. W. Fuller, president, briefly outlined the plans for the year and welcomed the members after the vacation period. Members of the executive board were hostess.

A brief pageant of "The New Civilization" was presented by a group of women in costume. Most striking of the group was Mrs. W. C. Roe, who with her rather oriental features and brunette beauty, was a good type for "East India." Mrs. A. Petch appeared as "China," Miss Sarah Flickinger as "Egypt," Mrs. John Hokom as "Sweden," and Mrs. Harold Bailey represented "America," clad in the costume of the Goddess of Liberty.

Miss Phobe Bowler added to the interest of the program by giving two of her pianologues: "Why" and "Because."

A handsome new silk flag was presented to the club by the executive board and by unanimous action a contribution was sent to the National Women's Committee for World Disarmament in New York.

Raphael Emanuel, the Chaldean, will speak on "Songs and Legends of the Natives of Mesopotamia" next Wednesday when the luncheon hostess will be Mrs. J. P. McGue. For the first time the new Spanish section, Miss Alice Hubard instructor, will meet, also the Shakespeare section with Mrs. H. E. Brett, instructor, and the English with Mrs. James H. Shults instructor.

Improvement Association.

Among the smaller women's clubs of Southern California there is none with a more charming clubhouse or and surroundings than the Woman's Improvement Association of South Pasadena, which held its first meeting yesterday.

Added to this charm is that of a delightful personnel, the club membership including many presidents of other organizations and wives of professional men. The meeting yesterday was presided over by Mrs. Otis Byers Manchester, who is well known not only for her delicious

MEXICAN DISHES.

The most familiar Mexican dishes are anchiladas, tamales, frijoles and chile con carne. Last week I dealt with tamales, so today I will take up the other dishes.

Enchiladas: The same ingredients are used in enchiladas as in tamales, the only difference being that tamales are wrapped in corn husks while enchiladas are wrapped in a flat cake of cornmeal which closely resembles a griddle cake and which is called a "tortilla." The genuine Mexican tortilla is made from a coarse cornmeal, ground and mixed into a stiff dough with water, but our finer cornmeal may be used instead if it is scalded before using, so that it will form a dough which can be handled without crumbling (indeed, some cooks add wheat flour to the cornmeal, using 1 part flour to 3 parts cornmeal.) Break a small piece of this dough off the mass, roll it into a ball, then pat it down flat between the palms of the hands until it is round and about one-eighth of an inch thick. Dip these tortillas in chile sauce which has been brought to the boiling point, let cook till done; drain them, and put upon each one tablespoon of either cooked chicken, pork, beef, veal or sausage; sprinkle over this one tablespoon grated cheese, add two chopped olives and another tablespoonful of chile sauce, roll up like a jelly roll, sprinkle top with finely-chopped onion and grated cheese and set aside till serving time. Then pour over them hot chile sauce and serve at once.

Chili Con Carne: This dish may be made with either chicken, veal or pork. Put one pound of the meat into a saucepan with three onions chopped, one stalk diced celery, a sprig or two of parsley, a small bit of bay leaf, and a couple of carrots, sliced. (The meat should be cut into small pieces.) Let stew till tender, then strain off the juice and measure it; to every pint of it add one-half cup of chile pulp prepared as directed below, and one cup of cooked and mashed Mexican beans, which are called frijoles. (Kidney beans may be used.) Add a tablespoon of lard for each pint of the juice, then add the cooked meat (not discarding the vegetables with which it was cooked to season it) and one cup of ripe tomato pulp. Let cook a few minutes and serve very hot.

To make Chile Sauce or Pulp: Toast hot chile peppers in the oven till the skins are loosened and come off easily. Then cut off stem, and remove seeds and veins. Now put this pulp into a mortar and pound and mash it (or put it through the finest attachment of the food grinder) until a smooth paste is the result. A very little water or tomato juice is now added to make it smooth. To three cups of this sauce add one-half cup of lard and one tablespoon of cornstarch; season with salt to taste and cook for twenty minutes.

Answer to "Anxious:" The little insects to which you refer in your letter may be fleas. If they are, kerosene for oil of cedar will drive them away. The oil of cedar is best because it is not inflammable and may be used near heat or flame. Rub it on wood surfaces.

[All inquiries addressed to Mrs. Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn, unless considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped self-addressed envelope must be included with the question.—The Editor.]

THE NEW.

IN STORES AND HOMES.

NOVELTIES, IDEAS AND PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

By Olive Gray.
Per E. B.

Up-to-Datest:

Scarves of beaded net which add the touch ultimate to evening dress. One of the most striking of these airy adjuncts is a two-yard length of fine black net adorned by arabesques wrought of jet and sapphire beads. It was used over an all-black palletted gown and with it went a marvelous Spanish comb for the high coiffure, the comb set in sapphire stones the exact shade of the scarf beads.

Girdles of cut steel beads for the low-waisted frocks of poiret twill and duvetyne which are shown at their best in black and navy. These girdles are most effective when formed of a double row of chains held together at intervals of three inches by filigreed discs of the steel. As worn, they encircle the hips, rather than the waist which has dropped to the hip line.

Gilets, which take on the outline of the masculine vest and are made of brocades of East Indian gorgeousness of coloring, for wear with the tailleur or the tweed sports suit. There are also being shown some jaunty collar-and-cuff sets of suede, in browns and henna, to be used as accessories to the knockabout outfit of coat and skirt in soft worsted.

Now is the Time to Buy!

Everything for the autmun vacation trip in the open, in that refreshingly unique department of a great store where, catering to the needs of the hiker and camper, the hunter and the fisherman, the tenniser and golfer has been elevated, by painstaking forethought, to the point of a fine art. Whether it is a tent or a tennis net; a canteen or a corduroy suit, you will be sure to find here, and in its most modish and highly sophisticated form, the object of your quest. If you are a man, you will be interested, in particular, in the fine topcoats, rain-and-wind-defying, that are being shown at a price unthinkably low. If a woman, it is the smart riding outfit of knickers and three-quarter length coat, in tweed, that will intrigue you and pique your curiosity into a thorough exploration of this lower floor of many wonders.

New china of that superior make that has given to a large town of Central New York fame, in a ceramic way, only less than that of Sevres and Limoges. Each advancing season's output of this charming crockery shows added artistry of design and beauty of coloring, until it is small wonder the demand for the most costly French china decreases as the appreciation for the native product grows more widespread.

A Color-Look Ahead.

Like preparation for war in time of peace, it seems, this intelligence from a famous style-making house of Paris that red-and-white and pink-and-white ginghams will predominate in the earliest burst of frocks, next spring—the shop window blossoming that flowers each recurrent January. The news confirms the prophecy of the importers who, you remember, told us in midsummer past that the day of the all-pervading red-and-white check gingham was not yet at its noon.

Paris first, then Deauville, the French watering place on the Normandy Coast, where next year's styles are set, and gradually all of the fabric centers have succumbed to a violent epidemic of red, following on the heels of the black, black, blackness of seasons past. It was an American actress, so the story goes, who started the cult of red, by wearing a flame-colored frock at Deauville at the height of the season. Sometimes it is called "Venetian," this cheerful tint; sometimes "Indian." Otherwise it is "pillar box," "Egyptian," "flamingo." But always it is red.

The milliners, not to be outdone by their confreres, the makers of gowns, have their auguries ready, too. More flowers than ever on next spring's hats, say they, and brighter, with a strong preference for the reds and yellows.

Also from Italy.

Only a step from the bead counter, both in actual present location and in relation to source of origin, are the frost like laces from Sardinia. Products of the nimble fingers of the peasant women of South Europe, these lovely circles and squares and oblongs are as distinguished for originality of pattern as they are for fineness of mesh. You will take a tantalizing pleasure, too, if you are the average lace-loving femme, in studying the magnificence of the long altar pieces and huge squares of table covers made by the Sardinian women.

And you will spend much time, too, browsing among the Florentine boxes, gilded and pictured with saints and cherubs, with likenesses of Dante and Beatrice; of Petrarch and Laura and with replicas of great paintings, executed by the immortals who dwelt in the rich old days of the Renaissance in the lily city on the banks of the Arno. You may dedicate your own choice among these boxes to any service, from that of a cigarette holder to a jewel casket, but the air of romance of its beginning will continue to cling to it.

And though you don't acquire it for a hope box, you will be enchanted by the monster chest you may examine, which has, painted on its gilded sides, a whole story of the age of chivalry—armed knights riding forth to the tourney on richly caprisoned steeds; crusaders returning, drooplingly, along a wooded road; velvet-clad cavaliers dallying beside winding streams with the blue Italian sky above.

Christmas Gifting.

The shop world is so full of a number of things, in addition to the ships and shoes and sealing wax and cabbages and kings of the walrus's time-honored category that Christmas gifting, this year, promises a variety to cause the most case-hardened shopper to sit up and take notice.

Nothing in novelties I have seen, thus far, has interested me more than the Venetian beads in the infinite variety of their colors and uses. It seems as though all the love of beauty of the skilled crafters of the Queen of the Adriatic had culminated in the jewel-like loveliness of these fascinating bits of decorativeness which you may buy in small size or large, strung or unstrung. In the latter case, instructions in stringing will be given, if you desire. The beads are shown in the form of short necklace strings; of long, unclasped chains, worn surplice-like; of girdles, of boutonnieres; of any one of a dozen other seductive accessories that help to carry on the all-conquering present vogue of the bead.

The boutonnieres are, perhaps, the most irresistible of all. Stiff, perky little nosegays of marguerites, pansies, myosotis and magnonette that give the requisite point of high color tucked in the soft depths of the choker and other fur neck piece. You will love them and—more—you will buy them, on sight.

It Is Said That:

A black felt hat is beaded in white.

Many of the new sashes are tied in the front.

A smart fall combination is navy blue and red.

Jade bead fringes drip over a black crepe gown.

Charming veils are worn draped over the small hats.

The sweater continues to hold its own for sports wear.

Large velvet hats are being worn with light frocks.

Panels of duvetyn are used on frocks of lighter texture.

White and black crepes are rivals in the world of fashions.

Silk-checked gingham is used for a charming tea gown.

Platinum color baby lamb makes the sleeves of a blue wrap.

Some of the medieval sleeves are duvetyn stitched in silver.

Some of the medieval sleeves are interesting slashed creations.

Even velveteen is being used for the popular sleeveless model.

A design in white on black net is charming on a black gown.

"The foolish man who built his house on the sand"

He gave an example in folly which anybody can understand.

It isn't so easy, however, to escape the mistake of trying to build the body on foods which lack essential nourishment.

Here, again, is a foundation of sand which gives way when the test comes.

Many a food that tastes good lacks the hearty satisfaction equal it's taste. Thus it tempts the appetite into mistakes that often are costly.

Grape-Nuts is a food which helps build bodily endurance to life's stress and storm. The full nourishment of wheat and malted barley, together with the vital mineral salts so necessary to bone structure and red blood corpuscles, with phosphates for the brain, is retained in Grape-Nuts. The long baking process by which Grape-Nuts is made gives the food a natural sweetness and an unusual ease of digestibility and assimilation.

ACTS ON FRUIT SHIP PROGRAM.

Exchange Takes Step Toward Water Transportation.

Seeks Guaranty of Tonnage to Handle Crop.

Growers to Take Up Question of Financing Company.

Approving a report of a special committee, the board of directors of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange yesterday took definite steps toward carrying out the committee's recommendation that negotiations be completed for the financing and getting a guaranty of tonnage sufficient to handle the fruit shipments by water.

The committee, headed by C. S. Whitcomb, vice-president of the exchange, recommended that guaranty of tonnage sufficient to handle 2,000,000 boxes as a minimum be obtained from the shipping companies with which tentative terms have been discussed. Arrangements for financing the proposition also were left to the board of directors, it was said by Secretary Earl G. Powell.

The manner of raising the money by financing the Producers' Steamship Company that will handle the ocean shipments will be taken up with the various associations comprising the exchange.

Experiments to determine the practicability of shipping California fruit by water to eastern and foreign ports have been conducted over a period of many months. Last May it was learned that a series of conference had been held between officials of the exchange and of the American Shipbuilding Company of Cleveland, O., with a view of buying a fleet of ten vessels, properly equipped with refrigeration and ventilation facilities.

Since then the committee has been investigating the proposition in greater detail with the result that the recommendation was adopted yesterday.

SUES FILM CONCERN TO GET SALARY.

Worker in "Foolish Wives" Asks Six Thousand Dollars From Universal Company.

An array of motion-picture producers, directors and executives filled the front seats of Judge Hewitt's courtroom yesterday in connection with the testimony being given in the case of A. W. Alley, who is suing the Universal Film Manufacturing Company for $6000 represented to be due in connection with services rendered in the production of "Foolish Wives." Mr. Alley contended that he was engaged at a salary of $200 a week and after four weeks' service, was "let out" without any reasonable explanation or right so to do on the part of the film company.

Erick Von Stroheim, director of "Foolish Wives," is the principal witness for the defendant in the suit. A considerable portion of this picture was made at Westlake Park, at which time large crowds gathered nightly to witness the highlights and array of talent.

Among others in court yesterday were Col. W. Selig, producer; B. P. Fineman, vice-president and general manager of the Ambassador Film Company; C. A. Bird, chief executive of the Fox studios; E. A. Sheeley, head art director; Irving G. Talgberg, general manager; and R. E. Olin, controller of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. A large number of photographs, five feet in length, were exhibited in the case.

SHOWS MORGUE NEED.

Coroner Has Twenty-two Cases in Less Than Three Days.

County Coroner Nance was a busy man yesterday.

"This office had twenty-two cases reported between Saturday morning and Monday noon and twelve call for inquests. This is a fair illustration of the great need of a county morgue and I hope work will be rushed on the new jail building, where our new quarters are to be," said the Coroner yesterday afternoon, as he rushed out of the Hall of Records to attend one of the dozen inquests.

PORT NOTES.

Fred R. Muhs, vice-president of the San Francisco Bridge Company, which has been given the contract for the first year's work on the widening the main channel to 1:00 feet, was at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday preparing for the actual work of dredging. "Dirt will be flying by October 15," said Muhs.

With over 4000 tons of East Coast merchandise for Los Angeles consignees aboard, the Williams Line motorship Kennecott is due tomorrow on her second trip to the Pacific. The Kennecott, by her splendid performance as a cargo carrier, is becoming famous as the highest type of motorship for cargo trade.

Chartered by Struthers & Dixon for their oriental service, the 11,500-ton flush deck freighter West Prospect, this morning left the yards of her builders, the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company to load cotton for China.

Included in her cargo on her maiden voyage will be ten street cars—loaded on her upper deck—consigned to Canton as part of the rolling stock of a projected railway financed by American capital. She will also take a large consignment of cedar logs and general merchandise for the Orient when she departs from Los Angeles Harbor this week.

The West Prospect is the fourth of five vessels of her type being constructed for the Shipping Board by the Los Angeles yards. Her sister ships now in commission have gained a high reputation for performance and economy of operation.

DROPS IN JUST TO SAY HELLO.

After Eight Years Absence Wife Visits Husband but Declines to Stay.

After waiting eight years a wife visited her husband, "just to say 'hello.'"

"I wanted her to make the visit permanent, but she was too fond of wandering," William E. Barto explained to Judge Summerfield yesterday. He was granted a divorce from Catherine Barto, whom he has not seen since 1915, at which time the "hello" visit took place. The Bartos were married in 1904 and separated three years later.

TO HAVE HUGE CARGO.

West Prospect to Carry Street Cars, Rice, Cotton, Cedar to Orient.

American street cars and cotton for China and rice and cedar logs for Japan will make up a capacity cargo for the maiden voyage of the West Prospect, launched at the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company July 30, completely equipped with engines, auxiliaries and exceptional cargo-handling machinery from the shops of that concern, delivered to the United States Shipping Board this week and chartered yesterday by Struthers & Dixon for Pacific oriental trade.

The West Prospect is the fourth of the last group of five 11,000-ton flush-deck steel freighters built by the local concern for the United States Shipping Board.

Capt. J. Ollegreen took charge of the West Prospect at the shipyards this morning. Tomorrow he will take on fuel oil and load 2000 tons of cotton at the Wilmington docks. Thence he will proceed to San Francisco, where the balance of a capacity cargo awaits him.

Capt. Ollegreen expects after filling the holds to load a considerable deck cargo of cedar logs and on top of these to place the American-built street cars for service in China. From San Francisco he will go to Honolulu, Yokohama, Shanghai, Hongkong, Kobe and Manila.

Young Bandits Rob Oil Station at Long Beach.

Youthful bandits who conducted a series of raids on oil stations in the city Tuesday night apparently transferred their field of action to Long Beach last night.

During the early evening, while the streets were still filled with shoppers and early theater crowds, two young men, apparently 22 or 23 years of age, stopped at an oil station at American avenue and Fifth street, where they made a small purchase. A $5 bill was offered in payment and as the attendant went inside the station to get the change, both men followed. When the register was opened, one of the men produced a revolver and held the attendant away while his companion took more than $100 from the cash drawer.

WELL-KNOWN HARBOR WOMAN IS ARRESTED.

HOTEL PROPRIETOR CHARGED WITH ROOMING-HOUSE LAW VIOLATIONS.

Five women were taken into custody last night by the harbor police during two raids on establishments said to have been violating the rooming-house ordinance.

Mrs. Sophy Rosenfield, aged 50 years, who is charged by Lieut. L. L. Oakley and Patrolman L. P. Taylor with conducting a house of ill-fame, is one of the best known women of Los Angeles Harbor. She has long owned and conducted the National Hotel, 270 West Fourth street, and has had a reputation above reproach. She is wealthy and was prominently identified with all activities of the harbor city during the war.

Found at the National Hotel and arrested on vagrancy charges were two women giving the names of Elsie Lee and Hazel Thomas, age 24 and 22, respectively.

At a house at 420 South Pacific avenue the officers arrested Gertrude Edwards, age 23, and Gene Ferguson, 25, also charged with vagrancy.

All the women were taken to Central Station late last night.

LIVE-WIRE VICTIM DIES.

Jack Wells, 28 years of age, an iron worker of 1345 East Fifty-sixth street, who was severely burned Tuesday when he came into contact with a high tension wire on the roof of a building at Second street and Western avenue, died last night at the Golden State Hospital, according to a report at the Coroner's office. The body was removed to the Central avenue undertaking establishment.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Advertisement.

California Official Shows Safeguards Around Savings Deposits.

CALLS STATE'S SYSTEM UNIQUE.

Dodge Tells of California's Savings Bank Methods.

Declares We Lead Country in School Deposits Total.

Problems of Extension Are Related at Luncheon.

Jonathan S. Dodge, State Superintendent of Banks, yesterday told delegates to the American Bankers' Association convention that the savings banks system of California is unique among the States of the Union. His address was made before the school savings luncheon of the savings bank division given in the Alexandria grill room.

"With the exception of a single bank," said Mr. Dodge, "the system is composed of capital stock corporations. Most of these are within the peculiar departmentalized feature of California banks. These banks are departmentalized upon the theory, which very fortunately in practice has been justified, that three kinds of banking may be undertaken by a single corporation; namely, savings, commercial and trust company business.

"Each department is entirely distinct and separate from the other. Each is prohibited by law from invading the resources of the other. Each is compelled to conduct its affairs as if it were a separate corporation and distinct absolutely in theory and practice from the other departments.

"The savings department, therefore, is essentially, for all theoretical and practical purposes, an institution as independent as any of the mutual savings banks in the United States.

"In each savings bank and each savings department of a departmentalized bank in California, very severe restrictions are imposed by the laws of this State. There is established a legal and very safe relationship as between capital and surplus on the one hand, and deposit liability, loans and investments, on the other. These savings banks are restricted in their investments in a very drastic fashion. They are confined in their lending to loans upon classes of collateral within very conservative limitations.

"The law makes it impossible for any traffic between the officers and directors of a savings bank and their own institution. Each savings bank and savings department of a departmentalized bank in California is subjected to rigid supervision and inspection by trained examiners of the State banking department.

"The result of these limitations, which are equal in dignity and practical sufficiency to the older jurisdictions that express their savings systems in mutual banks, has been the creation of a very wonderful savings bank structure in California.

"With our immense banking power of $1,511,000,000 on last September 6, the assets of the savings banks in this system are $988,806,000. It is apparent, therefore, that in the banking system of California the dominating feature is that the savings department is restricted, governed and conducted with as great conservatism as characterizes the mutual savings bank of the New England and Central States.

EXPRESSES THRIFT.

"Of the 2,299,000 depositors in the State banks of California as of Sept. 6, 1921, 1,590,000 are savings depositors.

"There is perhaps no more remarkable expression of the thrift, the prosperity and the capacity of California to weather the storm of deflation than the fact that in one year from Sept. 8, 1920, to Sept. 6, 1921, the deposits in the savings banks alone of this State have increased $43,516,676.69.

"As an incident to the development of our savings bank system which is now the fourth in the United States, the encouragement of school savings in these banks is of very deep concern to me. I have circularized every bank in California, urging that every State bank operating a savings department introduce, as is permitted within the limitations of our law, a school savings system.

"Only twenty-four of our banks indulge in the collection of school savings. In those that do recognize the value of the system, there are now 88,769 depositors, out of a total enrollment in the State of California of 522,756 children, with an aggregate of $1,123,532.71 in deposits.

"The economic value of school savings systems is universally recognized. Its importance in the formation of character is equally admitted. Self-denial, prudence, thrift, economy, are all attributes that are incidental to the simple system that our State has placed at the command of every bank that operates a savings department.

Superintendent Dodge noted that honor of introducing the school savings system into the United States goes to Wisconsin. But the system was put upon a permanent basis by John Henry Thiry. His name, the speaker declared, should be known to every school child and teacher in America. Supt. Dodge added:

"When I indicated that the school savings system in this State is only in its infancy, I had reference not to a comparison with other States, but to the capacity of California to carry forth an enterprise to its highest expression. While we are an infant in that relation which suggests our future growth, we are still the premier State in the American Union in school savings deposits. We lead all of the rest in the aggregate of these deposits, and in modesty and in due composure, we offer an example to all of our sister States in this enterprise which means so much in our national life as that life is expressed in individual development.

"In closing, I desire to quote from my bulletin: 'Thrift is the foundation of many civic virtues. It must be taught in our schools. It must be encouraged in our banks. And the rewards will be evidenced in better citizenship and more stable government.'"

Other speakers at the luncheon who took up the problems of the extension of the school savings system were Philip J. Lawler of the Bank of Italy of San Francisco; Frederick Hummler of the First National Bank of Scranton, Pa., C. J. Duhour, superintendent of schools of Alameda; Miss Meta C. Mohr of the Farmers' and Merchants' Savings Bank of Oakland; A. E. Post of the Bank of San Jose and J. E. Hall of the Alameda Savings Bank.

BOY SPEEDERS HELD TO JUVENILE COURT.

TWO YOUTHS ESCAPE HEAVY SENTENCES WHEN AGES ARE LEARNED.

Herbert Gross, 17 years of age, of Sawtelle, and Sam Cohen, 16, of 1216 East Twentieth street, arrested for speeding on the county highways, yesterday were remanded to the custody of the Juvenile Court, where charges against them will be heard. Justice Brown was about to impose severe sentences on them before he learned that they are juveniles.

Cohen was driving a car at forty-five miles an hour on Long Beach Boulevard with the back seat of his machine loaded with children. According to the arresting officers the boy swung from side to side on the road and was endangering other motorists.

Gross was riding a motorcycle on Pico Boulevard at fifty-two miles an hour, according to the officers. Both lads will be tried by Juvenile Judge Weyl.

W. E. Hopkins of Pasadena was freed on a speeding charge when he demanded a jury trial. Since he was arrested, Motorcycle Officer Ross, who was to have appeared against him, was killed while chasing a speeder. There being no witnesses, the court released the man.

Ambassador to be Decorated With Flowers.

Buffet Supper to be Served to the Guests.

Many Prominnt Angelenos on Committees.

One of the outstanding features of the week's entertainment of the delegates attending the American Bankers' Association convention this week will be the formal ball to be held at the Ambassador tonight, Motley H. The ballroom will be beautifully decorated, the walls and ceiling covered with a profusion of wild smilax and the chandeliers converted into huge hanging baskets of flowers.

Under the small ceiling lights at the sides of the ballroom will be suspended baskets of flowers tied with pastel ribbons, while the lights are treated with tarlatans and greens, connecting them with the diagonal corners.

FLOWERS GALORE.

An artistic grouping in the center of the room will consist of bamboos and cocos plumosus, connected with four electric fountains, and around this grouping will be placed large fern baskets filled with brilliant flowers.

In the corners of the ballroom are cozy summer houses of white lattice and tall cylinder lamps of pastel colorings mounted with natural roses and maline, and the windows boxes overhead will be a profusion of dahlias and larkspur.

In the evening a buffet supper will be served. The menu is as follows:

DIRECTOR DROPS DEAD.

Charles E. Whitaker, motion-picture director for Lasky and several other concerns, dropped dead at breakfast Monday morning on the steamship Admiral Dewey, en route from San Francisco to Los Angeles. Mr. Whitaker has been nine years in picture work here. He was born forty-five years ago in Massachusetts. He leaves a widow and two small children. The family lives at 912 Maltman avenue.

CITY STILL "WHITE SPOT."

Business conditions all over the country are rapidly picking up, and this city is still "the white spot" on the map. Such is the opinion of Richard Spillane, financial editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, who met merchants and manufacturers of Los Angeles at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday and got a tabloid report on general conditions here.

Mr. Spillane is touring the United States with his finger on the pulse of business. After receiving reports from all lines of commercial endeavor yesterday he admitted frankly that this city tops the list of thirty-five already visited. Most of these are in the Middle West, Northwest and Canada.

In his chat with local business men Mr. Spillane learned that Los Angeles bank clearings are 16 per cent higher than they were a year ago, the purchasing power of a dollar has increased 22 per cent, the industrial district has more spur tracks than that of any three cities in the Northwest, building records for this year place Los Angeles almost at the top of the list in national building activities, the harbor embraces the world's greatest fish packing industry, while various commercial enterprises show gains of from 15 to 50 per cent over last year.

After looking over the figures Mr. Spillane congratulated the local business men on the showing that has been made here, and then gave them a brief review of his recent observations as follows:

Twenty-five per cent of all the steel used in this country is absorbed by the railroads, and they are due to begin buying December 1. This will boost the steel business, he said. With Great Britain, China, Australia and Japan all buying lumber in the Northwest, the lumber business is experiencing a wonderful boom. September was its biggest month in six years.

The textile industry has revived. It has more spindles going than ever before. Department stores report the sale of more units than were sold at this time last year, although the intake is not so great, because a dollar buys more now. Raw cotton has gone up 16 per cent in thirty days. This means half a billion dollars to the South and will thaw out frozen credits.

Farmers are finding money a little easier than it was. Fruit growers in the Northwest experienced a prosperous year. Bank deposits everywhere reflect a remarkable increase in savings.

Mr. Spillane congratulated Los Angeles on having hydroelectric power, the cost of which does not fluctuate. He pointed out that many cities have to generate their power with $15 coal and that the coal industry is in anything but a favorable condition.

CALIFORNIAN SPEAKS AT BANKERS' MEETING.

PORTERVILLE MAN TELLS OF VOICE OF WEST DURING DIVISION GATHERING.

The national bank division of the American Bankers' Association, which met yesterday afternoon in Bercan Hall, was presided over by H. H. McKee, divisional president.

The address by D. R. Crissinger, Comptroller of the Currency, which is reviewed in another column, was the feature of an interesting meeting which also included a talk by H. C. Carr of Porterville on "The Voice of the West." The invocation was delivered by Dr. James A. Francis of the First Baptist Church.

Reports were submitted by Waldo Newcomer, on behalf of the executive committee, and by Edgar E. Mountjoy as deputy manager of the association.

General discussion from the floor followed the presentation of reports on Federal legislation, relations with the Federal Reserve System and savings departments of national banks.

HITS PICKFORD CASE.

Nevada Official Charges Court Erred in Upholding Divorce.

The Attorney-General of Nevada at Carson City yesterday filed an assignment of error in the Mary Pickford Fairbanks divorce action in which he held that the trial court had erred in nine particulars in upholding her divorce from Owen Moore after it had been attacked by the State. It was a part of the Attorney-General's appeal against the court order.

The order in quashing the State's action, said the Attorney-General, "is contrary to and not supported by law." He further said that the order is "a denial of the sovereign right of the State of Nevada as a party to protect itself against and from enforcement of fraudulent and collusive divorce decrees, and contravenes the constitutions of the State and the nation."

ASKS JUSTICE TO RAILWAYS.

Sproule Says Nation Can Have No Real Prosperity While Roads Are Prostrate.

Declaring that there can be no genuine prosperity in the nation while the railroads are prostrate, William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific, in an address before the convention of the American Bankers' Association yesterday on "How Public Opinion Can Restore Railroad Credit and Public Prosperity," outlined the railroad situation as it now exists and pointed to an era of greater prosperity under the rehabilitation of the railroads with the assistance and support of the public.

The railroads are carrying, he said, the burden of increased taxation, mismanagement under governmental control and unfair competition from subsidized shipping lines and motor vehicle companies. The way out, he stated, is to get back to the old system under which individual merit received its proper reward and honest work was required for honest pay.

William Sproule,
President of the Southern Pacific.

SPROULE'S POINTS.

Mr. Sproule said in part:

"The public should understand that the railroad funding bill now before Congress should pass. But the force of public opinion behind it is needed to have it passed. The public has the notion that it is some kind of a gift to the railroads, a gift of $500,000,000, instead of which there is no gift about it. It does not propose to give the railroads a single dollar.

"The fact is that during the time of war the government had the railroads and ran them. The government made large capital expenditures for improvements and the railroad companies had neither the railroads nor the money with which to make the improvements.

"The government has since returned the railroads to their owners, and still there is no money to pay for these improvements. The railroads are simply asking that the debts be funded as any other public debt would be, so that the payment may be extended over a period of time upon an interest basis.

"Not only are the railroads not in position to pay these amounts at this time, but the situation is worse than that. Most of the railroads have been unable to collect any of the money due them from the government for the guaranty period.

"A LOAD AND A PROMISE."

"All the railroad companies got out of the Federal period, is, first, a load of debt because of capital expenditures incurred by the government; second, the promise of a guaranteed return, which promise in large part remains unfulfilled, and third, they were left with a huge labor bill, so huge as to be to the present day a burden upon transportation that is only partly borne by increases in freights and fares, and although but partly borne, is causing keen criticism from the people who pay those freights and fares.

"Very few realize what those burdens are. I have seen it stated in print by well-informed men of affairs that the trouble is with the Adamson Act. That is only partly true. The trouble began with the Adamson Act, which foisted the eight-hour-day theory upon the railroads and the contagion of it has since spread into most other industries. But the Adamson Act did increase the railroad labor bill by some $271,000,000 in 1917 over the year previous.

"The war period, however, carried the railroads along into 1920 and the United States Railroad Administration, during the brief period of four years, raised wages from $271,000,000, increase in 1917, to more than eight times $271,000,000, or $2,220,000,000 in 1920. This vast increase in pay rolls does not represent increase in the public service. No, indeed, it represents 152 per cent increase in railroad operating expenses for wages to gain not quite 8 per cent more hours' service.

"The transcontinental roads are in the hopeless fix of competing with United States Shipping Board vessels, which do business between the ports of this country at a loss and for those losses the railroads have been taxed. The roads were taxed to help build the ships and are now being taxed to continue their operation at a loss. These high costs for shipping enter into the railroad difficulties and are part of the increased freights and fares the people have to bear.

WATER COMPETITION.

"Nor is the competition by ship all the competition the railroads have to face. The cities and counties have in the past few years built highways of hard foundation and smooth surface largely paid for by taxation of the railroads. Along these highways ply motor busses often holding as many as forty persons, and motor trucks ply in trains of two and three cars as large as railroad freight cars and each designed to carry several tons.

"Finally, when the necessary adjustments are made in the railroad world, including wages paid only for work done; when the excess profits taxes and the pernicious surtaxes on personal incomes are disposed of in the way the Secretary of the Treasury recommends; when our import and export tariffs are fixed on a basis under which foreign nations can buy from us and we can sell to them; when the absurdity is abandoned of running ships at a loss and taxing us for the losses; when the absurdity becomes manifest of building highways for competing carriers to use free as against invested money of the hundreds of thousands of citizens who have put their money in good faith into the railroads; when the government pays the railroads in good faith the money it owes them; only then will this country be in position to start on a new career of business expansion and industrial development.

"There is nothing wrong with the nation as a basic question. Let's get rid of the confusion and the wastes. Above all let us get rid of our prejudices. Let us stop trying to punish success and again give every man an opportunity to go forward.

"The railroads were taxed to build these highways and are being taxed to maintain them. In the meantime the highways are being broken down. Built as highways of easy communication for all the people, they have been perverted into highways of transportation for hire, while the steam railroads must still stick to their own right of way and pay heavy taxes for the privilege of doing business over roadbeds of their own construction.

"Now that the highways are being smashed to pieces under the pounding of these ponderous vehicles the great body of people who desire to enjoy these highways are beginning to sit up and inquire where they get off; and the answer is more taxes, both for the people and for the railroads.

"The new slogan is 'Build the road to carry the load,' and if these people have their say who do their business over these roads for hire, they will build a road that will cause the people of this country to carry a load of taxes under which they will stagger and fret for many a day. They will first have to build a taxpayer who can carry the load.

THE TAX BURDEN.

"Thus there are combined against the railroads war-time wages, war-time taxes and increased competition by ship and highway for which also the railroads are taxed, until in 1920 taxes alone against the railroads amounted to $279,000,000, whereas the return on the capital invested in the railroads amounted in that year to only $62,000,000. Think of it—$279,000,000 in taxes against $62,000,000 in return on the money in the business; four and one-half times as much for taxes.

"There never has been prosperity when the railroads were prostrate. The railroads are an integral part of the national life.

Two Prominent Financiers Are Reunited Here.

The American Bankers' Association convention has been the means of reuniting two prominent bankers, now leading executives, who had not met since they served together as bank book-keepers more than twenty years ago. They are H. D. Ivey, cashier of the Citizens' National Bank and connected with that institution for more than nineteen years, and R. F. Brewer, president of the Exchange National Bank of Tulsa, Okla., and vice-president of the Commerce Trust Company of Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Brewer is one of the South's leading bankers.

Mr. Ivey still has in his possession a twenty-year-old telegram from Mr. Brewer offering him a position of book-keeper in an Oklahoma, then Indian Territory, bank. The salary mentioned was $40 a month. However, Mr. Ivey preferred to remain in Los Angeles at an even lower figure. The subsequent rise of these two bank executives forms an interesting contrast to their small and early beginnings. Mr. Brewer and Mr. Ivey are spending a reminiscent week together during the convention.

HARDING BOOST FROM BANKERS.

Economic Policy Commission Lauds Administration.

Hopes Government Will Keep Out of Business.

Soldiers' Bonus Bill Called Grave Financial Peril.

Economic laws should be allowed full play, delegates to the bankers' convention were told yesterday, and the government should refrain, so far as possible, from participation in private business undertakings.

The economic policy commission of the American Bankers' Association, headed by Paul M. Warburg, member of the Federal Reserve Board during the Wilson administration, announced its approval yesterday of the present administration and took occasion to "welcome the inauguration of a budget system designed to bring about more co-ordination of governmental departments and a closer supervision over expenditures."

The commission is glad to see that a revision of our present tax system is being undertaken seriously, and that an attempt is being made to substitute for the measures necessitated by the war emergency those more fitting for a time of peace," says the commission report. "It is desirable to have taxes of such a type as will interfere least with the proper development of industry, and in this connection it is hoped that there will be no more tax exemptions and that proper measures will be taken to prevent the increase of tax-exempt securities, and as far as possible to bring about their gradual elimination.

"The commission is convinced of the desirability of repealing the excess profits tax which has proved so burdensome to business and industry. Moreover, it is its firm conviction that this repeal of the excess profits tax should be made retroactive for the year 1921, and in so doing the government will redeem its promise to help restore normal and stable conditions."

BILL SEEN AS PERIL.

The commission expresses the hope that the soldiers' bonus bill will be definitely set aside and announces its belief that the national government should "do everything possible to relieve the soldiers who are suffering from disability incurred in the service, but it does not consider that it is desirable to burden the nation with the large sums which would be needed to give a bonus to all ex-soldiers, regardless of their present condition. It feels that the service which our men rendered the nation during the war was not given for the sake of financial recompense, and that such ought not to be given except in cases of actual disability. A bonus bill such as proposed would throw the public finances into endless confusion and would prove a serious handicap to the recovery of the nation from the effects of the war, which would involve the ex-soldiers as well as all other citizens of the country, and would therefore in the long run prove to be detrimental to all."

Further portions of the report follow:

"As an earnest student of coming economies, the commission indorses the action of President Harding in proposing an international conference to consider a common program for the reduction of military and naval expenditures, which still form one of the heaviest financial burdens borne by all nations.

FOREIGN TRADE RELATIONS.

"The commission notes with satisfaction numerous signs indicating a return to stable commercial and industrial conditions in Europe. It feels that it is a subject for congratulation that peace is about to be formally re-established between the United States and the republic of Germany, and it is hoped that the formal peace signed between Germany and our late associates in arms will be succeeded soon by a return of good will and real peace in all parts of the world. It is the belief of this commission that the world is interdependent, and that the world cannot be prosperous unless all of its component parts are prospering. It welcomes the various plans proposed by which the United States will be able to serve its own interests by rendering all possible help in the re-establishment of normal conditions in Europe, and it indorses the principles of the Ter Meulen plan designed to mobilize the credit resources of countries in which the ordinary credit facilities are inadequate to meet the present situation. It hopes that suitable corporations organized under the Edge Act will be established and function in such a manner that capital in this country may be used to assist in rebuilding the industrial and commercial organization of other countries.

RAILROAD SITUATION.

"The commission fully supports the purposes of the Federal administration in bringing about a refunding of the railroad debt to the government over a period of years. This debt was created by the government upon its own initiative during the period of governmental operation, and it cannot be charged to operating revenues without embarrassing the companies in their service to the public and without having an unfavorable effect upon the general business situation.

"While the commission believes that railroad rates should be readjusted as rapidly as circumstances will permit, yet it recognizes the fact that the industrial life of the country and the development of its railroads are interrelated, and one cannot prosper without the other. The railroads depend upon a continued supply of capital on the part of the investing public, but it is impossible to make such capital available for the railroads unless their earnings are sufficient to enable them to pay proper returns upon the capital invested. Obviously, a return of 6 per cent in good years and no return in bad years will not attract private capital.

CONCLUSION.

"The Economic Policy Commission of this year does not wish to conclude its report without giving expression to its belief that the American Bankers' Association can perform the greatest service to our country if it will continue to investigate questions important for the industrial and financial life of the country. If definite conclusions are reached, as a result of such investigations, the association will do well to take a definite stand, even as regards controversial matters, and thereby assist in leading the country along paths of safe and sound economic thought.

"The commission recognizes with satisfaction that the worst of the credit stringency seems to be over, and it appears that the country has borne the period of stress remarkably well. Natural recuperative forces are now making for recovery, and there is every reason to believe that when wages have been readjusted and normal balance is re-established between industries and between nations, our country will enter upon a new career of prosperity and advancement."

Members of the commission are Paul M. Warburg, chairman; George E. Roberts, Walter W. Head, H. M. Robinson, Charles A. Hinsch, A. E. Adams, Evans Woollen, A. L. Aiken, R. S. Hecht, M. A. Traylor, John W. Staley and Waldo Newcomer.

Los Angeles Banks Increase Deposits 160 Per Cent in Seven Years; Business Conditions.

Following is the monthly review of business conditions in Los Angeles, issued by the public service department of the Merchants' National Bank:

Statistics just compiled show that the banks of Los Angeles have increased their deposits from $170,465,962, on Jan. 1, 1914, to $443,480,337, on January 1 of the present year, a gain of $272,011,375, or 160 per cent.

This is considered one of the most remarkable records ever attained by any city. The period covered is largely that of the World War and the above figures answer to a considerable extent questions pertaining to the effect of the war on Los Angeles.

This phenomenal growth in the financial wealth of Los Angeles quite naturally indicates the increased wealth of this community from other economical viewpoints. The most that can be said for it is that it is not the result of "war babies," but, on the contrary, is a reflection of the steady and healthy advancement made by this city in population, industry and business and the increased development and prosperity of its surrounding territory.

This city has, of course, been subject to conditions of bank credit expansion necessitated throughout the country as a result of the war. Different from many cities, however, Los Angeles has expanded bank credit very largely to meet the needs of its natural growth; not for temporary war requirements which resulted largely in wasted wealth. There have been great definite influxes of new wealth in the form of added population and new industries. Consideration is given to the higher levels of prices and the lower potentialities of the dollar which have occurred in the last few years, but the average yearly gains of the local bank deposits in the first years following 1914 were proportionately as great as they have been of recent years, the conditions at all periods being considered. Probably the greatest influences affecting this growth of wealth in the last four years have been the tremendous yearly increase in population and industry and the inflow of outside capital.

Following are statistical tables showing the condition of business in Los Angeles during the month just passed:

An Advertisement to People Who Don't Know Us

To establish confidence is the first and principal requisite of the dealer in securities who seeks to interest new clients. Confidence, however, cannot be forced. It comes in the last analysis only from deservingness.

We believe we have the confidence of those who know us, in an unusual degree.

If, as is so frequently stated, it is more important to the investor where he buys than what he buys, we can render you a genuine service; not so much perhaps in what we may sell you as in what we will not sell you.

It is on this basis that we ask your good-will and, when opportunity offers, your patronage.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The stock market was under continuous selling pressure today, traders paying little attention to improved industrial conditions, easier money rates and the buoyancy of foreign exchange.

These factors were counterbalanced in a measure by reports adversely affecting Mexican oil properties and the increased weakness of sugar and tobacco shares, due to their more doubtful dividend status.

Leaders were freely offered from the outset, but became especially heavy in the final hour. Mexican Petroleum made an extreme decline of 6 points. Pan-Americans were increasingly heavy and seasoned rails, steels, equipments and motors lost 1 to 3 points.

Among specialties losses of 1 to 7 points were sustained by Sumatra Tobacco preferred, Columbia Graphophone preferred, International Nickel preferred, Pierce-Arrow preferred and Kresge, the latter losing more than half of yesterday's 13¾-point rise. Sales amounted to 575,000 shares.

Call money was abundant on the flow of funds from interior sources, the rate declining from 5 to 4½ per cent at midday on the exchange, while outside loans were contracted on a 4 per cent basis.

Authoritative surveys of the steel and iron trade indicated further expansion of pig iron production and corresponding increase of manufactured materials by leading mills, including the United States Steel Corporation. The copper market also hardened on the foreign demand for metal.

In its broader aspects the sharp rise of international remittances was the most significant development of the day. The British rate of 3.77 1-4 for demand, showed a gain of 3 cents in the pound and continental bills were higher by 4 to 20 points. Drachmas or Greek exchange was the only striking exception, losing from 26 to 35 points on that country's further military reverses.

Liberty and Victory bonds again were heavily dealt in, mostly at gains, exceptions being the Liberty 3½s and Victory 4¾s. Other domestic issues were irregular, but internationals were firm. Total sales, par value, $17,250,000.

Risk vs. Return

The Return should be in proportion to the Risk.

Or, expressed in another way, if the Risk is large, the investment yield should be large.

When the disparity between these important factors is great, the investment is a "Poor Risk"; quite irrespective of whether or not it is paid at maturity.

A Banker may succeed in collecting a Note shortly before the Maker becomes bankrupt. That the Note was paid does not alter the case; the Note (Commercial Paper,) was a Poor Risk, while the Banker was lucky.

This is true of all investments. If the Risk is large and the Return insufficient, the Investor has not had a "run for his money"—he was not adequately compensated for the hazards he assumed.

It requires specialized skill to measure "Risks" in order to know what the Return should be.

"Successful investing is a difficult problem. Competent disinterested advice is helpful."

Wheat Market in Poor Shape; Prices Decline.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Grain prices declined to the lowest of the season for all deliveries with a demoralized tone and condition all around, especially wheat. Hedging pressure was on in all grains with wheat feeling the most effect and after numerous fluctuations within a wide range closed 2¾ lower. Corn and oats also were under pressure more than wheat, although they ended at about the low points of the day with losses of 2@2¼ with December leading, while oats lost ¾@1. Rye was 1¼@2¼ lower.

Depressing influences predominated, all grain markets during the day with Winnipeg in the lead in wheat. Outside there at one time showing a drop of 5 cents. The Canadian and American wheat markets are working closer together and the pressure of hedging sales from Winnipeg and the American Northwest is too heavy for buyers to hold up. There was a decline of 4@4¼ from the previous day's close with December down by 1.11¼ and May to 1.14¾. Numerous rallies of 1@1¾ occurred mainly on short covering. Liquidation and stop order selling was at the heaviest factor while the principal buying was in taking profits on previous sales. There was also a little new investment buying on the extreme break by a few local professionals and buying by houses with eastern seaboard connections.

News was of a depressing character and supporting features were practically absent. From the export business, which encompassed 2,000,000 bushels at the last, which included 600,000 bushels Manitobas and 400,000 bushels American with two cargoes from the Pacific Coast, failed to have any effect as it came at the close. Sales were reported in Argentina and Australia drop prospects were said to be favorable.

Cash prices were generally lower with Omaha the weakest of all markets, with a loss of 3 to 7 cents, while Kansas City was off 1 to 6 cents on dark hard with part of the wheat unsold.

Cash houses and local traders sold corn fairly freely while Wright, who has been on the selling side of wheat, was practically a continuous buyer. Futures declined to new low levels with the December and May 64¾@64¾ for May with the close on a basis of 1@1¼. Increasing complaints of dampness in the crop are coming in daily and cover a wider territory and are attracting attention. Receipts 470 cars.

A large part of the trading was in selling in December and buying May at 40@44¾ differences. Northwestern houses did the reverse on a large scale at 4¼. There was heavy selling of December around 35¾ depressing it to 35¾, the lowest of the season so far. After the pressure was removed an advance of ¾ was made and entirely lost at the last. Receipts were 77 cars.

Rye was under pressure from local and Northwestern interests with an absence of support and the close around the low point with December 89 at the last. Nothing was heard of export business. A better demand existed for barley with 6000 bushels sold on the floor.

WORRIED LONGS QUIT THE COTTON MARKET.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—There was continuance of yesterday's downward movement in the cotton market today due to further liquidation by disgusted outside longs, combined with scattered new short selling by Wall-street interests and hedge pressure from the South. It was not difficult to say that the market was affected by the heaviness of securities and by talk of the market being heavily overbought.

Initial sales were 5 to 25 points net lower and the opening level proved to be the highest of the session, prices increasing constantly after the call. Before the first hour came to a conclusion the market was 35 to 60 points under Tuesday's close with December off to 19.75, sixty points lower. In the second hour prices advanced 10 to 15 points from the early lows but the market was unsettled and nervous generally reflecting the ruling uncertainty in speculative and trade circles. About the middle of the day the market was about 30@35 points net lower and rather quiet.

A renewal of the decline in the afternoon brought contract prices down 70@80 points from the preceding close, but a slight rally in the latter session brought closing prices up slightly from the day's low.

PRICE TREND DOWNWARD UNDER DULL TRADING.

CAULIFLOWER, LETTUCE AND PEAS ALL DECLINE; ORANGES STRONGER.

Although trading was light on the local produce market yesterday, owing to weather conditions, prices did not for most commodities and there were few changes noted during the day. Increasing supplies of cauliflower, lettuce and peas caused prices to weaken for these commodities. Peas of good quality were selling to retailers as low as 10 to 11 cents per pound, as compared with 12 to 15 cents the preceding day.

Grapes were also down slightly. Arrivals were heavy, and the demand was limited, with the result that most varieties showed a decline of about 1 cent per pound. Figs also slumped, selling at 60 to 75 cents per box.

Potatoes dropped about 10 cents per hundred, on account of the heavy accumulation of supplies. Demand was light, and the entire trade is heavy. The greatest weakness is shown by the choice stock, which has been barred in supply during the past few days, the fancy offerings being comparatively light in arrival. Idaho potatoes are now appearing on the market, three cars being reported yesterday. These are the first of the season.

Fancy packed creamery were higher yesterday, owing to the scarcity of the better grades. Special brands were selling to retailers at $0.70 to $0.50 per pound.

Closing the Gap in Bank Protection

AS essential to the safe conduct of Banking as bolts and bars and chilled steel vaults, is that intangible circle of insurance protection which guards against loss from all directions. But there has been a gap in that circle.

From no American Company has a Bank previously been able to obtain insurance to protect it from the dangerous and costly depredations of the forger and check manipulator.

The Fidelity and Deposit Company has closed the gap. It now issues a BANKERS' BLANKET FORGERY AND ALTERATION POLICY which secures a Bank against this hazard.

The Fidelity and Deposit Company again demonstrates its desire to SERVE. In placing a Bankers' Blanket Forgery and Alteration Policy at the disposal of Bankers, it is actuated by the belief that its prosperity lies in meeting the needs of its Banker clients.

The F & D Bankers' Blanket Forgery and Alteration Policy supplies adequate protection at a reasonable cost to any Bank—the resources and reputation of the Company stand behind it.

GLAD WORDS

Flooding the Fosters From

OPTIMO WINNERS

You can't blame Optimo Unit owners for being riotously happy. They showed a little nerve, they put up their money and they WON.

They now own—yes, OWN, with all that the word actually means—a perpetual, indivisable, non-assessable interest in a 800-BARREL WELL!

In their letters they are saying some mighty nice things about the way the Fosters handled Optimo—the speed, good judgment and fair play shown—all of which is deeply appreciated. AND A LOT OF THEM WANT A CHANCE AT ANOTHER FOSTER OFFERING.

And we are very glad to say that they can have it. The new Foster offering is completely described—

In the Ad Below—Read It!

Just 25 Dollars

The INTRODUCTORY Price of Units in Foster's

TEXAN

We are out to make a whirlwind success of TEXAN, our new Stephens County, Texas, three-well syndicate—and we propose to share that success at the modest price of $25 per unit with all those who get their money down fast.

There are 6000 TEXAN units. The starting-out price is $25 each

But It Will Advance Just as sure as T-E-X-A-N spells Texan

Optimo has made us optimistic—TEXAN certainly justifies the strongest hopes. The TEXAN Syndicate controls 100 acres, divided among three 50-50 lease holds of the choicest acreage the Fosters could buy in that choicest of all Texas Fields—Breckenridge.

There are now three wells actually started on TEXAN'S acreage. One has passed the 1800-foot level—the others are being pushed with all possible speed.

All around are big steady producers—Bend, Fensland, Parker, Finley, Optimo, our own splendid success, is a near neighbor of TEXAN. And that $25 buys you real ownership in this wonderful property. It buys you a perpetual non-assessable interest in all the oil that TEXAN receives from all its wells.

Judge what that may mean, from what it means to owners of Optimo. Optimo with one well is paying at the rate of $200 a year on every unit. TEXAN may easily double or treble that with three wells started and room for seven more.

Remember, $25 is the starting-out price — and we are just about through starting. Get your money down for TEXAN units NOW.

Mail this coupon if you want complete information on Texan.

Send me your booklet "The Golden Sands of Texas" — the complete story of TEXAN.

FINANCIAL AND TRADE REVIEW.

UNITED OIL.

The October dividend of the United Oil Company was passed at a recent meeting of the board of directors. It was decided that sound business principles dictated this move, as the income of the company has been temporarily stopped on account of the oil strike in Kern and Ventura counties. The company's statement shows a good financial position at present. Cash on hand, bonds, and accounts receivable from the sale of oil are now available to the amount of $125,000. The company is continuing to receive some income from production and royalties not affected by the strike.

LOS ANGELES STOCKS.

Several local bank stocks made distinct and heavy gains on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday in contrast to the industrial list which suffered an almost general relapse. Some of the losers, among the industrial shares were California Packing Corporation, which fell off 1¾ points to 65. Goodyear, preferred, which dropped one point to 60, and Goodyear Textile, which lost half a point.

Title Insurance stock gained twenty-five points in the bidding, going to 150. Considerable selling of Union of California was in evidence at 119, a decline of one point from Tuesday. Willis H. Booth Tells Bank Men to Scan the World.

Says Europe's Restoration is Today's Vital Necessity.

United States Cannot Evade its Duty to Give Aid.

Willis H. Booth, vice-president of the Security Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles, now a resident of New York, where he is vice-president of the Guaranty Trust Company, was unable, by reason of the death of his mother in Berkeley Tuesday, to be here to present his contribution to the convention, but a paper prepared by him was read to the trust company division at its meeting at the Ambassador yesterday afternoon by Francis H. Sisson, chairman of the committee on publicity and also a vice-president of the Guaranty.

Mr. Booth addressed himself to "The Need for a World-wide Vision." He said that for three centuries after the first fringe of civilization was flung along our eastern shore we looked to Europe for help in developing this great land. But, as we conquered the vast wilderness and ever pushed farther westward, our vision increasingly turned inward rather than outward.

"By 1903, the internal commerce of the United States exceeded in magnitude the total international commerce of the world. By the end of 1908, the railways of this country exceeded the mileage of those of all Europe. The conquest of the wilderness was accomplished," he said.

"Today, despite the fact that the United States is far from fully developed, we command the pre-eminent economic place among all nations. With national wealth estimated at $308,000,000,000 and with a national annual income of $60,000,000,000, we are the wealthiest nation in the world, and in all history.

"The combined resources of our banks, exclusive of the Federal reserve banks, exceed those of all other banks of the world combined.

"Yet, we stand on only the threshold of our possibilities. We must continue on the path of development.

"Our foreign trade policies must be constructive. We can no longer look with comparative indifference upon our exports as comprising too small a part of our total trade to be a matter of serious concern when they fall off.

"It is of great importance to discuss such questions as these on the Pacific Coast, as the war has unquestionably made the Pacific the ocean of the future."

FINANCIAL SAFETY IS PREDICTED.

FAIL TO LOCATE MISSING MARIAN.

Officers Seek Woman Gone From Santa Ana Hotel.

Tom Mix to Attend Boy Scout Entertainment.

Oil Worker Falls From Forty-Foot Derrick.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Oct. 5. — Where is Miss Marian Roberts of Hollywood?

The question is occupying the attention of local police authorities today, following her unexplained disappearance. Miss Roberts, according to report, registered at Saint Ann's Inn Friday, stating that she was a school inspector, and then disappeared, leaving a fur coat and some light baggage in her room. When she had not been seen for a few days, hotel authorities consulted her relatives at Orange and the school authorities, to no avail, and then informed the police. The young woman is described as about 30 years old, brown hair, light complexion and very plainly dressed.

TOM IS COMING.

Bob White and Bob Gilbert, members of Santa Ana Boy Scout troops, were jubilant today and informed their troop-mates that Tom Mix, Los Angeles film star, will be present at the Orange county Boy Scout rodeo to be held in Santa Ana Friday night.

The two scouts visited the Mix studios yesterday, were granted an interview with the star, and he consented to come, making the boys' hearts glad. All scout troops of the county will participate in the rodeo, and a downtown street will be roped off for the event.

OIL WORKER INJURED.

Falling forty feet from an oil derrick, in the Placentia oil field, Walter B. Hyde received injuries which probably will prove fatal, and little hope for his recovery was held out today at the Anaheim Hospital.

Hyde, an employee of the G. & L. lease, fell on his hands and knees, breaking both arms and inflicting serious injuries to his back.

STUDENTS EXPELLED.

Booze in Punch at School Party Cause of Trouble.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Oct. 5.—Several boys have been expelled from Ventura Union High School by H. O. Wise, principal. It is charged that the boys in question brought liquor to the senior-freshmen reception, an annual event attended not only by the students and faculty but by the parents as well.

It is alleged that some of the liquor found its way into the punch bowl from which all the dancers were served. There has been widespread indignation over the occurrence and it was severely condemned by Rev. J. D. Habbick at his sermon in the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

The boys involved say they thought it was only a joke and that the liquor was a harmless variety of home brew. Their connection with the student body has been severed definitely.

Ssven to Explain to Judge. Manager Names Assistant. Other Long Beach News.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Oct. 5. — Seven Pike cider merchants were named in complaints issued this afternoon by Justice W. S. Brayton. They are charged with violating the State Food and Drug Act. Affidavits were sworn to by Milton Duffy, State food and Drug Inspector for this district.

The complaints were issued following the recent analysis of cider sold on the Pike and Silver Spray Pier. The State Chemist, it is said, found the cider to contain approximately 7 per cent alcohol, in many instances. Those named in the complaints are W. J. Graham, T. Daily, Woody Higgins, D. Vincent, Frank Swanson, E. H. Hirby, John Hegan.

IS MADE ASSISTANT.

Walter Barber, City Purchasing Agent, will be named Assistant City Manager as soon as that position is created, it was reported in City Hall circles today. The routine duties of the City Manager have become so numerous that the municipal administration has decided for the good of the service an assistantship should be created, it is said.

Members of the Los Angeles County Medical Association will banquet at Hotel Virginia Thursday evening. More than 200 reservations have been made for the dinner. Drs. F. M. Mikels and B. Von Wedelstaedt compose the local committee in charge of the program.

WIFE IS LOYAL.

Aids Husband Accused of Taking Young Girl From Home.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 5.—Archie L. Blake of Corona, charged with kidnaping and abducting 16-year-old Marguerite Jacobs of Corona, on September 6, last, was bound over to the Superior Court under $5000 bonds at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing in Justice Hibbard's court this afternoon.

The testimony of the girl, which occupied the court until noon, was to the effect that she accompanied Blake through fear, stopping with him in cheap apartments on the Coast and in New York.

Blake, she said, threatened her life and persuaded her to believe that in case she returned to her home her parents would have her imprisoned for her conduct. Blake's wife was with him in court and continues loyal to him.

Blake went to Sacramento and brought home the automobile in which the couple fled from Corona, and on the return of the couple from the East, sought to have the parents of the girl drop the case.

Water Company Asks Higher Rate—Burglars at Pomona—Other News.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, Oct. 5.—Placing the value of the property and equipment of the Consolidated Water Company of Pomona at $761,887.19, a physical survey of the assets of the company has been made by Engineer Willis S. Jones and a copy has been filed in the office of the Mayor.

The survey is to be used as evidence in the hearing scheduled for October 27 before the State Railroad Commission on the application of the company for permission to increase the water rates in this city.

BURGLARS VISIT HOME.

Valuables worth $125 were taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whitman at 720 North Gordon street last night by a burglar who entered the house while the occupants were in Claremont. On their return, a few hours later, evidence of the burglary was noticed by the disarrangement of the bureaus and trunks.

A string of gold beads, a mackinaw and an overcoat were the most valuable things taken. Police could find no trace of the intruder.

POULTRYMEN MEET.

E. G. Hogsett and C. W. Norton of this city were speakers this afternoon at the meeting of the Pomona Valley Poultry Breeders Association at the library. The egg-laying contest now in progress has stimulated interest in the poultry business and a large number of poultrymen were present at the meeting.

FLOOD CONTROL.

With one-third of the cubic yardage of the big dam already in work on the $500,000 San Dimas Canyon flood control project is progressing satisfactorily and the engineers in charge of the work predict that the dam will be completed early next spring.

Enough of the dam has already been built to insure the control of a large amount of water during the coming year. Plans are now under way to provide temporary gates in the lower part of the dam so that the unfinished project will serve as a check on the storm waters.

REDLANDS STAGES BIG TRADE SHOW.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Oct. 5.—The merchants of Redlands have completed plans for a trade exposition which will be held for a week, beginning on October 23 and ending on November 5. An immense tent will be pitched on the Southern Pacific grounds just west of the passenger station, and practically every merchant in the city will make a display.

Southern California products from the manufacturers of the south are to be featured in the exhibit. The exposition will be in charge of the merchants, and space will be given for both local merchants and manufacturers' exhibits.

There will be programs of music and vaudeville given in the tent each afternoon and evening, and other features to make the display doubly attractive to the public. It is the first exposition of the kind to ever be given here.
